General Statement.

Georgetown University consists of the COLLEGE, the SCHOOL OF MEDICINE, the SCHOOL OF LAW and the SCHOOL OF DENTAL SURGERY. The College, however, comprises in itself three distinct departments, viz: The Graduate School, the Undergraduate School, and the Observatories. Each School or Department is under the direction of its own Dean, and each Faculty has the power of legislating on its own affairs, but this power can be exercised only in subordination to the President and Directors of the University, and subject to their approval.

HISTORY.

The foundation of Georgetown College was projected as early as the year 1785, when the Rev. John Carroll, afterwards the first Archbishop of Baltimore, formed the plan and proposed it to his associates.

On November 13, 1786, the Corporation of Roman Catholic Clergymen, in the Chapter held at Whitemarsh, Md., adopted a series of "Resolves Concerning the Institution of a School," in which it ordered that a School should be erected at Georgetown, Md., and directed the sale of a piece of land belonging to the corporation, in order that the proceeds might be applied to the erection of the first building. Rev. Messrs. John Carroll, James Pellenz, Robert Molyneux, John Ashton, and Leonard Neale were appointed Directors.

Shortly afterwards an appeal was issued, entitled "Proposals to Establish an Academy at Georgetown, Potowmack River, Maryland." In this circular it was stated that "Agreeably to the liberal Principle of our Constitution, the Seminary will be open to students of Every Religious Profession." In 1788 the erection of the first building was undertaken; yet 1789 is commonly considered the year of the foundation of the College, as the deed of the original piece of ground was dated January 23d in that year. Students were not received before 1791. Upon the reorganization of the Society of Jesus in Maryland, in 1805, the Georgetown College, as it had already begun to be called, was transferred to the Fathers of that Society, under whose control and direction the University still remains.

An act of Congress, dated March 1, 1815, reads as follows:

“AN ACT

“CONCERNING THE COLLEGE OF GEORGETOWN IN THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA:

“Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That it shall and may be lawful for such persons as now are, or from time to time may be, the President and Directors of the College of Georgetown, within the District of Columbia, to admit any of the students belonging to said College, or other persons meriting academical honors, to any degree in the faculties, arts, sciences, and liberal professions, to which persons are usually admitted in other Colleges or Universities of the United States; and to issue in an appropriate form the diplomas or certificates which may be requisite to testify to the admission to such degree.

“LANGDON CHEEVES,

“Speaker of the House of Representatives.

“JOHN GAILLARD,

“President pro tempore of the Senate.

“Approved March 1, 1815.

“JAMES MADISON.”

Two years later the power of granting degrees, thus acquired, was first exercised.

On March 30, 1833, the Holy See empowered Georgetown College to confer, in its name, degrees in Philosophy and Theology.

The next step in the development of the College was the erection and equipment of a complete Astronomical Observatory in 1842; and in the following year the formal incorporation of the institution was effected by Congress in the following act:

“AN ACT

“TO INCORPORATE GEORGETOWN COLLEGE, IN THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA :

“Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That there be erected in Georgetown, in the District of Columbia, a college for the instruction of youth in the liberal arts and sciences, the name, style, and title of which shall be, ‘The President and Directors of Georgetown College.’

SEC. 2. And be it further enacted, That James Ryder, Thomas Lilly, Samuel Barber, James Curley, and Anthony Rey, be, and they are hereby declared to be, a body politic and corporate with perpetual succession in deed or in law to all intents and purposes whatsoever, by name, style and title of ‘The President and Directors of Georgetown College,’ by which name and title they and their successors shall be competent, at law and in equity, to take to themselves and their successors, for the use of said College, any estate whatsoever, in any messuage, lands, tenements, hereditaments, goods, chattels, moneys, and other effects, by gifts, bequests, devise, grant, donations, bargain, sale, conveyance, assurance, or will; and the same to grant, bargain, sell, transfer, assign, convey, assure, devise, declare to use and farm let, and to place out on interest for the use of said College, in such manner as to them, or a majority of them, shall be deemed most beneficial to said institution; and to receive the same, their rents, issues and profits, income and interest, and to apply the same for the proper use and benefit of the said College; and by the same name to sue and be sued, to implead, be impleaded in any courts of law and equity in all manner of suits, actions, and proceedings whatsoever, and generally by and in the same name to do and transact all and every the business touching or concerning the premises, Provided, That the same do not exceed the value of $50,000 net annual income, over and above and exclusive of the receipts for the education and support of the students of said College.

“SEC. 3. And be it further enacted, That the said corporation shall adopt a common seal, under and by which all deeds, diplomas and acts of said college or corporation shall pass and be authenticated, and the same seal, at their pleasure, to break and alter, or devise a new one,

"SEC. 4. And be it further enacted, That no misnomer of the said corporation shall defeat or annul any donation, gift, grant, devise or bequest to or from the said corporation.

"SEC. 5. And be it further enacted, That the said corporation shall not employ its fund or income, or any part thereof, in banking operations, or for any purpose or object other than those expressed in the first section of this act; and that nothing in this act contained shall be so construed as to prevent Congress from altering, amending, or repealing the same.

"J. W. JONES,

"Speaker of the House of Representatives.

"WILLIE P. MANGUM,

"President pro tempore of the Senate.

"Approved June 10, 1844.

"JOHN TYLER.

"I certify that the above is a true copy from the original act in this department.

"Department of State, November 22, 1844.

"J. C. CALHOUN, Secretary."

The School of Medicine was opened in 1851, and the School of Law in 1870. The Graduate School was in existence as early as 1856, in which year it comprised four resident graduates. The University Hospital was opened in 1898 and the training school for nurses in 1903. In 1901 the first session of the Dental School was held. In 1909 the Seismic Station was erected.

LOCATION AND EXTRINSIC ADVANTAGES.

In its location at the Capital of the nation, Georgetown University enjoys advantages which can hardly be overestimated and which must necessarily increase with the growth of the country. Not only is the city, free as it is from noise, dirt and distracting surroundings of a great commercial center, most favorable to the tranquil and earnest pursuit of study, but it has an unparalleled educational equipment in the great scientific collections and libraries of the Government. By the authority of Congress all such facilities for research and illustration in the Governmental collections are made accessible to the scientific investigators and students of institutions of higher learning in the District of Columbia.

This provision applies to the Library of Congress, the National Museum, the Patent Office, the Bureau of Education, the Bureau of Ethnology, the Army Medical Museum, the Department of Agriculture, the Fish Commission, the Botanical Gardens, the Coast and Geodetic Survey, the Geological Survey, the Naval Observatory, several hospitals and other departments supplied with special libraries, laboratories and equipment for research. The administration of these bureaus brings together a large corps of scientific workers, and has already made Washington the great scientific as well as political center of the country. One consequence of these conditions is that the scientific societies are numerous and flourishing. Even the presence of the National Government, with its executive, legislative and judicial machinery, is a most powerful agent of education; to be familiar as a matter of daily observation with the workings of the House of Representatives, the Senate, the Supreme Court and the Administration is a privilege and a training which can not be found elsewhere.

Of all these extrinsic facilities, the various Faculties of Georgetown University make full use, and among her instructors are found not a few of the eminent scholars and scientific men employed in the technical service of the Government. Her students meet with a cordial reception and careful assistance in their work in the various libraries, museums and scientific bureaus.

To the advantages enumerated above is added the atmosphere of study and research engendered by the presence of the many universities of which Washington is rapidly becoming the seat.

NEEDS OF THE UNIVERSITY.

The ordinary source of income for the University are the fees of the students. During her history she has received donations greater or less in amount, but with all these her present equipment of buildings and educational apparatus has been acquired only by incurring a considerable debt. Even this much could not have been effected, had not the President and Directors, as well as the other Fathers, the Scholastics, and Lay Brothers of the Society of Jesus, given their services to the University without compensation. Under the present administration every effort is being made to diminish this debt. It is hoped that it may be steadily decreased until it is extinguished, so that after that the students' fees may be used entirely to meet the running expenses of the University, and that thus our financial affairs may be put upon a better financial basis.

The more pressing needs of the University are the following:

1. New and more commodious buildings for the Medical, Dental and Law Schools in the immediate vicinity of the College.
2. The extinction of the debt of the Medical School, and the foundation of professional chairs.
3. The extinction of the debt of the Georgetown University Hospital.
4. The foundation of a practical School of Technology to consist at the beginning of at least a School of Civil Engineering, a School of Mechanical Engineering, and a School of Electrical Engineering. This would involve the purchase of ground for the School in the immediate neighborhood of the College, the erection of buildings, the foundation of professorships, and the provision of technological apparatus. Although it is generally known that such a School is not in existence at Georgetown, applications for such instruction are received every year.

5. The erection of a new dormitory building for students of the Law, Medical and Dental Departments.

6. The completion of the Observatory Equipment, and the foundation of a working fund for the Observatory Staff.

7. The foundation of a salary fund for the Physical Director of the Ryan Gymnasium.

8. Funds for the long contemplated and desired removal of the Preparatory School to a place separated from the college.

9. Funds for the completion of the Faculty Building, including a new infirmary for the Faculty and Students. The Faculty now occupy a large part of the present infirmary. On the completion of the Faculty Building with a new infirmary, the present infirmary would be entirely free for the occupation of the students and would be well suited for housing the students of the Junior Section of the Preparatory School until such time as it can be removed to another place.

10. Funds to erect a central heating plant for the college. There are now four independent heat centers. Marked economy would result from such a central heating plant.

All bequests should be made to the "President and Directors of Georgetown College in the District of Columbia."

The College.

Georgetown College constitutes one of the four greater divisions of Georgetown University, viz : The College, the Medical Schools, the Law School and the Dental School. The College, however, comprises within itself three distinct departments ; the Graduate School, the Undergraduate School and the Astronomical Observatory.

SITE AND SURROUNDINGS.

Georgetown College is situated on Georgetown Heights, twenty minutes ride from the White House overlooking the city of Washington and the Potomac River, and commanding one of the noblest views in the world. The site is healthful, and the climate mild.

The College buildings are nine in number: 1. The Infirmary. 2. The Faculty Building. 3. The Ryan Hall. 4. The Maguire Building. 5. The Healey Building. 6. The North Building. 7. The Ryan Gymnasium. 8. The Dahlgren Chapel. 9. The Observatory. They present an aggregate frontage of about twelve hundred feet. They are surrounded by grounds comprising seventy-eight acres, a large part of which is occupied by the "Walks," whose woodland scenery has made them famous.

ACCOMODATIONS.

There is a large number of private rooms at the disposal of the students, distributed among the following buildings: The Healey Building, Old North Building, Ida M. Ryan Hall, Maguire Building and Mulledy Building. The rooms are all simply furnished, and supplied with heat and light.

None but graduates are allowed to board outside of the collegiate premises, unless with immediate relatives.

In the Healey Building the first, second and third floors are devoted to class-rooms. The College Parlors, the Coleman Museum, the Philodemic Hall and the Gaston Hall are located in the North Pavilion; the Archive Room, the Hirst Reading Room, and the Riggs Library are in the South Pavilion. The fourth and fifth floors are taken up by the students' rooms of which there are fifty-two, facing east and west.

In the Old North Building the first floor contains the Senior Lecture Room and students' living rooms. The second and third floors are occupied by students' rooms.

The Ida M. Ryan Hall, the splendid gift of Mrs. Thomas F. Ryan, contains the Students' Dining Room and living rooms for students. There are suites of rooms, facing the Potomac, which consist of a study room and two bedrooms opening into a private bath. On each floor there are single rooms, facing east or west, and double rooms facing the Potomac, and facing north and opening on the college quadrangle. The rooms are furnished with desk, chairs, wardrobe, chiffonier, washstand, bed and bedding.

Heat, light and service are supplied for all the students' rooms. The charges for rental of these rooms are given under heading of "Fees and Expenses" on another page.

GENERAL CONSPECTUS OF STUDIES.

The course of studies at Georgetown is carefully and logically graded throughout. The aim of the course is to give the student a complete general and liberal education, which will train and develop all powers of the mind, and will cultivate no one faculty to an exaggerated degree at the expense of the others. It is intended, too, to impart the broadest possible culture, together with accuracy in scholarship. To attain this end, during the Undergraduate period the course is arranged to train the student in the Arts of Poetry, Literary Criticism and Oratorical Rhetoric, using the Greek and Latin Classics as the basis of instruction together with such of the English Classics as lend themselves to comparative work, the Art of Logic and the Sciences of Rational and Natural Philosophy, to-wit, Metaphysics and Ethics, Mathematics, Mechanics, Physics and Chemistry, giving at the same time the accessory information contained in Geology, the History of Christendom and the History of English literature; and finally adding the accomplishment of one other Modern Language. Hereby it is hoped to develop the faculties of accurate observation and exact expression, logical reasoning and aesthetic taste, of conservative theorizing and imaginative invention, of a sure grasp of the meaning of language, of a power of expression that is creative, convincing and a motive to human action, a familiarity with the canons of classic utterance from the models of antiquity such as will help the students to measure up their own speech and composition to the best of critical taste. All this is supplemented by the foundations of such information and finish as become a youth of nascent culture and Christian manhood.

The exacting and comprehensive nature of this course may fitly form a subject for comment. It is believed that its requirements are seldom equalled. As an indication of the labor demanded for the successful completion of the course, it may be stated that the amount of time spent in class by all the students varies from twenty to twenty-five hours weekly. To prepare for these classes and recitations, obligatory study for about twenty-three hours per week is exacted. Moreover, students who aim at a high standing, spend much time in study in addition to that which is of obligation.

It is presumed that a man of fair capacity who has conscientiously followed this curriculum under capable professors will be possessed of trained and cultivated faculties, and will have a considerable amount of positive knowledge in every department of learning. He will thus be in touch and intelligent sympathy with progress in every field of intellectual activity, and be saved as far as possible from narrowness and superficiality. Such an education serves, it is believed, as the best foundation for special training in any branch which the student, with his mind now mature and disciplined, may decide to take up.

It has been the experience of a century or more at Georgetown that a careful training in the classic languages of Latin and Greek have resulted in the development of the mental faculties of the student. It has yet to be demonstrated that there has been found an adequate substitute of equal educational power. Nay, it has been openly confessed that the omission of the classical languages as a substantial part of a college curriculum has resulted disastrously for liberal education.

METHOD OF INSTRUCTION.

One of the most essential necessities for success in educational work is the possession of natural, thorough and effective methods of teaching. It is necessary, too, that these methods should be uniform in spirit throughout the school, employed equally by all teachers under whom the student may come. In this respect Georgetown enjoys peculiar advantages. Her teaching is guided by the principles laid down in the famous Ratio Studiorum. This body of rules and suggestions has been elaborated by centuries of experience, and has been judged worthy of attentive study and hearty approbation by the greatest scholars. It is a noteworthy fact that many of the recently devised methods of teaching, such as the Natural, the Inductive and similar plans, are in reality merely repetitions of the devices recommended long ago in the Ratio Studiorum.

A little careful reflection will justify the traditional training in the liberal arts of grammar, poetics and rhetoric, the sciences of mathematics, mechanics, physics and chemistry, with systematic rational philosophy, as the proper means to accomplish the above development of a student's mental faculties to fullness of adolescent power.

DEPARTMENT OF PHYSICS.

The Department of Physics occupies the ground and first floors of the Maguire Building. A corridor runs through the center of the first floor dividing it into equal parts. Facing the quadrangle on the north is a spacious lecture room, the rooms on the south side being devoted to work shops. On the ground floors are the cabinet and a well-arranged laboratory for the use of the students.

DEPARTMENT OF CHEMISTRY.

The Chemistry Department is situated on the ground floor of the Healey Building and consists of a lecture room and two laboratories. The lecture room is well equipped with all the necessary instruments to demonstrate by experiment the principles given in the lectures. In the two laboratories each student is assigned a desk for his individual work; each desk is fitted with drawer and locker and independent drainage and water and gas supply, while all the necessary chemicals and apparatus are at hand.

BIOLOGY.

The nucleus of a biological collection exists in the college, consisting of a collection of birds, fishes, shells and plants, together with biological charts and skeletons. At present biology is not a course required by the Bachelor's Degree, but when circumstances warrant it provision will be made for courses in biology.

THE COLEMAN MUSEUM.

As early as the year 1840 the collections in Natural History under the care of Fathers James Curley and T. Meredith Jenkins, had become sufficiently extensive to warrant the setting apart of a special room for their preservation and exhibition. Here they remained until 1889, when prior to the Centenary Celebration, they were transferred to their present quarters.

in the north pavilion of the main building. To this hall, by decree of the Faculty, was given the name of James V. Coleman, '69, in acknowledgment of his distinguished benefactions to the College. It is a large, well lighted room, fitted with cases of cherry wood.

The various collections have been rearranged and displayed and a complete catalogue of the Museum prepared.

Particular attention has been given to the mineral collection, which embraces specimens illustrating the entire field of Mineralogy. Besides the exhibition series, numbering about three thousand specimens, there is a working collection carefully determined and arranged in drawers for the convenience of the classes. A feature of this department is the collection of minerals found in the District of Columbia by Mr. John W. Langdale, and presented by him to the Museum. The collection contains many species not previously known to exist in this locality. Mr. Langdale has also donated several hundred specimens to the general collection, and has always placed at the disposal of the Curator his rare skill as a mineralogist.

In Geology and Paleontology, likewise, there are excellent collections, the rocks and fossils, arranged stratigraphically, occupying an entire row of double cases. Notable among the latter is the unusual number of specimens of the remains of vertebrates, many collected in Alaska. A special building is needed for the proper display of the articles in the museum, which is now overcrowded.

THE ART AND HISTORICAL COLLECTIONS.

The College possesses a valuable collection of works of art, and a number of Maryland Colonial relics. It has long been the wish of the Faculty to increase these collections and give them the prominence they deserve.

Among the paintings are several works of merit by ancient and modern masters, two mosaic pictures of great beauty and value, several busts in marble or bronze, an admirable portrait of the Founder of the College, Archbishop John Carroll, painted by Gilbert Stuart, and presented by Judge P. Ord. A full length portrait of Mrs. Henry S. Lehr, painted by Muller Ury, adorns the first parlor.

In the room of the Philodemic Society, which has been newly decorated and furnished, is a series of portraits and photographs of distinguished alumni. It is hoped that they will add to this collection from time to time.

George D. Mackay, Esq., of New York, presented forty-five engravings, mezzotints, coppers, photographs, etc., of unusually large size, collected abroad, and embracing signed Dore, Martins, etc.

William Vincent McGrath, Jr., '87, decorated many of the recitation halls with a gallery of forty-two murillo-tints mounted in highly artistic frames.

THE BEAUCHAMP HUGHES ART CABINET.

The Beauchamp Hughes Art Cabinet, with its rare collection of precious laces, pictures, ancient manuscripts, bronzes, china, and bric-brac, is much admired.

THE RIGGS MEMORIAL LIBRARY.

The liberal spirit of Mr. E. Francis Riggs, of Washington, has furnished the College collection of books with a fitting home, in the South Pavilion. A tablet erected by the Faculty attests the devotion with which the founder dedicated his gift to the memory of his father, the late Mr. George W. Riggs, and his brother, Mr. Thomas Lauranson, once a student of the College.

The central reading room is lighted from the sides and ceiling, and, since the introduction of electricity, is available at all hours. The alcoves are designed to afford shelf-room for 104,000 volumes, and are furnished with comfortable appliances for study and consultation.

The collection of books is estimated at more than 100,000.

Among these are many rare, curious and unique works. One hundred volumes printed between the years 1472 and 1520; three manuscripts anterior to the fifteenth century, and others of later periods, together with a number of fac-similes, such as the Duke de Loubat's splendid reproductions in photo-chromography of Ancient Aztec MSS., interest the visitor.

In the department of Fine Arts, the taste and liberality of the Rev. James J. Chittick, of Hyde Park, Mass., are building up a notable collection of books embracing galleries of paintings, histories and treatises dealing with art and biographies of the great masters.

It will afford librarians and bibliophiles particular pleasure to find in the Riggs, illustrations of many nice points of their specialty in editions, bindings, bookplates, etc. Among the libraries incorporated in it is that of the historian, John Gilmary Shea, LL. D., which is valuable for Americana and Indian languages.

THE RIGGS MEMORIAL LIBRARY EXTENSION.

The accumulation of books in recent years and the prospective growth of the Library made additional space necessary. Accordingly in the course of this summer, Mr. E. Francis Riggs continued his generosity of the past by the creation of a stack in the large hall, sixty by forty feet, situated beneath the main Library. This is calculated to hold seventy thousand volumes. The floor of the new room was strengthened and rendered fireproof by means of reinforced concrete, and a stack of steel and glass with numerous electric lights installed. An ornamental staircase communicates with the Library above.

In this extension are placed the collection of Dr. John Gilmary Shea, rich in Americana, ecclesiastical chronicles and Indian languages, the entire division of History, and what will prove of deep interest, collections pertaining to the history of Georgetown University and the scientific and literary products of its professors and scholars. Moreover it furnishes material.

conveniences and facilities to visiting authors and writers to whom a cordial welcome for consultation and research is always extended; in fact, no better extension could have been contrived as a magnified study for those who wish to delve among the historical treasures of the Library.

THE MORGAN MARYLAND COLONIAL HISTORY ENDOWMENT.

LIBRARIAN: REV. EDWARD I. DEVITT, S. J.

Through the generosity of James Ethelbert Morgan, there has been established a fund for the prosecution of research in Maryland Colonial history and the history of the District of Columbia. The ground floor of the library building is entirely devoted to this work. It contains an archive room which is as strictly fireproof and strong as engineering skill could devise and is large enough to contain the documents of centuries to come. Its present value in authentic papers is incalculable. Old Maryland families who wish to safeguard for future generations their family papers and documents, find our archive room an appropriate and safe place of deposit. Besides the archive room, is an excellent Maryland Colonial Library which is being continually enlarged from the original productive fund and by gifts from those interested in the history of Maryland and the District of Columbia. This room also contains facilities for study and examination of papers and documents.

THE HIRST LIBRARY.

The students of the senior division owe a debt of gratitude to Anthony A. Hirst, LL. D., of Philadelphia. He has had erected the bookstack of oak and iron in the hall of the south pavilion which serves them as their library. This contains about 5,000 volumes selected with the view of furnishing the student with the means of reference as well as entertainment. Combined with it is the reading room in which newspapers from the chief cities of the country, together with the leading reviews and magazines, are kept on file. Both are open to graduate and undergraduate students, subject to a fee, necessary to defray ordinary expenses.

DISCIPLINE.

The discipline in force at Georgetown is paternal. It has in view the safeguarding of those hours of study so necessary to prepare for attendance at class, and the punctual and regular attendance at the various College exercises, which is required to produce that intellectual and moral training which it is Georgetown's aim to impart.

To safeguard their punctual and regular attendance at class and other College exercises hour by hour from the very beginning to the very end of the year is a more difficult matter, but one of the utmost importance. What is learned from the living voice of the teacher is acquired more thoroughly and more completely. The friction of mind with mind in the class room, the work of emulation and work in concert, the proposal of difficult points not explained by the text book and their solution, the repetition in public of the whole lesson are some of the more important agencies at work during the hour of class, which can not be well supplied out of class, and so an hour of class lost is a distinct and in some sense an irreparable loss. And it is not only a loss of mental training, it is a serious menace to the regularity of College discipline. The absence of one suggests, perhaps encourages, the absence of another, and so gradually a noticeable absenteeism arises which enervates regular attendance and discourages the teacher in his efforts to impart knowledge to his whole class. Hence it is that leave of absence from College during term time will never be granted except for the most imperative reasons, on the written request of the parent or guardian with the endorsement of the prefect of studies and the prefect of discipline and at the sole discretion of the President. Parents are earnestly requested to co-operate with us in our work of maintaining regular attendance at class from the very first hour to the very last hour of the year. Hence they are not expected to request that their sons should be exempted from class when they come to visit Washington, nor are they supposed to ask that their sons may go to their homes during term time, except for the most imperative reasons, as mentioned above. There is a special reason why parents should not request that their sons should be absent over Sunday. It is that on Sunday morning the formal religious influence of the college is exerted by means of sermons and sodalities. They are requested to see that their sons return promptly at the beginning of the term, and to insist that they remain to the very end. Should they act otherwise a painful situation is created for the President of the University. His duty to Georgetown requires him not to accede to the request that has been made, and yet this makes him seem to antagonize the parent before his son, and this tends to belittle the parent's authority in his son's eyes. The regulations which have been made for the conduct of athletic sports have only in view the purpose of safeguarding the hours of study and of the hours of class from interruption. It is thought that a student who passes through the discipline above outlined will graduate from Georgetown an educated gentleman disciplined in mind and heart for the business of life.

RELIGIOUS INSTRUCTION.

Religious instruction is considered of the first importance in education, but students not of the Catholic faith are exempt from the instruction given at the College.

Christian Doctrine is one of the regular class recitations, lectures being given in each class. The matter is so divided for the different classes that in the four years of college the student will cover the whole ground of Catholic faith in rational fashion. In addition a weekly instruction of one-half hour is given all the college students together along some line of Christian Morals, so arranged as to give the student a clear understanding of the same before he graduates. A Gold Medal is awarded at the end of the year to the author of the best paper on the matter of these lectures.

Further instruction is given to such as have need of it, or are preparing for the Sacraments. For the development of piety there is a Sodality which meets weekly, and a Georgetown center of the Apostleship of Prayer; while for the promotion of practical charity there is a College Conference of St. Vincent de Paul. All Catholic students are expected to approach the Sacraments at least one a month.

THE CHAPEL OF THE SACRED HEART.

In the College Quadrangle stands the Chapel of the Sacred Heart of Jesus, measuring 109 feet in extreme length, and varying in breadth from 40 to 60 feet. This structure is the generous gift of the wife of an alumnus, Mrs. John Vinton Dahlgren (Mrs. Henry Symes Lehr), nee Elizabeth Drexel. The Chapel was consecrated on Friday, June 9, 1893. Its seating capacity is about 500. The College thus possesses a beautiful edifice, wherein the services of the Church may be performed with fitting solemnity and dignity.

SESSIONS AND HOLIDAYS,

The Academic Year is divided into two terms:

The first term in 1911-1912, will begin September 14, 1911, and will end January 31, 1912.

The Christmas recess begins on December 22nd (11.00 A. M., and ends on January 3rd (6.00 P. M.). The Easter recess extends from Wednesday, in Holy Week, to the Wednesday after Easter.

There is no class on Wednesday and Sunday afternoons, nor on days of general religious or National observance.

The classes begin at 9 A. M. and continue until 12. They are resumed at 1 and continue until 3 P. M., with ten minutes intermission between classes.

EXAMINATIONS AND PROMOTIONS.

A general examination in all classes is held in writing toward the close of each term. Supplementary oral examinations are also exacted.

Promotions ordinarily take place at the beginning of the first term. They will rarely be made at any other time.

AWARDS AND REPORTS.

The prizes, at the Annual Distribution in June, are awarded to those who, by their class exercises during the year and the excellence of their examinations, attain the required number of marks. Absentees are not allowed to make up marks for honors. Students, therefore, who remain at home beyond the period allotted for vacation or recess can not expect to hold distinguished places in their classes, and students who withdraw before the final examinations will not be promoted.

Besides the Annual Distribution of Awards in the Undergraduate School, the Faculty and students are assembled at the beginning of every month, when the marks and standing of the students in their respective classes for the preceding month are publicly proclaimed, and testimonials awarded to those who have attained the prescribed degree of excellence.

Four reports of the standing in class, the progress and general conduct of every student are sent to his parents or guardian every year, to wit: at the end of November, after the mid-year examinations, at the end of April and after the final examinations in June.

Students holding scholarships will complete the course if they fulfill the prescribed conditions.

PRIZES OPEN FOR GENERAL COMPETITION.

These prizes are open to competition only to students of regular classes, whose record in class is over 60 marks monthly.

ACADEMIC COSTUME.

The University cap and gown are worn by the Senior Class of the College, and on the more solemn academic occasions their use is obligatory. All graduates of the University are entitled to wear the complete academic costume, consisting of gown, cap and hood. All members of the Faculty who hold a degree from another institution of learning may wear the hood proper to the corresponding degree of this University.

It is hoped that at all commencements and other gatherings of an academic character this right will be exercised by those possessed of it.

The hood indicates in every case the wearer's degree. The Bachelor's hood is ten inches shorter than the Master's, while the Doctor's hood, of the same length as the Master's is attached to a panel of the same material as that of the hood itself. The department in which the degree was taken is pointed out by the color of the edging, white designating Arts and Sciences; blue, Philosophy; purple, Law; green, Medicine; scarlet, Theology, etc. The interior of the hood is lined with the College colors, blue and gray, in silk.

In the foregoing and all other particulars, the hood adopted by Georgetown follows the intercollegiate agreement.

Graduate School.

The first record of graduate students in residence is found in the catalogue of 1855-6. In that year there were four such students. The catalogue of this year thus describes the course that was pursued: "Students who desire to pursue further the Philosophical course may in a second year apply to Natural Right, which besides a more enlarged course of Ethics will embrace the fundamental principles of Civil, Political and International Right, and a critical history of Philosophy. Natural Philosophy will be continued and embellished by the study of Natural History."

In the year 1905-6 all scholarships in the Graduate School were withdrawn. In the year 1906-7 a rule was adopted that only graduates of colleges whose requirements for the A. B. are substantially the same as those of Georgetown would be received and that graduate students in residence should be subject to the general regulations of undergraduate resident students. Under these conditions, there have been very few suitable candidates for the Graduate School. It is obvious that courses can not be provided and professors supplied unless an adequate number of students matriculate. Hence for the year 1911-12 the following general regulation will be in force: Graduate students desiring to matriculate in the Georgetown University Graduate School must signify their intention to the Prefect of Studies before July 1, 1911.

On August 1, 1911, should the number of those who desire to matriculate warrant it, announcement of the courses to be offered in the Graduate School for 1911-12 will be made to those who have made application to the Prefect of Studies.

The Observatory.

REV. JOHN T. HEDRICK, S. J., Director.

REV. PETER ARCHER, S. J., Assistant.

The Observatory stands on an eminence at a distance of about four hundred yards from the College. The main building is sixty feet long and thirty feet wide, and is divided from east to west into three rooms. The eastern room contains a nine-inch photographic transit instrument, with collimators, by Saegmuller, of Washington. In the western room is mounted a transit instrument, by Ertel & Son, of Munich. It is seven feet long and has four-and-one-half-inch object-glass. The middle part of the Observatory is three stories high, surmounted by a rotary dome eighteen feet in diameter. Here is erected the twelve-inch equatorial.

In the room below the dome is the library containing the observations and other publications of nearly all the observatories in the world.

Under the library is the clock room, with four pendulum clocks and two chronometers, chronograph, and a switchboard from which the electrical connections with all the instruments are made. A special line connects the switchboard with the Western Union telegraph service.

All the instruments and rooms are furnished with electric light. The electrical apparatus of the observatory is worked by a storage battery which is charged from the same current by means of a dynamo and transformer. This new plant was set up in the basement of the observatory by Rev. Richard Martin, S. J.

A separate dome, twelve feet in diameter, on the southwest brow of the hill, shelters the old equatorial, by Trouton & Simms, which has an aperture of nearly five inches.

An extension added to the eastern side of the main building contains an instrument for the determination of the variations of latitude; the photographic zenith telescope.

The nine-inch photographic transit instrument has been provided with a Riefler clock in an air-tight case, the donation of the late Miss Catherine Bruce.

The first experiments have proved this instrument to be of excellent construction.

PUBLICATIONS.

The observations needed for further supplements to the Atlas of Variable Stars are now being made here. The publication of the results must be deferred until a sufficient number of charts has been completed, but the observations have given occasion to a note on the periods of some variables in the Astronomische Nachrichten.

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

The annual publications of the observatories of the world have been received as in former years. Among these the international astographic charts form the most valuable part.

The warmest thanks of the Observatory are tendered to all benefactors and donors.

THE SEISMOLOGICAL OBSERVATORY.

Rev. Francis A. Tondorf, S. J., Director. The seismological observatory, founded through the generosity of Mr. Patrick H. O'Donnell, A. B. '92., A. M. '93., LL. B. '94., of Chicago is located in the South tower of the Healy building. The equipment consists of an astatic horizontal seismograph of the WEICHERT type carrying a stationary mass of 200 Kilos and of a vertical seismograph of the same type. The stationary mass of the latter is 80 Kilos. The time is automatically registered on each of the instruments by a contact clock according to Dr. Weichert, noting minutes and hours. This observatory is in telegraphic communication with sixteen observatories in the United States and Europe.

The director of the observatory is desirous of further equipping this plant and of placing it on an even footing with seismic observatories abroad. The instruments desired are the Bosch-Omori horizontal seismograph, the Milne photographically-recording horizontal pendulum and the Weichert 13000 kilo machine. These instruments will be known by the name of their kind donors.

Organizations.

SODALITY OF OUR LADY IMMACULATE.

This Sodality is composed of Catholic students, mainly of the Undergraduate School. It is the oldest Sodality of the Blessed Virgin in this country, having been organized in 1810. Its object is the cultivation of a religious spirit among its members and the practice of devotion to the Blessed Virgin Mary.

Director, Rev. Christopher A. Sullivan, S. J.

Officers elected May, 1910; Prefect, Leo F. Joliat, '11; First Assistant, Wm. E. Fitzgerald, '11; Second Assistant, Henry B. Brown, '11; Secretary and Treasurer, Vincent Dailey, '12; Consultors, Louis C. Haggerty, '12, William H. Sitterding, '12, Raymond W. Loichot, '13; Organist, William J. Donnelly, '13; Sacristans, Stephen W. Carroll, '12, James K. A. Lynch, '12.

LEAGUE OF THE SACRED HEART OF JESUS.

Devotion to the Sacred Heart has always existed among the students. On the 21st of June, 1888, the League was formally established in the College.

Director, Rev. Aloysius Brosnan, S. J.

CONFERENCE OF ST. VINCENT DE PAUL.

A conference of this Society was organized among the students in the year 1889-'90 under the title of the Conference of St. Francis de Sales, of Georgetown College, and on the 25th of January, 1892, it was formerly aggregated to the Society as an Aspirant Conference. Its purpose is primarily not only the actual relief of the poor in the neighborhood of the College, but also the training of its members in the spirit and methods of this admirable organization.

Rev. John B. Creeden, S. J., Spiritual Director; William E. Fitzgerald, '11, President; Leo F. Joliat, '11, Vice-President; John M. Power, '11, Recording Secretary; Vincent Daily, '12, Treasurer; William H. Sitterding, '12, Norman L. Wymard, '11, Keepers of Wardrobe.

ST. JOHN BERCHMANS' SOCIETY.

This Society is of long standing in the College. It has for its object the fostering of an especial devotion in assisting at the altar in all religious ceremonies. Membership is restricted to students of the Undergraduate classes.

GEORGETOWN COLLEGE JOURNAL.

ESTABLISHED 1872.

THE GEORGETOWN COLLEGE JOURNAL is published by a committee of the students, at the beginning of each month. Its purpose is to aid their literary improvement and to chronicle the news of the University. It also serves the Society of Alumni as an organ and means of intercommunication.

The Staff: John F. Crosby, '12, Editor; Vincent Daily, '12, Herbert F. Wright, '11, Thomas S. Smith, '12, Associate Editors; Charles Angulo, '11, Frank Burke, '12, William F. Miltenberger, '13, Charles Reilly, '11, Louis Haggarty, '12, Arnulf Gloetzner, '11, William E. Leahy, Law, '12, Contributing Editors; E. Eugene Darr, '13, Business Manager; Leonard A. Brosseau, '12, Subscription Manager.

THE PHILODEMIC SOCIETY.

ORGANIZED SEPTEMBER 25, 1830.

The Philodemic is essentially a debating society, having for its object the cultivation of eloquence and the promotion of knowledge. Its motto is: "Colit Societas Philodemica Eloquentiam Libertati Devinctam." It is composed of members of the more advanced classes.

Officers—First Term: Rev. Mark McNeal, S. J., Chancellor; Edward V. Carter, '11, President; Charles Angulo, '11, Vice-President; Louis C. Haggerty, '12, Recording Secretary; Thomas S. Smith, '12, Corresponding Secretary; John F. Crosby, '12, Censor.

THE HIRST LIBRARY.

Rev. Mark McNeal, S. J., Librarian; Louis J. Murray, Louis C. Haggerty, John K. Jennings, Thomas D. Harrington, J. Francis Leary, John C. Moriarty, John R. Russell, Jr., John M. Murphy, William H. Prendergast, Jr., Assistants.

ATHLETICS.

The position of Georgetown on the question of Athletic Sports among our students is that they are a legitimate source of recreation, of healthful exercise, of generous rivalry and a manly spirit, in a word that they are a useful means for the physical and moral development of the students. The College, therefore, has put within reach of students whatever will make for these purposes, and has set such restrictions as will prevent, as far as may be, the abuse of college sport to the detriment of scholarship, manliness, and gentlemanly courtesy. Our idea of intercollegiate competition in the field of sport is to bring such contests as closely as possible to the model of one gentleman playing with another for a gentleman's recreation. In pursuit of this ideal, the authorities of the University have moved steadily toward the elimination of excess, brutality, commercialism and ungenerous rivalry in an overweening desire to win.

The practical system of athletics in vogue at Georgetown is wholly under the management of the students subject to the supervision of the Faculty Director of Athletics. They have been organized for this purpose into the Georgetown University Athletic Association, incorporated according to the laws of the District of Columbia.

The functions of the Faculty Director of Athletics have been defined by the President of the University as follows :

" His duty shall be solely to prevent abuses that may arise in the student conduct of athletic affairs. It shall be his duty to make sure that none but bona fide students take part in athletic sports ; that no favoritism is exercised in the selection of the various teams ; that the financial officers of the associations give adequate bonds for the proper handling of the funds committed to their charge ; that the Constitution of the Athletic Association is faithfully carried out and that annual financial statements of receipts and expenditures are published through the proper channels.

"The Faculty Director of Athletics will have no direct relations with the members of the various teams. In all his duties he will deal directly with the officials of the Athletic Association, for example, in regard to questions of eligibility, selections of members of the various teams, etc."

The following concrete rulings have been given by the President of the University to prevent the undue encroachment of athletics upon study :

I. ELIGIBILITY.

Faculty Rule of Eligibility.

No one is eligible as a candidate for any athletic team, who is not in good standing as a bona fide student of the university. The sole judge as to whether a man is such a bona fide student or not is the Faculty Director of Athletics. The President's concept of a bona fide student is of one who comes to the University primarily to acquire its intellectual training and engages in sport solely for sport's sake, to relax the mind and improve the body, and to fit both alike for more strenuous and prolonged mental effort. One, therefore, whose primary object in coming to Georgetown is to study, and who only engages in athletics when they are not detrimental to study, and only to relax his mind and improve his body, is a bona fide student. Hence one who has been induced to come to Georgetown by some compensation of pecuniary value, in order that he may engage in athletics, is not a bona fide student. One who engages in athletics in spite of the written disapprobation of his professor or professors is not a bona fide student. One whose athletic work unfits his mind and body for mental work is not a bona fide student.

In each and every case the Faculty Director ought to weigh all the circumstances carefully and decide whether a man is a bona fide student or not, according to his best judgment, without fear or favor, having in view only the keeping far from Georgetown even the suspicion of commercialism and professionalism.

A man before being accepted as a candidate for any team must file with the manager written evidence of his good standing in his department; this is to be presented to the Faculty Director. He in turn is to endorse or reject the statement and return it to the managers not later than forty-eight hours before any contest in which it is desired to have the man compete.

When a man has been declared eligible according to the Faculty rule, "he may be made amendable to any other rules not in conflict with the above, which the Athletic Association may choose to formulate."

II. OUT OF TOWN GAMES:

1. The schedule arranged for each of the departments known as Foot Ball, Field and Track, Rowing and Basket Ball must not involve absence from Washington for more than two days on which classes are usually held, and the contests must take place on Saturdays or on National or State Holidays.

The schedule arranged for Base Ball must not involve absence from Washington for more than four days on which classes are usually held, and the games must be played either on Saturdays or on National or State Holidays.

2. The Foot Ball, Base Ball, Basket Ball and Relay Teams, and also the Crew, shall have contests only with other University, College, or Academic teams or crews, and the track contestants only at intercollegiate or interscholastic meetings.

3. In all matters pertaining to Faculty control the various managers must deal with the Faculty Director of Athletics.

4. All regulations contained under the heading Athletics, pp. 76-82 of the General Catalogue of 1905-1906, not in conflict with the preceding regulations, are to remain in full force for 1910-1911.

III. THE TRAINING TABLE at the College has been abolished. A training table outside the College has been found inexpedient.

In addition to the Departments of sport managed by the Athletic Association, there is a Billiard Association and a Lawn Tennis Association under student control.

Since the construction of the Ryan Gymnasium a competent Physical Director has been provided by the College. He superintends the physical drill and gymnastic exercise of the students, subjects each of those who wish to make use of the gymnasium to a physical examination and prescribes for each that kind and amount of gymnastic exercise which is necessary to his health and general physical development. A fee of ten dollars is imposed upon all the college students for the use of the gymnasium; students from other departments of the University are also admitted to the use of the gymnasium on payment of the same fee. In this connection the President of the University has issued the following ruling:

"No one is to use the floor of the gymnasium or the apparatus installed thereon or the professional services of the Physical Director, who has not paid the gymnasium fee. Certified candidates for the Crew, Nine, Eleven and Track Team may use the Varsity Rubbing Room, Locker Room and Showers; candidates for the Crew, properly certified, may have use of the Rowing Room."

The Faculty Director of Athletics at the University is Rev. Thomas A. Emmet, S. J.

The officers of the Athletic Association for 1910-1911 are John M. Power, '11, President; Edward V. Carter, Secretary; Albert G. Flume, Treasurer; Lee F. Joliat, Manager of Football; James A. Walsh, Assistant Manager; Norman L. Wymard, Manager of Track; John M. Kingsley, Assistant Manager; John F. Crosby, Manager of Baseball; Louis C. Haggerty, Assistant Manager; Vincent Dailey, Manager of Crew; Leonard A. Brosseau, Assistant Manager.

The Executive Committee is made up of the Board of Officers together with a representative of the students in the Law School. The Board of Officers is likewise the Board of Directors of the Corporation.

CLASS ASSOCIATIONS.

Class of 1911: Charles J. Reilly, President; Henry H.
Brown, Vice-President; James Pierce, Secretary and Treasurer.

DEGREES.

The successful completion of the Undergraduate Course entitles a student to the degree of Bachelor of Arts.

REQUIREMENTS FOR ADMISSION.

Students may enter at the opening of either session, and, on examination, will be assigned to the class for which their prior attainments have fitted them.

A certificate of honorable dismissal will be required of those who come from other institutions.

Candidates for admission to the advanced classes must pass a satisfactory examination upon all the subjects previously studied by the class which they propose to enter.

From certain preparatory schools, high schools, of established reputation, students are admitted to the Freshman class without examination, upon the principal's certificate that they have completed the required amount of work and are prepared to enter the college.

In each case, however, a catalogue giving the course of studies required in his school must accompany the principal's certificate. The Georgetown College Preparatory School Catalogue may be had on application to the Prefect of Studies.

In all other cases for admission to Freshman, a successful examination is required in the following subjects.

LATIN.—Grammar.—The entire Latin Grammar, including a knowledge of all regular syntactical constructions. Translation into Latin at sight of complex English sentences, entailing the application of rules for relative clauses, indirect discourses, and conditional sentences.

PROSODY.—All the rules as given in Casserly's Prosody or some equivalent work; application to hexameter verse; scansion of Ovid and Virgil. A simple exercise will be exacted in the rearrangement of broken verse.

Latin Composition.—Translation into Latin of easy continuous prose based upon Caesar and Cicero. This requirement is of very especial importance, and great weight will be given to it in the examination. The use of Cicero's letters as well as his orations as models for the requirements of Latin idiom is strongly recommended.

Nepos.—Lives, to the end of the life of Alcibiades; also the life of Atticus. Caesar.—Commentaries, two books.

Ovid.—Metaphoroses, 500 lines; Tristia, 500 lines.

Cicero.—Selected letters, five hundred lines; orations, the four against Catiline. Virgil.—Aenied, three books.

GREEK.—Grammar.—Etymology complete (including all the irregular and defective forms); the rules for accents; the rules of syntax and their application; the Homeric dialect.

Greek Composition.—Translation into Greek of simple English sentences based upon Xenophon's Anabasis.

Xenophon.—Anabasis, Book, I, II and III.

Homer.—Iliad, Books I and II, or Odyssey, I, II and III.

N. B.—In assigning the matter above, the purpose of the Faculty is not to insist on quantity or to recognize that the mere reading of a stated amount of assigned authors is sufficient preparation for college. In the discussion of the classic authors, both Greek and Latin, the candidate must be prepared to give a complete grammatical analysis of every word, phrase, and sentence, and to point out exceptional idioms, and must be informed on the chief points of collateral erudition connected with the text.

Students, who are prepared for entrance to Freshman Class in all the requirements except Greek, may enter the College conditioned in Greek. This condition may be removed in one or at the most two years, during part of which they will attend a Special Class established to meet this emergency. While carrying the condition in Greek they will be registered as Special Students.

ENGLISH.—Higher Grammar.—The candidate must be prepared on the matter contained in Meiklejohn's "The English Language," or some equivalent work.

Composition.—A brief prose composition will be required evidencing some proficiency in narrative and critical writing. The test will be based upon books and authors assigned for study in the Georgetown College Preparatory School. Questions will be asked as to the subject-matter, method of treatment, structure, and style of these books. Fair penmanship and accurate spelling will be considered as essential preliminary requirements.

The authors assigned are: Shelley, Selected Poems (No. 85, Maynard Series). *Wordsworth, Selected Poems (No. 90, Maynard Series). De Quincey, Flight of a Tartar Tribe. *Macaulay, Essays on Johnson and on Addison. Milton, Paradise Lost (two books), Ode to the Nativity, L'Allegro and Penseroso. *Shakespeare, Merchant of Venice. Tennyson, Morte d'Arthur. Lamb's Essays of Elia. Ruskin, Sesame and Lilies. Thackeray, Henry Esmond. A careful study of the works marked thus (subject-matter, form a structure) will be exacted; a general acquaintance with the other assigned books will be sufficient.

N. B.—The Uniform College Entrance Requirements in English will be accepted, as will any fair equivalent work in this department.

HISTORY.—Bible History as found in Richards, Greek (Bury), Rome (Schuckburgh), English (Lingard), United States (Montgomery), or as found in some equivalent author. Elements of Civics.

MATHEMATICS.—Algebra ; Geometry, plane and solid. Wentworth's Complete Algebra, and Wentworth's Geometry, or works of equal grade.

SCIENCE.—A fair knowledge of Physical Geography.

MODERN LANGUAGES.—One modern language besides English is required, preferably French or German. The examination will embrace the elements of Grammar, including the irregular verbs ; translation into English at sight of simple prose ; grammatical analysis.

GENERAL REGULATIONS.

No distinction is made in the reception of students on the ground of religious belief. Students not of the Catholic faith, if they do not wish to attend the Religious Exercises of the college, will be exempt therefrom, but are expected to conform in matter of church service to the obligations of their own belief.

No student will be allowed to remain at the college during the summer vacation.

The introduction of intoxicating liquors as well as of immoral books or papers, will render the offender liable to expulsion, as will any grave offense against morals or discipline.

There is a fixed hour for students in residence to rise, take their meals, attend chapel for daily Mass, and Benediction on Sundays and Holy Days, and to assist at night prayers. Parents who enter their sons are understood to agree that they should conform to these regulations.

Day-scholars and half-boarders, while within the College walls, are subject to the regulations of boarders.

Students of the Medical School are not received to board or lodge at the College, but must secure board and lodgings in the city. Students from the Law School may board and lodge at the College only in case of taking at the same time graduate courses at the College. Graduate students may enter the College either as boarders or day-scholars. Undergraduate students are not received as day-scholars unless they are living with their parents or guardians. Students are not allowed to lodge at the College and board outside the College.

DISTRIBUTION OF ROOMS.

As the number of rooms at the College is limited, it has been found necessary to make the following rules about their distribution. No room will be reserved for a student unless the application for the same be accompanied by a deposit of one-tenth of the rental. Applications may be handed in at any time; yet, in order that students in residence during the year may have time to counsel with their parents or guardians about their return the following year, no assignment will be made for the coming year before July 25. The former holder of a room will have claim on that room up to July 25, after which, if not then engaged by him, it will be considered vacant. The earliest applicant will have right to any vacant room, if his application is accompanied by one-tenth of the rental, as above prescribed. The senior applicant, in case of two applying at the same time for the same room, will be given the preference. The right to a room for which a deposit has been paid expires on the evening of September 17, 1911.

Damage to College property is repaired at the expense of the student who inflicts it.

In the Sophomore year there is a charge of $10 per annum for the use of chemicals.

In the Junior year there is a charge of $10 for the use of philosophical and astronomical instruments, and $10 per annum for the use of chemicals.

The Graduation Fee is $10.00.

All accounts must be paid half yearly, in advance. If a student is withdrawn before the end of a session, no deduction will be made, except in cases of illness or of dismissal, nor will any deduction be made for a shorter time than one month.

Degrees will not be conferred upon students whose debts to the College remain unpaid on June 1, 1911.

Articles of clothing will not be furnished by the College unless a deposit for that purpose be made with the Treasurer, who will give a detailed account of its outlay in his regular semi-annual statement.

No bills for clothing or other articles will be acknowledged unless the purchase has been authorized by the Treasurer of the College.

Books and stationery may be obtained at the College bookstore.

Whatever sums parents or guardians allow their sons or wards for pocket money, may be deposited with the Treasurer, who will disburse the same according to instructions received, or as circumstanees may require. No advance will be made beyond the deposit.

Dues for the different student organizations, as the Athletic Association, the Debating Society, etc., must be paid by the students from their pocket money, and no student will be allowed to have such dues charged in upon the bill to be sent to parents or guardians.

Every student from outside the United States must have a guardian in the vicinity, who shall be responsible for his bills and receive him in case of dismissal. The same may be required for students from very distant States in the Union.

AWARDS.

The Medal and Premium in every class are awarded to the two students obtaining respectively the highest and the second highest average in the marks for all the months of the year and for the mid-year and final examinations, provided the average be above eighty-five per cent of all attainable marks.

SENIOR.

Gold Medal for Rational Philosophy (Founded by the Misses Mary A. and Theresa Frances Ryan), awarded to Edward Q. Carr.

Prize, to Roscoe A. Ridgway.

JUNIOR.

Gold Medal (founded by Mrs. Lawrence O'Brien, of New York, in memory of Francis X. O'Brien, of the class of 1900), awarded to Herbert F. Wright.

Prize, Frederick R. Gibbs.

English Composition Prize—Charles J. Reilly.

Gold Medal for Physics (given by William V. McGrath, B. S., of Philadelphia), awarded to James Piercc.

Silver Medal for Analytical Chemistry, Herbert F. Wright.

SOPHOMORE.

Silver Medal, awarded to John D. Foley.

Prize, Francis H. Burke.

English Composition Prize, Francis H. Burke.

The Kidwell Gold Medal for Mechanics, James K. Lynch.

Prize, John D. Foley.

Silver Medal for Astronomy, John D. Foley.

Prize, Francis H. Burke.

Silver Medal for General Chemistry, James K. Lynch.

Prize, John D. Foley.

FRESHMAN.

Silver Medal, awarded to J. Francis Leary.

Prize, Paul McQuillan.

English Composition Prize, David Waldron.

Silver Medal in Plane Trigonometry, J. Francis Leary.

Prize, Carl Bucher.

Silver Medal for Analytical Geometry, Carl Bucher.

Prize, J. Francis Leary.

Silver Medal for Freshman French, Haven Mankin.

Prize, John Malone.

Silver Medal for Freshman German, Carl Bucher.

Prize, J. Francis Leary.

PRIZES OPEN TO GENERAL COMPETITION.

The Hamilton Philodemic Medal founded in perpetuum by George Ernest Hamilton, LL. D., Dean Emeritus, Georgetown University Law School, for the best extempore debate by a member of the Philodemic Society awarded to John F. Crosby, '12. Question: Resolved, that women should have an equal right with men, subject to the same conditions and limitations, to vote on all public or political questions, whether national, State or municipal.

The Christian Doctrine Gold Medal, awarded to Albert G. Flume, '11.

The Dixon Elocution Medal (founded by Mrs. William Wirt Dixon in memory of her son, William Wirt Dixon, Jr., of the class of 1898), awarded to Charles Angulo, '11.

The Merrick Debating Medal (founded by Richard T. Merrick, LL. D., '73), awarded to Daniel F. McCann, Jr., '10. Question: Resolved, That further Federation legislation in regard to the trusts is desirable.

The Father Murphy Medal (founded in memory of Reverend John J. Murphy, S. J., by his personal friends, for the best metrical translation of three odes of Horace), was awarded to Francis H. Burke, '12.

The Toner Scientific Medal (given by Joseph M. Toner, M. D., Ph. D., of Washington, D. C., for the best collection of specimens in some branch of science), not awarded this year.

The Morris Historical Medal (founded by Martin F. Morris, LL. D., '77, of Washington, D. C.), awarded to Arnulf A. Gloetzner, '11. Subject: The Treaty of Berlin.

The Mallory Medal (founded by the late Stephen R. Mallory, U. S. Senator from Florida, A. B. '69, A. M. '71, LL. D. '04), on some subjects bearing on the Constitution of the United States, open to all departments of the University, awarded to John F. Crosby, '12. Subject: "The Advisability of Inserting the Word 'Sex,' before the Word 'Race,' in the Fifteenth Amendment to the Constitution of the United States."

School of Medicine.

The complete course of study in the Medical Department extends over four terms of eight months each.

Special attention is called to the advantage of the method of teaching adopted in this school. It enables each student to come into more intimate relation with his teachers in laboratory and hospital work, and in connection with the system of recitations adopted makes instruction more directly personal and adapted to the special needs of the individual.

The building of this department is conveniently situated on H Street, Northwest, between Ninth and Tenth Streets, near several of the principal railway lines. It contains spacious and well-ventilated lecture rooms and laboratories, a convenient and well-lighted dissecting room, a library and reading room for the use of students. The laboratories are equipped with the latest and most approved instruments and appliances, including an ample number of microscopes of high power.

These will greatly enhance the facilities for instruction, and will enable every student to master more readily the technical skill needed in modern important methods of medical research. The Laboratory courses may be taken independently of the lectures.

The clinical instruction is carried on in the University Hospital in connection with the general wards, Emergency service, Outdoor Department, pathological laboratories and operating rooms. Clinics are also held at the Children's, Garfield, Emergency, Columbia Hospital for Women, Episcopal Eye and Ear Hospital, the Municipal Hospital and the Government Hospital for Insane, containing in all over 3,000 beds.

The great libraries and museums connected with the various Government institutions at Washington afford advantages to the student that are unrivalled in America, and are equal, if not superior, to those in most European capitals. These collections are freely open to the public, and can be consulted by students upon obtaining permission, readily granted to those who are pursuing special courses of study.

REQUISITES FOR ADMISSION.

Creditable certificates of good moral character, signed by two physicians of good standing in the State, Territory or District in which the applicant last resided.

The Association of American Medical Colleges has prescribed the following minimum requirements for admission to the medical course:

(a) A bachelor's degree from an approved college or university.

(b) A diploma from an accredited high school, normal school, or academy requiring for admission evidence of the completion of an eight-year course in primary and intermediate grades, and for graduation not less than four years of study, embracing not less than two years (4 points) of foreign language, of which one must be Latin, two years (4 points) of mathematics, two years (4 points) of English, one year (2 points) of history, two years (4 points) of laboratory science, and six years (12 points) of further credit in language, literature, history or science.

(c) An examination in the following branches:

A. Required (18 points); Mathematics (4 points); English (4 points); History (2 points); Language (two must be Latin, 4 points); Science (taken from physics, chemistry, botany, zoology). (4 points).

B. Optional (to 12 points); English, (2 points); History, (6 points); Language, (6 points); Manual Training, (2 points); Mechanical Drawing, (1 point); Natural Science (botany, biology, zoology), (2 points); Astronomy (1), Civics (1), Geology (1), Physical Geography (1), Physiology, and Hygiene (1), Political Economy (1).

(One point in any subject in a high school or academic course demands not less than five periods per week of forty-five minutes each for eighteen weeks.)

(d) Certificates from reputable instructors recognized by the State Board of Medical Examiners duly authorized by law or by the Superintendent of Public Instruction in States having no examining board may be accepted in lieu of any part of this examination.

SEC. 2. This examination must be conducted by or under the authority of the Board of Examiners or the Superintendent of Public Instruction of the city or State in which the college is located. In no case shall it be conducted by any person connected with the faculty, medical or otherwise, of the institution to which the student is seeking admission.

SEC. 3. A student may be allowed to enter on his medical work conditioned in not more than six points, and these conditions must be removed by satisfactory examination before he is allowed to enter on the second year of his medical course.

ADVANCED STANDING.

Students who have attended one or more terms at any other medical college in good standing will be admitted to advanced standing upon passing the examination required of students for the stage at which they propose to enter. Those presenting certificates of examination from other reputable medical colleges of equal requirements will be admitted to the respective higher classes without further examination.

Persons not candidates for the degree M. D. may be admitted without examination as special students, and may attend any of the courses upon giving satisfactory evidence that they are qualified intelligently to avail themselves of the instruction.

METHOD OF INSTRUCTION.

The course of instruction will consist of didactic and clinical lectures, recitations, demonstrations, dissecting, laboratory work, and other practical manipulations. The students will be divided into four classes, called respectively, the First, Second, Third, and Fourth.

Class recitations will be conducted by members of the Faculty and by instructors.

A record of these recitations will be kept, and the average will be credited to each student in summing up after the final examinations at the end of the session.

The following is a sketch of the several courses of instruction:

ANATOMY.

PROF. FRANK BAKER, A. M., PH. D., M. D.

The didactic instruction is illustrated by demonstrations on the living subject, by dissections, models, and several hundred plates and lantern slides prepared especially for the course. The students are thoroughly examined orally from week to week as the course progresses in order to insure that they understand the work and are making satisfactory progress. Written examinations are held frequently. Especial attention is paid to the practical bearings of the science and its application to surgery and pathology.

OSTEOLOGY.

EMORY W. REISINGER, M. D.

Assistant to the Professor of Anatomy.

This course includes a careful study of every bone in the human body, the pupil being required to point out and designate the important and technical features of each upon an actual specimen. For the study of the skeleton it is very much like the study of the softer parts in the dissecting room, and is an indispensable preliminary to that work.

PRACTICAL ANATOMY.

JOHN CONSTAS, M. D.

Demonstrator.

The dissecting room will be open daily for students, after October 15th, and the Demonstrator or his Assistants will be present. During the session there will be given special demonstrations of the brain, of the thoracic and the abdominal viscera, and also of other difficult or obscure regions of the body.

During each session every student of the First and Second Classes will be required to dissect all regions of the human body.

HISTOLOGY.

JOHN A. FOOTE, M. D.

Instructor.

This course consists chiefly of laboratory work. Recitations, with explanatory talks illustrated by charts and blackboard drawings, precede the laboratory work of the day and aid in interpreting its specimens. The laboratory is large and well lighted. Each student is furnished with a microscope, locker and accessories, and is instructed in the theory and practical use of the microscope. The elementary tissues are studied in the fresh state as well as after being stained and mounted. In the study of the organs, practical instruction is given in the preparation of mounted specimens, the actual work, so far as is practicable, being done by the student. The relations of histology to embryology, physiology and pathology are duly considered. Throughout the course, drawings with descriptive notes are made of the microscopic appearance.

EMBRYOLOGY.

ROY D. ADAMS, M. D.

This course will consist of lectures and laboratory work. It will begin with spermatogenesis and ovogenesis, and then taking up the development after fertilization will proceed to the formation of the rudiment of the embryo, and conclude with a consideration of organology.

PHYSIOLOGY.

PROF. JOSEPH S. WALL, M. D.

One of the Visiting Physicians to the Providence and Foundlings' Hospital Dispensary; Physician, the Children's Hospital.

This course will consist of lectures upon General and Special demonstrations, and laboratory work.

While a knowledge of the facts of Physiology is essential, greater stress will be laid upon the underlying, fundamental principles, and their application to the problems of Pathology, Physical Diagnosis, and practical Medicine and Surgery.

MATERIA MEDICA AND THERAPEUTICS.

PROF. WILFRED M. BARTON, M. D.

The course on Materia Medica and Therapeutics will cover three years, and will consist of a combination of didactic and laboratory instruction. During the first year the student will be made acquainted by actual demonstration with the physical and chemical characteristics of the drugs of the Pharmacopœia, their doses, compatibilities and incompatibilities; also weights and measures, elementary pharmacy, etc., and will be taught so much of the actions and uses of drugs as is necessary to illustrate their importance. During the second and third years the student will be taught by lectures and practical demonstrations the physiological action of drugs and an effort will be made to fix the most important elements of pharmacodynamics by laboratory exercises.

The attention of the student will be directed to the systematic study of the application of drugs to the treatment of disease, a practical knowledge of which is the ultimate aim of his course in pharmacology.

CHEMISTRY AND TOXICOLOGY.

PROF. JOHN D. HIRD, A. M., LL. M.

It is the aim in this department to give a practical course in chemistry and toxicology as related to the subject of medicine.

As a foundation for this course special attention is given to the subject of elementary chemistry, including thorough instruction in the laws governing chemical combination and molecular changes. This is supplemented by laboratory work, illustrating the subjects previously considered and setting forth the fundamental principles of chemical analysis.

In organic chemistry the instruction is given by means of lectures and laboratory work. This course includes an examination of the more important hydrocarbons and their derivatives, supplemented by lectures upon the theoretical and practical methods of manufacture, their character and uses, especially as they are related to medicine. Under the head of organic chemistry, that department of science known as sanitary chemistry also receives attention. This includes the practical examination of the various forms of matter which affect, either directly or indirectly, the general health. It is intended in this course that such a knowledge shall be imparted to the students as may enable them to differentiate between wholesome and unwholesome articles of food and drink. The various food products, particularly milk, cheese, bread and meats, will receive careful consideration. The examination of air in rooms, the velocity, condition and quality of air currents, will be considered under the head of ventilation. The organic analysis of water and its various forms of pollution, together with the examination of soils, will also receive attention.

During the second year physiological chemistry is taken up in detail. This includes practical laboratory work in the study of foods, their composition, assimilation, metabolism and excretion, together with the allied subjects relating thereto.

Under the heads of toxicology the general subject of poisons, including their effects, modes of action, subsequent dispositions and antagonisms is briefly considered, while the evidence of poisoning as furnished by chemical analysis is considered more in detail.

PHYSICS.

PROF. FRANCIS A. TONDORF, S. J.

A special course in physics as applied to medicine and surgery will be given during the first year. It will be illustrated by oral instruction and by laboratory experiments.

GENERAL PATHOLOGY AND BACTERIOLOGY.

PROF. EDWIN B. BEHREND, A. B., M. D.

The course in pathology will extend over two years. The instruction will consist of lectures, demonstrations, class recitations and laboratory work, and will embrace general and special pathology, including bacteriology and clinical pathology.

The lectures and class recitations are brought in close relation with the laboratory exercises. During the first half-year general consideration of diseases, including etiology and immunity, are taken up, and during the same period the laboratory work in bacteriology is made to explain and illustrate the didactic work as far as possible.

The second half-year is devoted to the study of the anatomical changes in disease, including degeneration, regeneration, inflammation, tumor formation, etc. The course in pathological histology is so arranged as to keep pace with the class work; for this purpose a complete series of typical pathological specimens will be presented for individual study.

The course in clinical pathology contemplates the examination of blood, urine, faeces, gastric contents, sputum, pathological exudates, etc., with special reference to clinical medicine and surgery. The great value of laboratory methods as aids in the diagnosis of disease will be emphasized.

MEDICAL ZOOLOGY.

WILLIAM H. HOUGH, M. D.

Physician Government Hospital for the Insane.

This course comprises a series of twelve lectures on the animal parasites found in the human subject. The lecturer will describe the anatomy, life-history of the different forms, and the best means for treatment and prevention. The lectures will be supplemented by practical laboratory exercises.

SPECIAL PATHOLOGY AND MORBID ANATOMY.

PROF. I. W. BLACKBURN, M. D.

Pathologist to the Government Hospital for the Insane.

This course will be devoted to the pathology and morbid anatomy of the individual organs, tissues, and fluids; to the consideration of tumors and morbid growths in general and in connection with special pathology; to the pathology of mental diseases; and the methods of conducting post-mortem examinations for medico-scientific and medico-legal purposes. The course will be supplemented by lectures, demonstrations, and practical necropsy work at the Government Hospital for the Insane.

PHYSICAL DIAGNOSIS.

PROF. JOHN D. THOMAS, A. B., M. D.,

Associate Physician, Georgetown University Hospital, and at the Central Dispensary and Emergency Hospital. Visiting Physician to the Tuberculosis Hospital and to the Home for Incurables.

In addition to the didactic lectures on the principles of physical diagnosis, at the College, there will be demonstrations, to the students at Dr. Thomas' very large clinic at the Central Dispensary and Emergency Hospital, the University Hospital, the Tuberculosis Hospital and the Home for Incurables. The class will be divided into sections, each member of which will make examinations under the personal supervision of Dr. Thomas. Thus they will be made familiar with one of the most important branches of medical practice.

THEORY AND PRACTICE OF MEDICINE AND DISEASES OF CHILDREN.

PROF. SAMUEL S. ADAMS, A. M., M. D.,

Attending Physician to Georgetown University and Children's Hospitals; Consulting Physician to Government Hospital for Insane. and Central Dispensary.

An effort will be made to give in the course of two sessions as complete a description as possible of the diseases usually considered as belonging to the province of this chair, and in such manner as to give the student a clear conception of the methods of discrimination and management of the various diseased conditions. This teaching, together with the supplementary advantages offered by the various clinics to which the student will have access, will, it is believed, afford him an opportunity of acquiring a thorough knowledge of this subject.

PRINCIPLES AND PRACTICE OF SURGERY.

PROF. GEORGE TULLY VAUGHAN, M. D.,

One of the Attending Surgeons at the Emergency Hospital, and Chief Surgeon Georgetown University Hospital; Consulting Surgeon Government Hospital for Insane.

The course in surgery extends over two and one-half years. Instruction is given by didactic lectures, recitations, and demonstrations at clinics, which are held at various hospitals and dispensaries, which afford material in abundance.

Students are instructed in the practical use and application of bandages, fracture dressings, and other surgical apparatus. The use of the principal surgical instruments is also demonstrated on the living subject or on the cadaver.

Members of the Fourth Class are instructed in orthopedic and genito-urinary surgery by lectures and clinical demonstrations, and are given a course in operative surgery on the cadaver, in which nearly every operation, minor and capital, classic and modern, is done by the student under the direction of the professor and his assistants:

SURGICAL PATHOLOGY,

RALPH A. HAMILTON, M. D.

This course embraces the study of Surgical Pathology and Surgical Diagnosis according to modern and practical methods.

Instruction is given during the session by demonstrations, lectures and laboratory work.

The unaided eye appearances of the various neoplasms, malignant and benign, and the gross pathologic picture of the infective processes of tissues, are studied from fresh specimens and the museum collection.

The histories and microscopic sections accompanying these specimens are also studied in this work.

OBSTETRICS.

PROF. HENRY D. FRY, M. D., D. Sc.

Obstetrician, Georgetown University and Columbia Hospitals.

The course will be graded, and will consist of classified lectures comprising the whole subject, of recitations and demonstrations upon charts and plates, and of operations performed upon the manikin. During the past session each member of the senior class attended three or more cases of midwifery, of which he was required to keep records and present written reports. Every facility will be given to obtain experience in the practical workings of this department by means of bedside instruction. Special attention will be devoted to abdominal palpation, pelvimetry, digital examination, and the methods of diagnosing presentations and positions of the fetus.

An opportunity is given to each student to perform the various obstetric operations, such as the application of forceps, version, etc.

The importance of exercising strict supervision over the period of pregnancy will be dwelt upon, and attention given to the pathological changes which may occur during gestation, labor, and the puerperal state.

The great value of antiseptic principles as applied to obstetric practice will be urged.

An operative course on the Budin-Pinard manikin will also be given.

GYNECOLOGY AND ABDOMINAL SURGERY.

PROF. JOSEPH TABER JOHNSON, A. M., PH. D., M. D.

One of the Consulting Physicians to the Central Dispensary and Emergency Hospital; Consulting Gynecologist to the Woman's Dispensary and the Government Hospital for Insane; Surgeon in Charge of Gynecology and Abdominal Surgery in the Georgetown University Hospital.

Modern gynecology will be taught in didactic lectures, freely illustrated by plates and blackboard drawings, recitations, and also a small class at public operations, in four different hospitals, where manipulations and operative work will be carefully explained and demonstrated. Abdominal surgery will receive special attention.

Advanced students will be given an opportunity to witness the preparations for aseptic operations, and to assist in their performance when practicable.

OPHTHALMOLOGY.

PROF. WILLIAM H. WILMER, M. D.,

Ophthalmologist to Georgetown University, Episcopal Eye, Ear and Throat Hospital, and to the Central Dispensary and Emergency Hospital.

The course begins with lectures on the anatomy of the eye, illustrated by models, charts, and specimens under the microscope, followed by an explanation of the fundamental principles of physiological optics and the proper methods of examining the eye. The lectures are supplemented by quizzes and reviews. The lectures on the diseases of the eye are wholly clinical, illustrative cases being taken from Dr. Wilmer's extensive service at the Episcopal Hospital, Central Dispensary and Emergency Hospital, and at the University Hospital. The class is divided into small sections in order that the clinical teaching shall be as nearly personal as possible. More than two thousand new cases of eye diseases are treated annually at the Episcopal Hospital alone. Every important operation on the eye is performed in the presence of each section.

Drs. Dufour, Griffith, Green and Muncaster will give clinical demonstrations at the various hospitals with which they are connected.

LARYNGOLOGY, RHINOLOGY AND OTOTOLOGY.

PROF. WALTER A. WELLS, M. D.,

Surgeon in Charge of Throat and Ear Diseases; Garfield Hospital Associate Attending Physician Episcopal Eye, Ear and Throat Hospital.

The course in otology will be chiefly clinical, and will be conducted with a view of familiarizing the students with the various forms of ear affections met with in actual practice, and instructing him in modern methods of diagnosing and treating them. After some preliminary notice of the history of these specialties, followed by a thorough demonstration by means of charts and specimens of the anatomy and physiology of these organs the subject will be taught by actual observation and study of the disease by contact with the patients.

The class will be divided into sections, so that each student may be personally taught by the use of the instruments, and drilled in the methods of both subjective and objective examination of the patients. In the course of the year ample opportunity will be afforded of witnessing the major and minor operations which have to be performed in connection with these specialties.

HYGIENE AND DIETETICS.

PROF. GEORGE M. KOBER, M. D., LL. D.

Consulting Physician to Children's Hospital and Washington Asylum Hospital

The course on hygiene and dietetics will include lectures and recitations on sunlight, air, climate, and meteorology; water, ice, artificial carbonated waters, and soils in relation to health and disease; food, beverages, and condiments, morbid and infected food products; dietetics in health and disease; the skin, bath and clothing; exercise, rest, sleep, beds, and bedding; private and public habitations, including drainage, ventilation, warming, and lighting, with practical demonstrations of sanitary appliances at the Museum of Hygiene.

STATE MEDICINE.

PROF. W. C. WOODWARD, M. D., LL. M.,

Health Officer District of Columbia.

The course on State Medicine will consist of lectures and of such demonstrations as may be practicable upon the relation of the medical practitioner to Government and of the application of medical science to the purposes of the Government for the protection of public health, and for the determination of such medical problems as come before courts of law. Attendance will be obligatory upon the students in their fourth year.

DERMATOLOGY.

J. C. BLACKISTON, M. D.,

Dermatologist to Georgetown University Hospital.

The preliminary course will include a review of the history of dermatology, the minute anatomy of the skin, general pathology, etiology, and diagnosis of cutaneous affections, followed by lectures upon individual diseases illustrated by plates. A clinical course will be given to advanced students, as it is only at the bedside that a practical knowledge of this important branch of medicine can be obtained.

MENTAL AND NERVOUS DISEASES.

PROF. WILLIAM A. WHITE, M. D.,

Superintendent of the Government Hospital for the Insane.

This course will consist of didactic and clinical lectures. Lectures are held on neurology before the Christmas vacation at the Medical College and after Christmas Holidays on psychiatry at the Government Hospital for the Insane, which accommodates about 3,000 patients. Members of the Third and Fourth Classes will be admitted to them. Students will have opportunity to visit the wards of the Hospital, and each lecture will be illustrated by numerous cases, giving in great variety all the forms of insanity and diseases of the nervous system which are usually seen in the practice of the general practitioners in medicine.

DISEASES OF THE NERVOUS SYSTEM AND ELECTRO-THERAPEUTICS.

PROF. D. PERCY HICKLING, M. D.

Neurologist to the University Hospital, Providence Hospital, and Physician in Charge of the Washington Asylum Hospital.

This course is largely clinical and will embrace those diseases of the general nervous system which are commonly met with in practice, special attention being given to their diagnosis and treatment.

The course of Electro-Therapeutics will include a brief outline of Electro-Physics and Electro-Physiology, with practical illustrations of the use of the galvanic, faradic and static currents and X-Ray methods, with a discussion of the medical and surgical conditions in which this form of treatment may be used. The lectures will be amply illustrated with batteries, electrodes, rheostats and other electrical appliances.

CLINICAL INSTRUCTION AND ADVANTAGES.

GEORGETOWN UNIVERSITY HOSPITAL.

Corner of Thirty-fifth and N Streets, N. W.

The Hospital and Dispensary are located in close proximity to the College grounds and accesible by three of the principal electric car lines in the city. This institution is in every sense a modern College hospital, wholly under the control of the School of Medicine, and affords ample and excellent facilities for illustrating by clinical teaching and ward classes the didactic instruction given in the various practical branches of the school. Owing to the favorable location of the Hospital, the Outdoor Service and Emergency Department enjoys an unusual field of activity, a matter of great importance to the students, as they receive special training in the effective management of emergency cases. Clinics and Ward Classes are conducted by the following professors of this school and by members of the Hospital and Dispensary staff:

Medical—Dr. Adams, Dr. Morgan, Dr. Thomas, and Dr. Macnamee.

Gynecological—Dr. Johnson, Dr. Kelley.

Diseases of the Eye and Ear—Dr. Wilmer, Dr. Dufour.

Diseases of Throat, Chest and Nose—Dr. Wells, Dr. Thomas.

Neurology—Dr. Hickling.

Dermatology—Dr. Blackiston.

CHILDREN'S HOSPITAL.

W Street between Twelfth and Thirteenth Streets, N. W.

Students may here observe the diseases, injuries, and deformities incident to infancy and childhood, together with the treatment appropriate therefor. Every facility will be given to observe and comprehend thoroughly the cases admitted to its wards. The out-patient department or dispensary is open every week day from 2.30 to 4.30 P. M. It is divided into medical and surgical services, and a service for diseases of the eye and ear. All these are free of access for medical students.

Drs. Adams and Griffith, who are on the Staff, will give clinical instruction at this hospital.

CENTRAL DISPENSARY AND EMERGENCY HOSPITAL.

Fifteenth Street and Ohio Avenue, N. W.

During the last year over 15,000 patients were treated here and over 2,200 surgical operations performed, many of capital importance. Unusual opportunities are afforded for acquiring practical experience in the ordinary duties of a physician. As a large proportion of the serious cases of accident that occur in the city are first brought to this hospital because of its central location, students become rapidly trained in the effective treatment of injuries demanding prompt assistance, and of that class of cases likely to be of the most importance to the young practitioner. Students are admitted to the services. The new building just completed offers greatly improved facilities for clinical instruction, and the ambulance service and casualty wards will afford special advantages for studying traumatic and operative surgery.

The Lionel Laboratory, established in connection with the hospital, affords a fine opportunity for the study of practical bacteriology, pathology and Röntgen-ray work in association with surgery and medicine. Drs. Johnson, Magruder and Adams are on the Consulting Board.

Regular clinics are given by the following Professors of this school and other members of the staff:

Surgical.—Dr. Vaughan.

Medical.—Dr. J. D. Morgan.

Diseases of the Eye and Ear.—Drs. Wilmer, Dufour and Muncaster.

Physical Diagnosis and Diseases of the Chest, Throat and Nose.—Drs. Murray, Thomas and Wells.

GARFIELD HOSPITAL.

Florida Avenue and Tenth Street, N. W.

This hospital also affords excellent facilities for clinical teaching, being splendidly equipped with all modern appliances. Regular clinics are given.

Medical.—Dr. J. D. Morgan.

In all the above hospitals, containing over 3,000 beds, the positions of Resident and Assistant Resident Physicians are open to competitive examination to graduates of this school.

In addition to the foregoing, clinics will be given by:

Dr. William A. White, Mental and Nervous Diseases, at Government Hospital for the Insane.

Dr. I. S. Stone, Gynecological, Columbia Hospital.

Drs. H. D. Fry and Wm. Sprigg, Obstetric, Columbia Hospital.

Dr. D. Percy Hickling, Neurological, Medical and Surgical, Washington Asylum Hospital.

Dr. John D. Thomas, Physical Diagnosis, Tuberculosis Hospital and the Home for Incurables.

EXAMINATIONS.

The standing of a student in any branch will be determined by combining the record of his recitations; his examinations (both written and oral), and his laboratory and clinical work.

At the end of each session examinations will be held as follows:

The First Class upon anatomy, osteology, histology, embryology, chemistry, physics, physiology and materia medica.

The Second Class upon anatomy, physiology, chemistry and toxicology, urinalysis, therapeutics, bacteriology, pathology, minor surgery.

The Third Class upon therapeutics, physical diagnosis, the practice of medicine, surgery, obstetrics, gynecology, general special pathology, pathology, and morbid anatomy, medical zoology, surgical pathology, mental und nervous diseases, and hygiene.

The Fourth Class upon the practice of medicine, surgery, obstetrics, gynecology, laryngology and ophthalmology, and otology, State medicine, mental and nervous diseases, dermatology, electro-therapeutics, special pathology and morbid anatomy, surgical pathology and military surgery.

REQUIREMENTS FOR GRADUATION.

The candidate must be of good moral character and at least twenty-one years of age. He must have studied medicine not less than four years, during which he must have attended four full courses of instruction in four calendar years, each annual course to have been of not less than thirty teaching weeks' duration in some recognized medical school, the last of which shall have been delivered in this institution, and no student shall be graduated unless he shall have attained a passing grade in each and all subjects of the required curriculum.

FEES.

Matriculation (payable but once).....	$ 5.00
Tuition, each year	150.00
Graduation fee.	10.00

This includes all laboratory fees and charges for material used in practical anatomy and operative surgery. Students will, however, be required to make an annual deposit of $10.00 to cover loss, breakage or damage to the property of the school. This deposit, less the charges made against it, is refunded to the student upon his withdrawal.

FEES FOR SPECIAL STUDENTS.

Didactic lectures from each of the chairs.	$20.00
Practical anatomy, chemistry, including material. . . .	25.00

Didactic and laboratory course in histology, pathology or bacteriology, each. 25.00

Operative surgery on the cadaver, per course. 25.00

Payment of not less than one-fourth of the fees is required at the commencement of the session, the balance by January 1st ensuing.

A student repeating a course for any reason will be charged full fees for that course.

The expenses of a student during the school year, including tuition, books, board, lodging, laundry, and other incidentals, need not exceed $350.00, and $425.00 will be a liberal allowance.

Checks should be made payable to the School of Medicine, Georgetown University.

REQUISITES FOR ADMISSION.

Candidates for admission must hereafter have a minimum preliminary education of not less than four years from an accredited High School or its equivalent. The preliminary examination will not be required of an applicant who can show that he has covered the work of such examination by furnishing an official certificate to that effect issued by a reputable literary or scientific college, academy, high school or State examining board.

Graduates in medicine are eligible for admission to the second class, and are excused from examination in the studies pertaining to the medical course of recognized institutions.

Those presenting certificates of examination for advanced standing from other reputable dental colleges of equal requirements will be admitted to the corresponding higher class without further examination.

Students applying for admission later than ten days after the opening day of the session cannot be credited with a full course unless such delay is due to sickness, which must be vouched for by the certificate of a reputable practicing physician. In such case the date of admission shall not be later than twenty days from the opening day.

METHODS OF INSTRUCTION.

The course of instruction will consist of clinical and illustrated lectures, recitations, demonstrations, dissecting and laboratory work, and clinical instructions. The number of students taken in each class allows each member to come into close contact with the professors, and insures the most thorough individual instruction. The Dental Laboratory is fully equipped with electrical lathes, furnaces, rolling mill, vulcanizers, celluloid apparatus, lockers, etc. Here the student receives his first instruction. Every process of value known to mechanical dentistry is taught in this department.

Demonstration by the instructors begins with taking impressions of the mouth by the use of the several materials employed for that purpose. The instruction, in its progress, includes consideration of the construction of artificial dentures and obturators in all their wide variety.

THE CLINICAL DEPARTMENT OR INFIRMARY consists of large operating-rooms, supplied with all the latest equipments. The chairs are so arranged as to command the best light. There are separate rooms for the administration of anesthetics for the extraction of teeth; also one for taking impressions, occlusions, and doing work requiring the use of plaster or wax.

There is also a department of Oral Surgery attached to the Georgetown University Hospital, where students have the privilege of witnessing all the operations pertaining to cleft palate, hare-lip, fractured maxilla, empyema of antrum, etc. Both infirmaries are under the immediate and continuous direction of a corps of competent demonstrators, who are always present to instruct and assist the students in their work. In the departments the student is taught the art of operative and prosthetic dentistry. The press of patients is very great, and the opportunities for practice is excellent. The student not only witnesses every kind of dental manipulation as practiced by the experienced, but is himself taught to accomplish all that pertains to the daily duties of a dental surgeon by actual practice.

This intimate union of theoretical and practical instruction will be insisted on during the entire session.

NO STUDENT WILL BE ALLOWED TO OPERATE IN THE INFIRMARY unless provided with the necessary instruments, a list of which may be obtained on application to the demonstrator in charge, with the exception of forceps, lathes, and vulcanizers. All expenses attending operations upon college patients are borne by the institution.

Students must continue in attendance until the close of the session in order to obtain credit for the full term.

Any student associated in any capacity in an advertising dental office will not be allowed to continue his course.

The operating-rooms of the college are open for instruction the entire year, and students are obliged to attend regularly each session during the year.

CURRICULUM.

The instruction embraces a graded course of three years, each course followed by examinations thereon.

Punctual attendance upon the lectures and clinics is required of all students. The Faculty reserves the right to exclude from examinations, either in course or final, any student who has been habitually absent from lectures or other exercises.

The following is a schedule of the time per week devoted to each study:

COURSE OF STUDY.

ORAL PROSTHESIS.

PROF. SHIRLEY W. BOWLES, D. D. S.

The instruction in this department is designed to impart a knowledge of all that pertains to the construction and application of artificial dentures and other oral appliances.

The more important subjects considered are : The preparation and treatment of the mouth for artificial dentures, the taking of impressions, a system of perfect articulations, the method of constructing the different bases used for dentures, and the construction and application of obturators.

Aesthetic or artistic dentistry is systematically taught and enforced. In this it is shown how dentistry may be employed for improving natural deformities and for restoring the contours of the face.

A special feature of the teaching in this department will be the exhaustive study of Crown and Bridge work. Students will be thoroughly grounded in the principles of a safe and conservative practice, so that they may clearly appreciate the indications for Crown and Bridge work. This will be accomplished by clinical instructions, as well as special demonstrations.

Careful attention will be paid to the chemistry of metals and all the materials used.

ORTHODONTIA.

PROF. C. A. HAWLEY, D. D. S.

Lecturer.

The treatment of irregularities of the dental arch requires great skill and judgment. Lectures upon this subject will be thoroughly practical, and the student will be taught the most approved and scientific methods of correcting these deformities. This course of teaching will be illustrated by practical cases.

OPERATIVE DENTISTRY.

H. JEROME ALLEN, M. D., D. D. S.,

The lectures from the chair of operative dentistry present the means and methods in use for the preservation of the natural teeth, together with the principles which form the basis of practice, including a description of instruments and their uses; also appliances and materials used in operating; the treatment and preparation of cavities; the method of filling with various forms of gold and plastic materials. A special feature of instruction from this chair will be practical demonstrations in the mouth, in the infirmary, before the entire class.

A course of instruction in Operative Ceramics is arranged for the graduating class.

DENTAL TECHNICS.

PROF. W. N. COGAN, D. D. S.

This course, while of importance to all new students, possesses especial value to such as have not had the advantage of office pupilage and laboratory work before entering college. It combines the features of manual training and exact observation, enabling the student to become familiar with the forms and tissues of the teeth, and to acquire a certain dexterity in the use of instruments before operating upon the living subject.

DENTAL MEDICINE AND PATHOLOGY.

JAMES T. McCLENAHAN, D. D. S.,

Lecturer.

Dental Medicine will be discussed and presented in conjunction with Dental Pathology; the first subject covering the systemic conditions having oral manifestations, the second covering such portions of general pathology as are of special interest to the dental student.

A detailed consideration is given of all the diseases of the teeth and surrounding parts; normal and abnormal character of oral secretions; dentition and its pathological results. The treatment necessary under each head is detailed.

METALLURGY AND CLINICAL DENTISTRY.

PROF. J. A. WATLING, D. D. S.

A thorough knowledge of metal used in dentistry is taught. Students are also instructed in the art of making and tempering instruments. The amalgum used in the school is made by the students under the supervision of the Professor of Metallurgy.

ORAL SURGERY.

PROF. WALTER W. WEBB, Major and Surgeon, U. S. A., Re'd.

Oral surgery is a specialty which is a distinct outgrowth from dentistry. As the work of the dentist came to include operations upon the surrounding tissues, as well as upon the teeth themselves, the adoption of surgical methods and more thorough training in the principles and practice of surgery became necessary. The addition of instruction in this branch to the dental curriculum includes thorough instruction in the most advanced methods of operative technic, surgical anesthesia, asepsis, and antisepsis, and after-treatment of the case.

The instruction is both didactic and clinical, and students are encouraged to study and treat personally cases under the supervision of the Professor of Oral Surgery and his assistants.

DENTAL HISTOLOGY.

BRUCE L. TAYLOR, D. D. S.

The lectures on Histology include the comparative anatomy and the development of the teeth, and their component tissues, and the functions of dental organs.

ANATOMY.

PROF. FRANK BAKER, M. D., PH. D.

General anatomy will be thoroughly taught by this chair in the most careful manner. Models, plates, and the cadaver are abundantly supplied for the proper illustration of this subject. Special attention will be given to the descriptive anatomy of the head, face, neck and oral cavity.

(For Histology and Osteology, see pages 25 and 26.)

The demonstrator of practical anatomy will have charge of the class in the dissecting room, where dissecting material will be supplied in abundance.

PHYSIOLOGY.

PROF. JOSEPH S. WALL, M. D.

One of the features of the progress and developing of modern Dentistry is its closer association with the wider field of General Medicine, through recognition of the fact that the foundations of each special branch are common to all. The dental practitioner of today, therefore, must acquire a fuller knowledge of the whole organism, in order that he may the more intelligently deal with that part of it which is his immediate province. To this end the student will find, in this course, especial emphasis laid upon the fundamental principles of Physiology, while the practical application will be pointed out in lectures, recitations; and practical demonstrations.

MATERIA MEDICA AND THERAPEUTICS.

PROF. WILFRED M. BARTON, M. D.

A complete course of materia medica and general therapeutics will be given by this chair, while special attention will be called to the nature and therapeutic uses of those drugs required in dentistry. Students will be given opportunities to become personally familiar with the physical properties of drugs, the compounding of prescriptions, and the methods of applying topical remedies.

In this course the student will be made familiar with the different agents used to accomplish anesthesia, the contra-indication to their use, and practical demonstration in the infirmary of the different methods employed for the administration of the various anesthetics.

CHEMISTRY AND TOXICOLOGY.

PROF. JOHN D. HIRD, A. M., LL. M.

It will be the aim of the professor of this chair to give an accurate knowledge of the principles of the science, dwelling especially upon those points which are of peculiar interest to the dental student. Careful attention will be paid to the vital chemistry of anesthetics, and the special chemistry of the mouth, the stomach, and the intestinal tube will be fully treated.

PHYSICS.

PROF. FRANCIS A. S. TONDORF, S. J.

A course in the elements of physics, with special reference to their application to medicine and dentistry, will be given during the first year.

PATHOLOGY AND BACTERIOLOGY.

PROF. EDWIN B. BEHREND, A. B., M. D.

The study of these important subjects is obligatory. This has been made necessary on account of their close relationship to dental pathology and therapeutics. The instructions are principally practical, and embrace full laboratory teaching of the most important subjects of these studies.

GRADUATION.

At the close of the third year a student who has passed all examinations satisfactorily receives the degree of Doctor of Dental Surgery (D. D. S.) on the following conditions:

Candidate must be of age and of good moral character.

Candidate must have passed a satisfactory examination in all the branches of the curriculum; must have attended the practical instruction in all departments, and the last course of instruction must have been at this college.

Candidates must sign an agreement with the Dean to live up to the ethics of the profession.

The examinations are conducted orally and in writing, and are held at the middle and close of each term, thus dividing the strain upon the student.

Prior to such examinations specimens of operations upon the natural organs performed in the Dental Infirmary must be exhibited to the Professor of Operative Dentistry, and such other specimen work as he may require; also an approved specimen of dental mechanism constructed in the Dental Laboratory upon a model of practical use must be submitted to the Professor of Oral Prosthesis.

No student will be admitted to examination for advancement or graduation until all indebtedness for instruction shall have been paid.

FEES.

Matriculation (payable but once)	$ 5.00
Tuition, each year	115.00
Graduation Fee	10.00

Students will be required to make an annual deposit of $10.00 to cover loss, breakage or damage to the property of the school. This deposit, less the charges made against it, is refunded to the student upon his withdrawal.

A student repeating a course will be charged full fees for that course.

Payment of not less than one-fourth of the fees is required at the commencement of the session, the balance by January 1st ensuing. This payment must be made upon registration, and students will not be admitted for re-examination without previous registration.

The expenses of a student during the eight months, including tuition, books, board and lodging, laundry and other incidentals need not exceed $350.00, and $425.00 will be a liberal allowance.

Georgetown University School of Law.

Of the great advantages offered by a Law School over the unassisted reading of a student in a law office there can be no question. Here, however, the experiment has been successfully made of uniting the advantages of the two. The lectures are held in the evening; and, so far as practicable, students who put themselves into timely communication with the Secretary are connected with the offices of the ablest lawyers of the city, where they are allowed to familiarize themselves with the conduct of business and the practical duties of the profession.

The holding of the lectures and other exercises in the evening also enables clerks in the various departments of the Government, and other persons who are engaged during the day, to avail themselves of the privileges of the School.

The site of the institution, at the Capital of the Nation, presents advantages for the study of American jurisprudence which are unequalled elsewhere, and must always remain so.

The Law Library at the United States Capitol contains over 100,000 volumes, embracing all the noted treatises, reports and periodicals, ancient and modern, American, English and of the nations of Continental Europe. By the operation of the copyright law and the outlay of an annual appropriation it is constantly enriched with new acquisitions, and it is believed to be kept in a state of completeness unrivaled among the law libraries of the world. The magnificent collection is freely open to students seven hours daily.

Congress, the Court of Claims, the Supreme Court of the United States, and the Court of Appeals of the District of Columbia are in session during several months of each school year, and, with the Executive Departments, especially the Patent, Pension, and General Land Offices, furnish advantages for professional study nowhere else enjoyed.

The Supreme Court of the District of Columbia has the common law, equity, criminal and probate jurisdiction of a State Court in the States, besides that of the Circuit and District Court of the United States. Its sessions afford the students opportunities for hearing the forensic arguments and forming the acquaintance of the leaders of the American Bar from all parts of the Union, besides thoroughly familiarizing himself with the practice of these various courts.

COST OF BOARDING, ETC.

There is no boarding department connected with the Law School. The majority of the law students board in Washington City, where the Law School is located, and where the cost of comfortable lodging, board, fuel and gas varies from $20 to $30 per month, according to the location and appointments selected. Satisfactory accommodation can easily be had at $25 per month, and there are every year students who provide for themselves comfortably at a cost of $20 per month and even less. Tuition is $100 per annum, with no incidental charges except a diploma fee of $10 upon graduation. Cost of text-books is about $30 per annum. The Law School Session is eight months. The necessary expense for board, lodging, tuition, books, etc., per annum, is therefore about $350, exclusive, of course, of clothing and general incidental expenses.

STUDENTS

Students desiring to become members of the School enter their names upon the Secretary's register at or before the opening of the term in October. Candidates for a degree must have received a high school education, or its equivalent, evidence of which must be presented or a preliminary examination will be required.

Candidates for advanced standing, i. e., those desiring to complete the course in less time than the regular curriculum of three years, must, at the time of entry, present certificates of previous study at some approved Law School, or under the direction of a reputable practitioner. Such certificate must show, moreover, that the candidate has passed a satisfactory examination upon the subjects embraced in the First, or the First and Second Years, as the case may be, otherwise an examination will be necessary before he can enter an advanced class.

This examination will always be required of those whose study has been carried on under the direction of a practitioner, but in no case will a candidate for advanced standing, who has studied under a practitioner, be admitted to a higher class than the Second Year Class.

COURSE OF STUDY.

The regular curriculum will cover a period of three years, divided into a First, Second, and Third Year. Upon the successful completion of the Three Years' Course the student will be entitled to receive the degree of Bachelor of Laws.

Regular and punctual attendance on the part of the student is required, as also preparation for thorough recitations in class daily, and delinquency in either particular will be deemed a sufficient cause for refusing to grant a degree.

Candidates for a degree must have been in regular attendance for at least one year, and must pass a satisfactory examination on the entire year's course of study.

The following is the course of study pursued in the Law School:

FIRST YEAR.

FIRST TERM.

Criminal Law, Professor Wright, Clark on Criminal Law.
Personal Property, Professor Colbert, Darlington on Personal Property.

Elementary Law, Professor Douglas, Smith on Elementary Law.

Private Corporations, Municipal Corporations, Professor Wright, Clark on Corporations; Shepard's Selected Cases on Corporations.

Patent Law and Practice, Professor McGill.

Special attention is called to the fact that the regular attendance of the students, at every recitation, is expected and required, and that an average of 70 per cent must be attained in each subject for students to advance with their classes, or to receive their degree, as the case may be.

Each text-book in the course of study is made the subject of a written examination, upon, or shortly after its completion. Students passing satisfactorily upon the subjects of those examinations will not be required to stand a second examination upon them during the year. A satisfactory examination means an attainment by the student of at least 70 per cent in the written examination.

Those students of the Third Year Class who failed to attain this average in two subjects of the year's assignment will not be allowed to receive their degree, and will not be entitled to a re-examination.

PATENT LAW AND PRACTICE.

For the benefit of those students who intend to specialize patent law, the faculty has inaugurated, beginning with the session of 1910-11, an optional special course on patent law and practice, with the view of familiarizing the student with law and procedure in patent litigation.

This course is open to students of the Third Year Class, and also to members of the bar and graduates of approved law schools.

For students of the Third Year Class there will be no extra charge; for all others the fee will be $40.

There will be two sessions each week proceeding or following the regular lecture hours.

Any students electing this course may be exempt from the Practice Court work.

THE PRACTICE COURT.

Especial painstaking effort has been devoted, with gratifying results, to perfecting such an organization of the Practice Court as would render that adjunct of the School not merely a forum for the argument of mooted questions of law, but a useful and efficient training school for the practical duties of the profession.

As now organized the Court is divided into a Circuit Court and a Court of Appeals.

The Circuit Court, under the charge of Mr. D. W. O'Donoghue and Mr. J. S. Easby-Smith, holds two sessions weekly, known as the Special and the Regular Term. At the Special Term motions, demurrers, pleas in equity, and all proceedings of an interlocutory or preliminary nature which, in actual practice, ordinarily precede the final hearing upon the merits of the case, are heard and disposed of, while at the Regular Term such proceedings are had as usually characterize the final hearing of causes in Courts of the first instance. The practice conforms to that of the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia, with pleadings as at common law.

The Court of Appeals, to which causes may be removed from the Circuit Court by writ of error or appeal conformably to the practice of the United States Supreme Court, is held by Messrs. Leigh Robinson and J. Nota McGill, and sits monthly, or oftener, as the work before it may require.

While the students in the Third Year Course are required to take the leading part in the exercises of the Moot Court, it will continue to be the endeavor of the Faculty to make the Court, as in the past, a training school for all the students, as their progress warrants, in pleading, practice and forensic debate.

LIBRARY AND READING ROOM.

A carefully selected Library, comprising the latest editions of the standard text-books, and the leading reports, has been provided for the accommodation and convenience of students in a well-lighted and suitably appointed suite of rooms in the Law Building set apart exclusively for the purpose. These rooms are open to students and alumni of the School at all hours of the day and evening.

PRIZES.

The following prizes are offered for the competition of the students in the several classes:

1st. A cash prize of $50 to the member of the First Year Class maintaining the best average in recitations and examinations during the year.

2d. A cash prize of $25 to the member of the First Year Class maintaining the second best average in recitations and examinations during the year.

3d. A cash prize of $50 to the member of the Second Year Class maintaining the best average in recitations and examinations during the year.

4th. A cash prize of $25 to the member of the Second Year Class maintaining the second best average in recitations and examinations during the year.

5th. A cash prize of $75 to the member of the Third Year Class maintaining the best average in recitations and examinations during the year.

6th. A cash prize of $40 to the member of the Third Year Class maintaining the second best average in recitations and examinations during the year.

7th. A cash prize of $40 to the author of the best essay upon any legal subject, among the members of the Third Year Class.

8th. A cash prize of $40 to the author of the best essay upon any legal subject, among the members of the Fourth Year Class.

9th. A prize donated by T. and J. W. Johnson & Co., of Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, of a set of "Smith's Leading Cases," to the author of the best essay upon any legal subject, among the members of the Third and Fourth Year Classes.

10th. A prize, donated by the Edward Thompson Company, of Northpoint, Long Island, New York, of a set of the Encyclopedia of Pleading and Practice, or a set of the First Edition Encyclopedia of Law, or a set of the Second Edition Encyclopedia of Law (as the student may elect), to the member of the Third Year Class who shall write the best thesis on some legal subject, to be assigned by the Faculty.

11th. A prize, donated by the American Law Book Company, of New York, consisting of the first thirteen volumes of the "Cyclopedia of Law and Procedure," to the member of the Fourth Year Class who shall write the best graduation thesis, on a legal subject, to be assigned by the Faculty.

FOURTH YEAR OR POST-GRADUATE COURSE.

Students who have completed the foregoing three years' course, and holders of the degree of Bachelor of Laws, will, upon the successful completion of this course, be entitled to receive the degree of Master of Laws.

The principal subjects included in this course are as follows:

The History of the Development of Law, tracing its Origin and Development from Ancient to Modern Times; the History of English Law; the History of Constitutional Law and the Foundations of Civil Liberty; Natural Law; Canon Law; Civil Law; International Law and Foreign Relations of the United States; Admiralty and Maritime Law; the Conflict of Laws, especially as affecting the subjects of Domicile, Citizenship, Residence, Marriage and Divorce, Parent and Child, Guardian and Ward, Interest and Usury, Deeds and other Contracts, Wills, the Administration of Estates of Decedents, Receivers, etc.; Special Tort Law, including Trusts and other Combinations; Railroad Accident Law, etc.; Special Contract Law, including Fire and Life Insurance; Contracts of Carriers; Statute of Frauds; the Statute of Limitations, etc.; Special Real Estate Law, including Water and Water-courses; Fixtures; Easements, etc.; Patent Law, including the General Principles of the Patent Statutes and Procedure before the Patent Office and Federal Courts; Jurisdiction of the United States Courts; the Conflict of Jurisdiction; Practice, Transportation as affected by the Inter-State Commerce Law; Estoppel; Medical Jurisprudence; Legal Ethics.

Besides these subjects the Faculty has conceded to establish practical exercises in General Practice, Pleading and Evidence. In this course the student will be required to draft, not only the different pleadings, both Law and Equity, and all motions incident to practice in both Courts, but contracts, deeds, leases and other papers which come within the practice of the general practitioner. Questions arising on the pleadings prepared by the students will be argued by all of them, and questions of evidence will be put to all the class, and, after proper preparation, every student will be expected to argue, either in favor of or against the admissibility of the evidence, as he may be called upon by the Lecturer in charge; likewise questions embracing the rule of evidence under consideration will be put without notice to the students, in order not only to illustrate the subject under consideration, but to teach the student to apply the rules of evidence in exactly the same manner as they are applied by the lawyer in the trial of a cause.

It is intended by these exercises that the student gain a practical knowledge which will aid him materially in entering upon the practice of the law.

Lectures on special subjects will be delivered occasionally throughout the year by lawyers and educators of national reputation.

The arrangement of the subjects in this course and the hours of delivery of the lectures will be announced at the commencement of the first term.

TEXT-BOOKS.

Minor on the Conflict of Laws; Patterson on Railway Accident Law; Curtis on Jurisdiction of United States Courts; Sohn's Principles of Roman Law and Sharswood's Legal Ethics.

Leading cases upon the several subjects will be assigned by the lecturers to be read in connection with the lectures.

As a prerequisite to graduation students in this course will be required not only to pass a satisfactory examination on the entire year's course of study, but also to submit a satisfactory thesis upon a legal subject to be selected and announced by the Faculty.

LECTURE STUDENTS.

Those who wish to avail themselves of the lectures delivered at this School without being subject to recitations or being candidates for a degree may do so upon payment of one-half of the regular charge for tuition.

SYSTEM OF INSTRUCTION.

The system of instruction adopted by the Georgetown Law School is as follows: A lesson, averaging from thirty to forty pages of the text book, is assigned in advance, which the student is expected to master as thoroughly as he can before the lecture hour. The lecturer then goes over the ground covered by the text, explaining what is obscure or difficult, pointing out the application in practice of the principles treated of, and illustrating, by examples, their application in actual cases. Then follows the recitation in which the lesson is gone over in the shape of questions accompanied by oral exposition on the assigned work, under the direction of an instructor, requiring the students to reproduce in their own language all that it contains, with practical applications of the doctrines learned to supposed cases. The student thus has three opportunities of becoming familiar, theoretically and practically, with each topic treated in the course: once by careful study of the text, a second time by the explanation of it in the lecture, and once again by himself reproducing and practically applying the principles thus taught, in the oral recitation. This system has been found, after careful and painstaking test, most satisfactory to both teacher and student, and productive of highest standard of proficiency in study. It is believed to be absolutely the best.

TERMS.

The charge for attendance in the First, Second and Third Year is One Hundred Dollars per annum. As far as payment of tuition is concerned the collegiate year is regarded as divided into two equal terms, beginning on the first Wednesday in October and February, respectively, and one-half the annual charge becomes due and payable on the following day, Thursday. For the accommodation of students the Secretary will, when requested, receive monthly payments strictly in advance.

Tuition in the Fourth or Post-Graduate Course is also One Hundred Dollars per annum, payable semi-annually, or in monthly installments in advance.

Persons enrolling their names as students will be considered as having entered the school for not less than one term unless an express agreement to the contrary is made. Payment will not be received for less than one full month, nor can any deduction be made for absence.

For attendance on Lectures, as hereinbefore stated, the charge is Fifty Dollars per annum, payable in monthly installments in advance.

The fee for Graduation, which is additional to the yearly charge for attendance, and which includes all expenses of the annual commencement, is Ten Dollars.

General Statement.

Georgetown University consists of the COLLEGE, the SCHOOL OF MEDICINE, the SCHOOL OF LAW and the SCHOOL OF DENTAL SURGERY. The College, however, comprises in itself three distinct departments, viz: The Graduate School, the Undergraduate School, and the Observatories. Each School or Department is under the direction of its own Dean, and each Faculty has the power of legislating on its own affairs, but this power can be exercised only in subordination to the President and Directors of the University, and subject to their approval.

HISTORY.

The foundation of Georgetown College was projected as early as the year 1785, when the Rev. John Carroll, afterwards the first Archbishop of Baltimore, formed the plan and proposed it to his associates.

On November 13, 1786, the Corporation of Roman Catholic Clergymen, in the Chapter held at Whitmarsh, Md., adopted a series of "Resolves Concerning the Institution of a School," in which it ordered that a School should be erected at Georgetown, Md., and directed the sale of a piece of land belonging to the corporation, in order that the proceeds might be applied to the erection of the first building. Rev. Messrs. John Carroll, James Pellenz, Robert Molyneux, John Ashton, and Leonard Neale were appointed Directors.

Shortly afterwards an appeal was issued, entitled "Proposals to Establish an Academy at Georgetown, Potowmack River, Maryland." In this circular it was stated that "Agreeably to the liberal Principle of our Constitution, the Seminary will be open to students of Every Religious Profession." In 1788 the erection of the first building was undertaken; yet 1789 is commonly considered the year of the foundation of the College, as the deed of the original piece of ground was dated January 23rd in that year. Students were not received before 1791.

Upon the reorganization of the Society of Jesus in Maryland, in 1805, the Georgetown College, as it had already begun to be called, was transferred to the fathers of that Society, under whose control and direction the University still remains.

An act of Congress, dated March 1, 1815, reads as follows:

“AN ACT

“CONCERNING THE COLLEGE OF GEORGETOWN IN THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA:

“Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That it shall and may be lawful for such persons as now are, or from time to time may be, the President and Directors of the College of Georgetown, within the District of Columbia, to admit any of the students belonging to said College, or other persons meriting academical honors, to any degree in the faculties, arts, sciences, and liberal professions, to which persons are usually admitted in other Colleges or Universities of the United States; and to issue in an appropriate form the diplomas or certificates which may be requisite to testify to the admission to such degree.

“Speaker of the House of Representatives.

“JOHN GAILLARD,

“President pro tempore of the Senate.

“Approved March 1, 1815.

“JAMES MADISON.”

Two years later the power of granting degrees, thus acquired, was first exercised.

On March 30, 1833, the Holy See empowered Georgetown College to confer, in its name, degrees in Philosophy and Theology.

The next step in the development of the College was the erection and equipment of a complete Astronomical Observatory in 1842; and in the following year the formal incorporation of the institution was effected by Congress in the following act:

“AN ACT

“TO INCORPORATE GEORGETOWN COLLEGE, IN THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA :

“Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That there be erected in Georgetown, in the District of Columbia, a college for the instruction of youth in the liberal arts and sciences, the name, style, and title of which shall be, ‘The President and Directors of Georgetown College.’

SEC. 2. *And be it further enacted, That James Ryder, Thomas Lilly, Samuel Barber, James Curley, and Anthony Rey, be, and they are hereby declared to be, a body politic and corporate with perpetual succession in deed or in law to all intents and purposes whatsoever, by name, style and title of ‘The President and Directors of Georgetown College,’ by which name and title they and their successors shall be competent, at law and in equity, to take to themselves and their successors, for the use of said College, any estate whatsoever, in any mesuage, lands, tenements, hereditaments, goods, chattels, moneys, and other effects, by gifts, bequests, devise, grant, donations, bargain, sale, conveyance, assurance, or will; and the same to grant, bargain, sell, transfer, assign, convey, assure, devise, declare to use and farm let, and to place out on interest for the use of said College, in such manner as to them, or a majority of them, shall be deemed most beneficial to said institution; and to receive the same, their rents, issues and profits, income and interest, and to apply the same for the proper use and benefit of the said College; and by the same name to sue and be sued, to implead, be impleaded in any courts of law and equity in all manner of suits, actions, and proceedings whatsoever, and generally by and in the same name to do and transact all and every the business touching or concerning the premises, *Provided, That the same do not exceed the value of $50,000 net annual income, over and above and exclusive of the receipts for the education and support of the students of said College.

“SEC. 3. And be it further enacted, That the said corporation shall adopt a common seal, under and by which all deeds, diplomas and acts of said college or corporation shall pass and be authenticated, and the same seal, at their pleasure, to break and alter, or devise a new one.

“SEC. 4. And be it further enacted, That no misnomer of the said corporation shall defeat or annul any donation, gift, grant, devise or bequest to or from the said corporation.

"SEC. 5. And be it further enacted, That the said corporation shall not employ its fund or income, or any part thereof, in banking operations, or for any purpose or object other than those expressed in the first section of this act; and that nothing in this act contained shall be so construed as to prevent Congress from altering, amending, or repealing the same.

"Speaker of the House of Representatives.

"WILLIE P. MANGUM,

"President pro tempore of the Senate.

"Approved June 10, 1844.

"JOHN TYLER.

"I certify that the above is a true copy from the original act in this department.

"Department of State, November 22, 1844.

"J. C. CALHOUN, Secretary."

The School of Medicine was opened in 1851, and the School of Law in 1870. The Graduate School was in existence as early as 1856, in which year it comprised four resident graduates. The University Hospital was opened in 1898 and the training school for nurses in 1903. In 1901 the first session of the Dental School was held. In 1909 the Seismic Station was erected.

LOCATION AND EXTRINSIC ADVANTAGES.

In its location at the Capital of the nation, Georgetown University enjoys advantages which can hardly be overestimated and which must necessarily increase with the growth of the country. Not only is the city, free as it is from noise, dirt and distracting surroundings of a great commercial center, most favorable to the tranquil and earnest pursuit of study, but it has an unparalleled educational equipment in the great scientific collections and libraries of the Government. By the authority of Congress all such facilities for research and illustration in the Governmental collections are made accessible to the scientific investigators and students of institutions of higher learning in the District of Columbia.

This provision applies to the Library of Congress, the National Museum, the Patent Office, the Bureau of Education, the Bureau of Ethnology, the Army Medical Museum, the Department of Agriculture, the Fish Commission, the Botanical Gardens, the Coast and Geodetic Survey, the Geological Survey, the Naval Observatory, several hospitals and other departments supplied with special libraries, laboratories and equipment for research. The administration of these bureaus brings together a large corps of scientific workers, and has already made Washington the great scientific as well as political center of the country. One consequence of these conditions is that the scientific societies are numerous and flourishing. Even the presence of the National Government, with its executive, legislative and judicial machinery, is a most powerful agent of education; to be familiar as a matter of daily observation with the workings of the House of Representatives, the Senate, the Supreme Court and the Administration is a privilege and a training which cannot be found elsewhere.

Of all these extrinsic facilities, the various Faculties of Georgetown University make full use, and among her instructors are found not a few of the eminent scholars and scientific men employed in the technical service of the Government. Her students meet with a cordial reception and careful assistance in their work in the various libraries, museums and scientific bureaus.

To the advantages enumerated above is added the atmosphere of study and research engendered by the presence of the many universities of which Washington is rapidly becoming the seat.

NEEDS OF THE UNIVERSITY.

The ordinary source of income for the University are the fees of the students. During her history she has received donations greater or less in amount, but with all these her present equipment of buildings and educational apparatus has been acquired only by incurring a considerable debt. Even this much could not have been effected, had not the President and Directors, as well as the other Fathers, the Scholastics, and Lay Brothers of the Society of Jesus, given their services to the University without compensation. Under the present administration every effort is being made to diminish this debt. It is hoped that it may be steadily decreased until it is extinguished, so that after that the students' fees may be used entirely to meet the running expenses of the University, and that thus our financial affairs may be put upon a better financial basis.

The more pressing needs of the University are the following:

1. New and more commodious buildings for the Medical and Dental Schools in the immediate vicinity of the College.
2. The extinction of the debt of the Medical School, and the foundation of professorial chairs.
3. The extinction of the debt of the Georgetown University Hospital.
4. The foundation of a practical School of Technology to consist at the beginning of at least a School of Civil Engineering, a School of Mechanical Engineering, and a School of Electrical Engineering. This would involve the purchase of ground for the School in the immediate neighborhood of the College, the erection of buildings, the foundation of professorships, and the provision of technological apparatus. Although it is generally known that such a School is not in existence at Georgetown, applications for such instruction are received every year.

5. The erection of a new dormitory building for students of the Law, Medical and Dental Departments.

6. The completion of the Observatory Equipment, and the foundation of a working fund for the Observatory Staff.

7. The foundation of a salary fund for the Physical Director of the Ryan Gymnasium.

8. Funds for the long contemplated and desired removal of the Preparatory School to a place separated from the College.

9. Funds for the completion of the Faculty Building, including a new infirmary for the Faculty and Students. The Faculty now occupy a large part of the present infirmary. On the completion of the Faculty Building with a new infirmary, the present infirmary would be entirely free for the occupation of the students and would be well suited for housing the students of the Junior Section of the Preparatory School until such time as it can be removed to another place.

10. Funds to erect a central heating plant for the College. There are now four independent heat centers. Marked economy would result from such a central heating plant.

All bequests should be made to the "President and Directors of Georgetown College in the District of Columbia."

Acknowledgments.

The President and Directors hereby express their grateful acknowledgments to the following friends and benefactors of the University, and to all others from whom donations and favors were received during the year:

The College.

Georgetown College constitutes one of the four greater divisions of Georgetown University, viz: The College, the Medical Schools, the Law School and the Dental School. The College, however, comprises within itself three distinct departments, the Graduate School, the Undergraduate School and the Astronomical Observatory.

SITE AND SURROUNDINGS.

Georgetown College is situated on Georgetown Heights, twenty minutes ride from the White House, overlooking the city of Washington and the Potomac River, and commanding one of the noblest views in the world. The site is healthful, and the climate mild.

The College buildings are nine in number: 1. The Infirmary. 2. The Faculty Building. 3. The Ryan Hall. 4. The Maguire Building. 5. The Healey Building. 6. The North Building. 7. The Ryan Gymnasium. 8. The Dahlgren Chapel. 9. The Observatory. They present an aggregate frontage of about twelve hundred feet. They are surrounded by grounds comprising seventy-eight acres, a large part of which is occupied by the "Walks," the woodland scenery of which has made them famous.

ACCOMMODATIONS.

There is a large number of private rooms at the disposal of the students, distributed among the following buildings: The Healey Building, Old North Building, Ida M. Ryan Hall, Maguire Building and Mulledy Building. The rooms are all simply furnished, and supplied with heat and light.

None but graduates are allowed to board outside of the collegiate premises, unless with immediate relatives.

In the Healey Building the first, second and third floors are devoted to class-rooms. The College Parlors, the Coleman Museum, the Philodemic Hall and the Gaston Hall are located in the North Pavilion; the Archive Room, the Hirst Reading Room, and the Riggs Library are in the South Pavilion. The fourth and fifth floors are taken up by the students' rooms of which there are fifty-two, facing east and west.

In the Old North Building the first floor contains the Senior Lecture Room and students' living rooms. The second and third floors are occupied by students' rooms.

The Ida M. Ryan Hall, the splendid gift of Mrs. Thomas F. Ryan, contains the Students' Dining Room and living rooms for students. There are suites of rooms, facing the Potomac, which consist of a study room and two bed rooms opening into a private bath. On each floor there are single rooms, facing east or west, and double rooms facing the Potomac, and facing north and opening on the college quadrangle. The rooms are furnished with desk, chairs, wardrobe, chiffonier, washstand, bed and bedding.

Heat, light and service are supplied for all the students' rooms. The charges for rental of these rooms are given under heading of "Fees and Expenses" on another page.

GENERAL CONSPECTUS OF STUDIES.

The course of studies at Georgetown is carefully and logically graded throughout. The aim of the course is to give the student a complete general and liberal education, which will train and develop all powers of the mind, and will cultivate no one faculty to an exaggerated degree at the expense of the others. It is intended, too, to impart the broadest possible culture, together with accuracy in scholarship. To attain this end, during the Undergraduate period the course is arranged to train the student in the Arts of Poetry, Literary Criticism and Oratorical Rhetoric, using the Greek and Latin Classics as the basis of instruction together with such of the English Classics as lend themselves to comparative work, the Art of Logic and the Sciences of Rational and Natural Philosophy, to-wit, Metaphysics and Ethics, Mathematics, Mechanics, Physics and Chemistry, giving at the same time the accessory information contained in Geology, the History of Christendom and the History of English literature; and finally adding the accomplishment of one other Modern Language. Hereby it is hoped to develop the faculties of accurate observation and exact expression, logical reasoning and aesthetic taste, of conservative theorizing and imaginative invention, of a sure grasp of the meaning of language, of a power of expression that is creative, convincing and a motive to human action, a familiarity with the canons of classic utterance from the models of antiquity such as will help the students to measure up their own speech and composition to the best of critical taste. All this is supplemented by the foundations of such information and finish as become a youth of nascent culture and Christian manhood.

The exacting and comprehensive nature of this course may fitly form a subject for comment. It is believed that its requirements are seldom equalled. As an indication of the labor demanded for the successful completion of the course, it may be stated that the amount of time spent in class by all the students varies from twenty to twenty-five hours weekly. To prepare for these classes and recitations, obligatory study for about twenty-three hours per week is exacted. Moreover, students who aim at a high standing, spend much time in study in addition to that which is of obligation.

It is presumed that a man of fair capacity who has conscientiously followed this curriculum under capable professors will be possessed of trained and cultivated faculties, and will have a considerable amount of positive knowledge in every department of learning. He will thus be in touch and intelligent sympathy with progress in every field of intellectual activity, and be saved as far as possible from narrowness and superficiality. Such an education serves, it is believed, as the best foundation for special training in any branch which the student, with his mind now mature and disciplined, may decide to take up.

It has been the experience of a century or more at Georgetown that a careful training in the classic languages of Latin and Greek have resulted in the development of the mental faculties of the student. It has yet to be demonstrated that there has been found an adequate substitute of equal educational power. Nay, it has been openly confessed that the omission of the classical languages as a substantial part of a college curriculum has resulted disastrously for liberal education.

METHOD OF INSTRUCTION.

One of the most essential necessities for success in educational work is the possession of natural, thorough and effective methods of teaching. It is necessary, too, that these methods should be uniform in spirit throughout the school, employed equally by all teachers under whom the student may come. In this respect Georgetown enjoys peculiar advantages. Her teaching is guided by the principles laid down in the famous Ratio Studiorum. This body of rules and suggestions has been elaborated by centuries of experience, and has been judged worthy of attentive study and hearty approbation by the greatest scholars. It is a noteworthy fact that many of the recently devised methods of teaching, such as the Natural, the Inductive and similar plans, are in reality merely repetitions of the devices recommended long ago in the Ratio Studiorum.

A little careful reflection will justify the traditional training in the liberal arts of grammar, poetics and rhetoric, the sciences of mathematics, mechanics, physics and chemistry, with systematic rational philosophy, as the proper means to accomplish the above development of a student's mental faculties to fullness of adolescent power.

DEPARTMENT OF PHYSICS.

The Department of Physics occupies the ground and first floors of the Maguire Building. A corridor runs through the center of the first floor dividing it into equal parts. Facing the quadrangle on the north is a spacious lecture room, the rooms on the south side being devoted to work shops. On the ground floors are the cabinet and a well-arranged laboratory for the use of the students.

DEPARTMENT OF CHEMISTRY.

The Chemistry Department is situated on the ground floor of the Healey Building and consists of lecture rooms and laboratories. The lecture rooms are well equipped with all the necessary instruments to demonstrate by experiment the principles given in the lectures. In the laboratories each student is assigned a desk for his individual work; each desk is fitted with drawer and locker and independent drainage and water and gas supply, while all necessary chemicals and apparatus are at hand.

BIOLOGY.

The nucleus of a biological collection exists in the College, consisting of a collection of birds, fishes, shells and plants, together with biological charts and skeletons. At present biology is not a course required by the Bachelor's Degree, but when circumstances warrant it provision will be made for courses in biology.

THE COLEMAN MUSEUM.

As early as the year 1840 the collections in Natural History under the care of Fathers James Curley and T. Meredith Jenkins, had become sufficiently extensive to warrant the setting apart of a special room for their preservation and exhibition. Here they remained until 1889, when prior to the Centenary Celebration, they were transferred to their present quarters, in the north pavilion of the main building. To this hall, by decree of the Faculty, was given the name of James V. Coleman, '69, in acknowledgment of his distinguished benefactions to the College. It is a large, well-lighted room, fitted with cases of cherry wood.

The various collections have been rearranged and displayed and a complete catalogue of the Museum prepared.

Particular attention has been given to the mineral collection, which embraces specimens illustrating the entire field of Mineralogy. Besides the exhibition series, numbering about three thousand specimens, there is a working collection carefully determined and arranged in drawers for the convenience of the classes. A feature of this department is the collection of minerals found in the District of Columbia by Mr. John W. Langdale, and presented by him to the Museum. The collection contains many species not previously known to exist in this locality. Mr. Langdale has also donated several hundred specimens to the general collection, and has always placed at the disposal of the Curator his rare skill as a mineralogist.

In Geology and Paleontology, likewise, there are excellent collections, the rocks and fossils, arranged stratigraphically occupying an entire row of double cases. Notable among the latter is the unusual number of specimens of the remains of vertebrates, many collected in Alaska. A special building is needed for the proper display of the articles in the museum, which is now overcrowded.

THE ART AND HISTORICAL COLLECTIONS.

The College possesses a valuable collection of works of art, and a number of Maryland Colonial relics. It has long been the wish of the Faculty to increase these collections and give them the prominence they deserve.

Among the paintings are several works of merit by ancient and modern masters, two mosaic pictures of great beauty and value, several busts in marble or bronze, an admirable portrait of the Founder of the College, Archbishop John Carroll painted by Gilbert Stuart, and presented by Judge P. Ord. A full length portrait of Mrs. Henry S. Lehr, painted by Muller Ury, adorns the first parlor.

In the room of the Philodemic Society, which has been newly decorated and furnished, is a series of portraits and photographs of distinguished alumni. It is hoped that they will add to this collection from time to time.

George D. Mackey, Esq., of New York, presented forty-five engravings, mezzotints, coppers, photographs, etc., of unusually large size, collected abroad, and embracing signed Dore, Martins, etc.

William Vincent McGrath, Jr., '87, decorated many of the recitation halls with a gallery of forty-two marillo-tints mounted in highly artistic frames.

THE BEAUCHAMP HUGHES ART CABINET.

The Beauchamp Hughes Art Cabinet, with its rare collection of precious laces, pictures, ancient manuscripts, bronzes, china, and bric-brac, is much admired.

THE RIGGS MEMORIAL LIBRARY.

The liberal spirit of Mr. E. Francis Riggs, of Washington, has furnished the College collection of books with a fitting home, in the South Pavilion. A tablet erected by the Faculty attests the devotion with which the founder dedicated his gift to the memory of his father, the late Mr. George W. Riggs, and his brother, Mr. Thomas Lauranson, once a student of the College.

The central reading room is lighted from the sides and ceiling, and, since the introduction of electricity, is available at all hours. The alcoves are designed to afford shelf-room for 104,000 volumes, and are furnished with comfortable appliances for study and consultation.

The collection of books is estimated at more than 100,000. Among these are many rare, curious and unique works. One hundred volumes printed between the years 1472 and 1520; three manuscripts anterior to the fifteenth century, and others of later periods, together with a number of fac-similes, such as the Duke de Loubat's splendid reproductions in photochromography of Ancient Aztec MSS., interest the visitor.

In the department of Fine Arts, the taste and liberality of the Rev. James J. Chittick, of Hyde Park, Mass., are building up a notable collection of books embracing galleries of paintings, histories and treatises dealing with art and biographies of the great masters.

It will afford librarians and bibliophiles particular pleasure to find in the Riggs, illustrations of many nice points of their specialty in editions, bindings, bookplates, etc. Among the libraries incorporated in it is that of the historian, John Gilmary Shea, LL. D., which is valuable for American and Indian languages.

THE RIGGS MEMORIAL LIBRARY EXTENSION.

The accumulation of books in recent years and the prospective growth of the Library made additional space necessary. Accordingly in the course of last summer, Mr. E. Francis Riggs continued his generosity of the past by the creation of a stack in the large hall, sixty by forty feet, situated beneath the main Library. This is calculated to hold seventy thousand volumes. The floor of the new room was strengthened and rendered fireproof by means of reinforced concrete, and a stack of steel and glass with numerous electric lights installed. An ornamental staircase communicates with the Library above.

In this extension are placed the collection of Dr. John Gilmary Shea, rich in Americana, ecclesiastical chronicles and Indian languages, the entire division of History, and what will prove of deep interest, collections pertaining to the history of Georgetown University and the scientific and literary products of its professors and scholars. Moreover it furnishes material, conveniences and facilities to visiting authors and writers to whom a cordial welcome for consultation and research is always extended; in fact, no better extension could have been contrived as a magnified study for those who wish to delve among the historical treasures of the Library.

THE MORGAN MARYLAND COLONIAL HISTORY ENDOWMENT.

LIBRARIAN: REV. EDWARD I. DEVITT, S. J.

Through the generosity of James Ethelbert Morgan, there has been established a fund for the prosecution of research in Maryland Colonial history and the history of the District of Columbia. The ground floor of the library building is entirely devoted to this work. It contains an archive room which is as strictly fireproof and strong as engineering skill could devise and is large enough to contain the documents of centuries to come. Its present value in authentic papers is incalculable. Old Maryland families who wish to safeguard for future generations their family papers and documents, find our archive room an appropriate and safe place of deposit. Besides the archive room, is an excellent Maryland Colonial Library which is being continually enlarged from the original productive fund and by gifts from those interested in the history of Maryland and the District of Columbia. This room also contains facilities for study and examination of papers and documents.

THE HIRST LIBRARY.

The students of the senior division owe a debt of gratitude to Anthony A. Hirst, LL. D., of Philadelphia. He has had erected the bookstack of oak and iron in the hall of the south pavilion which serves them as their library. This contains about 5,000 volumes selected with the view of furnishing the student with the means of reference as well as entertainment. Combined with it is the reading room in which newspapers from the chief cities of the country, together with the leading reviews and magazines, are kept on file. Both are open to graduate and undergraduate students, subject to a fee, necessary to defray ordinary expenses.

DISCIPLINE.

The discipline in force at Georgetown is paternal. It has in view the safeguarding of those hours of study so necessary to prepare for attendance at class, and the punctual and regular attendance at the various College exercises, which is required to produce that intellectual and moral training which it is Georgetown's aim to impart.

To safeguard their punctual and regular attendance at class and other College exercises hour by hour from the very beginning to the very end of the year is a more difficult matter, but one of the utmost importance. What is learned from the living voice of the teacher is acquired more thoroughly and more completely. The friction of mind with mind in the classroom, the work of emulation and work in concert, the proposal of difficult points not explained by the text book and their solution, the repetition in public of the whole lesson are some of the more important agencies at work during the hour of class, which can not be well supplied out of class, and so an hour of class lost is a distinct and in some sense an irreparable loss. And it is not only a loss of mental training, it is a serious menace to the regularity of College discipline. The absence of one suggests, perhaps encourages, the absence of another, and so gradually a noticeable absenteeism arises which enervates regular attendance and discourages the teacher in his efforts to impart knowledge to his whole class. Hence it is that leave of absence from College during term time will never be granted except for the most imperative reasons, on the written request of the parent or guardian with the endorsement of the prefect of studies and the prefect of discipline and at the sole discretion of the President. Parents are earnestly requested to co-operate with us in our work of maintaining regular attendance at class from the very first hour to the very last hour of the year. Hence they are not expected to request that their sons should be exempted from class when they come to visit Washington, nor are they supposed to ask that their sons may go to their homes during term time, except for the most imperative reasons, as mentioned above. There is a special reason why parents should not request that their sons should be absent over Sunday. It is that on Sunday morning the formal religious influence of the college is exerted by means of sermons and sodalities. They are requested to see that their sons return promptly at the beginning of the term, and to insist that they remain to the very end. Should they act otherwise a painful situation is created for the President of the University. His duty to Georgetown requires him not to accede to the request that has been made, and yet this makes him seem to antagonize the parent before his son, and this tends to belittle the parent's authority in his son's eyes. The regulations which have been made for the conduct of athletic sports have only in view the purpose of safeguarding the hours of study and of the hours of class from interruption. It is thought that a student who passes through the discipline above outlined will graduate from Georgetown an educated gentleman disciplined in mind and heart for the business of life.

RELIGIOUS INSTRUCTION.

Religious instruction is considered of the first importance in education, but students not of the Catholic faith are exempt from the instruction given at the College.

Christian Doctrine is one of the regular class recitations, lectures being given in each class. The matter is so divided for the different classes that in the four years of college the student will cover the whole ground of Catholic faith in rational fashion. In addition a weekly instruction of one-half hour is given all the college students together along some line of Christian Morals, so arranged as to give the student a clear understanding of the same before he graduates. A Gold Medal is awarded at the end of the year to the author of the best paper on the matter of these lectures.

Further instruction is given to such as have need of it, or are preparing for the Sacraments. For the development of piety there is a Sodality which meets weekly, and a Georgetown center of the Apostleship of Prayer; while for the promotion of practical charity there is a College Conference of St. Vincent de Paul. All Catholic students are expected to approach the Sacraments at least once a month.

THE CHAPEL OF THE SACRED HEART.

In the College Quadrangle stands the Chapel of the Sacred Heart of Jesus, measuring 109 feet in extreme length, and varying in breadth from 40 to 60 feet. This structure is the generous gift of the wife of an alumnus, Mrs. John Vinton Dahlgren (Mrs. Henry Symes Lehr), née Elizabeth Drexel. The Chapel was consecrated on Friday, June 9, 1893. Its seating capacity is about 500. The College thus possesses a beautiful edifice, wherein the services of the Church may be performed with fitting solemnity and dignity.

SESSIONS AND HOLIDAYS.

The Academic Year is divided into two terms:

The first term in 1912-1913, will begin September 11, 1912, and will end January 31, 1913.

The Christmas recess begins on December 22nd (11.00 A. M.), and ends on January 3rd (6.00 P. M.). The Easter recess extends from Wednesday, in Holy Week, to the Wednesday after Easter.

There is no class on Wednesday and Sunday afternoons, nor on days of general religious or National observance.

The classes begin at 9 A. M. and continue until 12. They are resumed at 1 and continue until 3 P. M., with ten minutes intermission between classes.

EXAMINATIONS AND PROMOTIONS.

A general examination in all classes is held in writing toward the close of each term. Supplementary oral examinations are also exacted.

Promotions ordinarily take place at the beginning of the first term. They will rarely be made at any other time.

AWARDS AND REPORTS.

The prizes, at the Annual Distribution in June, are awarded to those who, by their class exercises during the year and the excellence of their examinations, attain the required number of marks. Absentees are not allowed to make up marks for honors. Students, therefore, who remain at home beyond the period allotted for vacation or recess cannot expect to hold distinguished places in their classes, and students who withdraw before the final examinations will not be promoted.

Besides the Annual Distribution of Awards in the Undergraduate School, the Faculty and students are assembled at the beginning of every month, when the marks and standing of the students in their respective classes for the preceding month are publicly proclaimed, and testimonials awarded to those who have attained the prescribed degree of excellence.

Four reports of the standing in class, the progress and general conduct of every student are sent to his parents or guardian every year, to wit: at the end of November, after the mid-year examinations, at the end of April and after the final examinations in June.

Students holding scholarships must maintain in all classes an average of seventy per cent.

PRIZES OPEN FOR GENERAL COMPETITION.

ACADEMIC COSTUME.

The University cap and gown are worn by the Senior Class of the College, and on the more solemn academic occasions their use is obligatory. All graduates of the University are entitled to wear the complete academic costume, consisting of gown, cap and hood. All members of the Faculty who hold a degree from another institution of learning may wear the hood proper to the corresponding degree of this University.

It is hoped that at all commencements and other gatherings of an academic character this right will be exercised by those possessed of it.

The hood indicates in every case the wearer's degree. The Bachelor's hood is ten inches shorter than the Master's, while the Doctor's hood, of the same length as the Master's, is attached to a panel of the same material as that of the hood itself. The department in which the degree was taken is pointed out by the color of the edging, white designating Arts and Sciences; blue, Philosophy; purple, Law; green, Medicine; scarlet, Theology, etc. The interior of the hood is lined with the College colors, blue and gray, in silk.

In the foregoing and all other particulars, the hood adopted by Georgetown follows the intercollegiate agreement.

Graduate Schools.

The first record of graduate students in residence is found in the catalogue of 1855-6. In that year there were four such students. The catalogue of this year thus describes the course that was pursued: "Students who desire to pursue further the Philosophical course may in a second year apply to Natural Right, which, besides a more enlarged course of Ethics will embrace the fundamental principles of Civil, Political and International Right, and a critical history of Philosophy. Natural Philosophy will be continued and embellished by the study of Natural History."

In the year 1905-6 all scholarships in the Graduate School were withdrawn. In the year 1906-7 a rule was adopted that only graduates of colleges whose requirements for the A. B. are substantially the same as those of Georgetown would be received and that graduate students in residence should be subject to the general regulations of undergraduate resident students. Under these conditions, there have been very few suitable candidates for the Graduate School. It is obvious that courses cannot be provided and professors supplied unless an adequate number of students matriculate. Hence for the year 1912-13 the following general regulation will be in force: Graduate students desiring to matriculate in the Georgetown University Graduate School must signify their intention to the Prefect of Studies before July 1, 1912.

On August 1, 1912, should the number of those who desire to matriculate warrant it, announcement of the courses to be offered in the Graduate School for 1912-13 will be made to those who have made application to the Prefect of Studies.

The Observatory.

REV. JOHN T. HEDRICK, S. J., Director.

The Observatory stands on an eminence at a distance of about four hundred yards from the College. The main building is sixty feet long and thirty feet wide, and is divided from east to west into three rooms. The eastern room contains a nine-inch photographic transit instrument, with collimators, by Saegmuller, of Washington. In the western room is mounted a transit instrument, by Ertel & Son, of Munich. It is seven feet long and has a four-and-one-half-inch object-glass. The middle part of the Observatory is three stories high, surmounted by a rotary dome eighteen feet in diameter. Here is erected the twelve-inch equatorial.

In the room below the dome is the library containing the observations and other publications of nearly all the observatories in the world.

Under the library is the clock room, with four pendulum clocks and two chronometers, chronograph, and a switchboard from which the electrical connections with all the instruments are made. A special line connects the switchboard with the Western Union telegraph service.

All the instruments and rooms are furnished with electric light. The electrical apparatus of the observatory is worked by a storage battery which is charged from the same current by means of a dynamo and transformer. This new plant was set up in the basement of the observatory by Rev. Richard Martin, S. J.

A separate dome, twelve feet in diameter, on the southwest brow of the hill, shelters the old equatorial, by Trouton & Simms, which has an aperture of nearly five inches.

An extension added to the eastern side of the main building contains an instrument for the determination of the variations of latitude; the photographic zenith telescope.

The nine-inch photographic transit instrument has been provided with a Riefler clock in an air-tight case, the donation of the late Miss Catherine Bruce.

The first experiments have proved this instrument to be of excellent construction.

Publications.

The observations needed for further supplements to the Atlas of Variable Stars are now being made here. The publication of the results must be deferred until a sufficient number of charts has been completed, but the observations have given materials for a note on the periods of some variables.

Acknowledgments.

The annual publications of the observatories of the world have been received as in former years. Among these the international astrographic charts form the most valuable part.

The warmest thanks of the Observatory are tendered to all benefactors and donors.

The Seismological Observatory.

REV. FRANCIS A. TORNDORF, S. J., Director.

The Seismological Observatory, originally founded through the generosity of Mr. Patrick H. O'Donnell, A. B. '92, A. M. '93, LL. B. '94 has been further equipped through the continued kindnesses of the friends of the University. A new cave has been located beneath the quadrangle, measuring 12 ft. four in. width, 30 ft. 10 in. length, and 11 ft. height. Care has been taken to make this home of the new instruments both heat and damp proof. The present equipment consists of two astatic horizontal seismographs after Wicheert, carrying stationary masses of 80 and 200 kilos, also a vertical seismograph of the same type of 80 kilos mass. The latest additions are two Bosch-Omori pendulums of 25 kilos mass each and two conical pendulums, after Dr. Mainka, of 130 kilos mass each. The time is automatically registered on these instruments by three contact clocks noting minutes and hours. The observatory is in telegraphic communication with other seismic stations of importance as also with the press agencies. The Director, while expressing his warmest thanks to all benefactors and especially to Messrs. P. H. O'Donnell, A. B. '92, Harry Brown, '11, Peter Mallen ex-'13 and to Mr. John O'Brien of Philadelphia, would indicate that to complete this plant which may lay claim to being the best equipped in the States, there is still needed a photographic recording machine either of the Milne, Bosch-Omori or Galitzin type. The instrument, which with its settings would cost in the neighborhood of $1500 will be known by the name of its donor.

The Dramatic Association.

DIRECTOR—EDMUND A. WALSH, S. J.

Dramatics, both in theory and in practice, have ever figured as a factor of considerable importance in Jesuit college life. Realizing fully the educational value of the art histrionic, the pioneer members of the historic Jesuit order from the very start accorded the drama, as an adjunct to oratory and public speaking, a foremost position in their time-honored curriculum known as the "Ratio Studiorum." This original stand has been carefully maintained in the traditions of the order and for over three hundred and fifty years students of Jesuit colleges have been presenting their various plays with unflinching regularity.

At Georgetown in particular, the story of dramatics is one of unusual interest. Before the guns of Sumter had turned the nation's thoughts to war and bloodshed, the Georgetown University Dramatic Association was already a feature of college life. The play-bills of the earliest performances are now treasured relics in the college archives, containing, as they do, the names of many Georgetown boys, who, in '61, changed the mimic for real warfare, and gave their lives, some for the preservation of the Union, others for the cause which they deemed just.

Among the more recent productions, all of which were produced to the intense delight of large audiences and in keeping with the previous high standing of all the public entertainments of the University, may be mentioned the "Merchant of Venice," with Mr. Robert Collier, of New York (the present owner of Collier's Weekly) as "Shylock," "Henry IV," "A Celebrated Case," "Richelieu" (its third production by Georgetown students), "The Rivals," "All the Comforts of Home" (produced in Washington and New York), and the modern miracle play "The Last of the Gladiators."

The rehearsals are held in Gaston Hall and the performances take place at one of the Washington theatres.

The pieces chosen for the season 1911-1912 are—a dramatic version of Newman's celebrated classic "The Dream of Gerontius" and a comedy entitled "A Trlp for His Health."

ATHLETICS.

The position of Georgetown on the question of Athletic Sports among our students is that they are a legitimate source of recreation, of healthful exercise, of generous rivalry and a manly spirit, in a word that they are a useful means for the physical and moral development of the students. The College, therefore, has put within reach of students whatever will make for these purposes, and has set such restrictions as will prevent, as far as may be, the abuse of college sport to the detriment of scholarship, manliness, and gentlemanly courtesy. Our idea of intercollegiate competition in the field of sport is to bring such contests as closely as possible to the model of one gentleman playing with another for a gentleman's recreation. In pursuit of this ideal, the authorities of the University have moved steadily toward the elimination of excess, brutality, commercialism and ungenerous rivalry in an overweening desire to win.

The practical system of athletics in vogue at Georgetown is wholly under the management of the students subject to the supervision of the Faculty Director of Athletics. They have been organized for this purpose into the Georgetown University Athletic Association, incorporated according to the laws of the District of Columbia.

The functions of the Faculty Director of Athletics have been defined by the President of the University as follows:

"His duty shall be solely to prevent abuses that may arise in the student conduct of athletic affairs. It shall be his duty to make sure that none but bona fide students take part in athletic sports; that no favoritism is exercised in the selection of the various teams; that the financial officers of the associations give adequate bonds for the proper handling of the funds committed to their charge; that the Constitution of the Athletic Association is faithfully carried out and that annual financial statements of receipts and expenditures are published through the proper channels.

"The Faculty Director of Athletics will have no direct relations with the members of the various teams. In all his duties he will deal directly with the officials of the Athletic Association, for example, in regard to questions of eligibility, selections of members of the various teams, etc."

The following concrete rulings have been given by the President of the University to prevent the undue encroachment of athletics upon study:

I. ELIGIBILITY.

Faculty Rule of Eligibility.

No one is eligible as a candidate for any athletic team, who is not in good standing as a bona fide student of the University. The sole judge as to whether a man is such a bona fide student or not is the Faculty Director of Athletics. The President's concept of a bona fide student is of one who comes to the University primarily to acquire its intellectual training and engages in sport solely for sport's sake, to relax the mind and improve the body, and to fit both alike for more strenuous and prolonged mental effort. One, therefore, whose primary object in coming to Georgetown is to study, and who only engages in athletics when they are not detrimental to study, and only to relax his mind and improve his body, is a bona fide student. Hence one who has been induced to come to Georgetown by some compensation of pecuniary value, in order that he may engage in athletics, is not a bona fide student. One who engages in athletics in spite of the warden's disapprobation of his professor or professors is not a bona fide student. One whose athletic work unfits his mind and body for mental work is not a bona fide student.

In each and every case the Faculty Director ought to weigh all the circumstances carefully and decide whether a man is a bona fide student or not, according to his best judgment, without fear or favor, having in view only the keeping far from Georgetown even the suspicion of commercialism and professionalism.

A man before being accepted as a candidate for any team must file with the manager written evidence of his good standing in his department; this is to be presented to the Faculty Director. He in turn is to endorse or reject the statement and return it to the manager not later than forty-eight hours before any contest in which it is desired to have the man compete.

When a man has been declared eligible according to the Faculty rule, "he may be made amenable to any other rules not in conflict with the above, which the Athletic Association may choose to formulate.

II. OUT OF TOWN GAMES.

1. The schedule arranged for each of the departments known as Foot Ball, Field and Track, Rowing and Basket Ball must not involve absence from Washington for more than two days on which classes are usually held, and the contests must take place on Saturdays or on National or State Holidays.

The schedule arranged for Base Ball must not involve absence from Washington for more than four days on which classes are usually held, and the games must be played either on Saturdays or on National or State Holidays.

2. The Foot Ball, Base Ball, Basket Ball and Relay Teams, and also the Crew, shall have contests only with other University, College, or Academic teams or crews, and the track contestants only at intercollegiate or interscholastic meetings.

3. In all matters pertaining to Faculty control the various managers must deal with the Faculty Director of Athletics.

4. All regulations contained under the heading Athletics, pp. 76-82 of the General Catalogue of 1905-1906, not in conflict with the preceding regulations, are to remain in full force for 1912-1913.

III. THE TRAINING TABLE at the College has been abolished. A training table outside the College has been found inexpedient.

In addition to the Departments of sport managed by the Athletic Association, there is a Billiard Association and a Lawn Tennis Association under student control.

Since the construction of the Ryan Gymnasium a competent Physical Director has been provided by the College. He superintends the physical drill and gymnastic exercise of the students, subjects each of those who wish to make use of the gymnasium to a physical examination and prescribes for each that kind and amount of gymnastic exercise which is necessary to his health and general physical development. A fee of ten dollars is imposed upon all the college students for the use of the gymnasium; students from other departments of the University are also admitted to the use of the gymnasium on payment of the same fee. In this connection the President of the University has issued the following ruling:

"No one is to use the floor of the gymnasium or the apparatus installed thereon or the professional services of the Physical Director, who has not paid the gymnasium fee. Certified candidates for the Crew, Nine, Eleven and Track Team may use the Varsity Rubbing Room, Locker Room and Showers; candidates for the Crew, properly certified, may have use of the Rowing Room."

The Faculty Director of Athletics at the University is Rev. Thomas A. Emmet, S. J.

The officers of the Athletic Association for 1911-1912 are:
 Thomas S. Smith, '12.....President
 Harold J. Carton, '12.....Secretary

COURSE OF STUDIES.

The courses outlined below are all prescribed courses with the exception of the topics enumerated under the heading "ELECTIVES" for Senior and Junior year, one only of which is prescribed, and the Modern Language prescribed for Freshman year, which may be, at option, either French, German or Spanish.

Senior Year.

PHILOSOPHY.

COURSE 1.—PSYCHOLOGY: (Five hours a week for the first term.)

Lectures, repetitions and circles. Text book, Russo, Summa Philosophica. References: Jouin, S. J., Compendium Logicae et Metaphysicae,—Maher, S. J., Psychology (Stonyhurst Series).

Life in general. Sensitive Life. Outer and inner senses. The Human Soul. Its nature: simple, spiritual. Unity of the Soul. Its Origin. Immortality. Evolution. Human Intelligence. Origin of Ideas. The Will. Liberty of the Will, etc.

COURSE 2.—NATURAL THEOLOGY. (Five hours a week for one term).

Lectures, repetitions and circles. Text-book, Russo, Summa Philosophica. References: Jouin, S. J., Compendium Logicae et Metaphysicae,—Bodder, S. J., Natural Theology (Stonyhurst Series).

Proofs of the existence of God. His essence. Examination of Pantheistic systems. The divine immutability, immensity, eternity. The divine intellect and will. Moral attributes of God. His Omnipotence. Divine Providence.

COURSE 3.—ETHICS. (Five hours a week for two terms).

Text-book, Jouin, S. J., Elementa Philosophiae Moralis.

References: Russo, De Philosophia Morali Praelectiones,—Rickaby, S. J., Moral Philosophy (Stonyhurst Series), Poland, S. J., Fundamental Ethics,—Coppens, S. J., Moral Philosophy.

(a) General Ethics. The moral agent. The moral act. Ultimate end of man. Hedonism and Utilitarianism. End of present stage of existence. Moral evil and moral good. Norm of morality. Merit and demerit. Natural Law. Its existence, properties, sanction. Kant's categorical imperative. Positive Law. Conscience. Its binding power. Rights of man.

(b) Special Ethics. Individual rights and duties. Necessity of religion. Suicide. Charity and Justice. Freedom of Conscience. Right of self-defense. Ownership. Socialism. Society in general. The family. Marriage. Emancipation of women. Parental right. Slavery. The State. Origin of the State. Hobbes, Rousseau. Constitution of the State. Church and State. The School Question. Liberty of the Press, etc.

CHRISTIAN DOCTRINE. (Two hours a week for two full terms).

Text-book, Wilmer, Handbook of the Christian Religion. Lectures in review of the whole ground covered in the three preceding years.

GEOLOGY. (Three hours a week for one full term).

Text-book, Le Conte, Compend. of Geology. Lectures on Dynamical, Structural and Historical Geology.

ASTRONOMY.—(Three hours a week for one full term.)

Celestial Mechanics, Descriptive Astronomy, Application of the General Principles of Trigonometry, Astronomical Instruments, Observations.

ELOCUTION. (One half-hour a week for two full terms).

The course consists of speaking before the upper classes in Gaston Hall with mutual criticism as well as instruction and correction by a presiding Instructor. Public work in annual contest and in productions of Dramatic Society.

Elective Studies for Senior.

Three hours a week for two full terms must be devoted to one or more of the following subjects.

Classes will be organized for each of these subjects if the number of students is sufficient.

I. BIOLOGY. (Three hours a week for one term.)

- (a) Micrometry. Sectioning. Mounting. Media and Reagents.
- (b) Structure of living beings. Morphology. Functions of living beings. Physiology. Organs, tissues, cells. Morphology of the cell. Protoplasm. "Vital force"—the soul. Cytogenesis. Differentiation of tissues. Nutrition. Reproduction. Alternation of generations. Spontaneous generation. (Facts, conclusions). The Origin of Species.
- (c) Laboratory work on Plants and Animals.

II. JURISPRUDENCE: (Three hours a week for both terms.

Law in General. International and municipal law. Federal and state law. Unwritten and written law. The written law of the United States and of the individual states.

The Right of Private Property. Property in general. Corporeal and incorporeal property. Real and personal property. Fixtures. Estates. Real and personal estates.

Subjects and their Relations to the State. Subjects. Allegiance. Citizens. Aliens. Naturalization.

III. EXPERIMENTAL PHYSICS. (Three hours a week.) Laboratory work.

This course is intended for those who wish to extend their knowledge of Physics and particularly of experimental methods, and is arranged with a view to meeting the requirements of medical and technical schools. The course is based on Ames and Bliss' Laboratory Manual and comprises quantitative work in mechanics, heat, sound, light and electricity. Particular stress is laid on accuracy in observation and in the proper reduction of experimental data.

IV. ORGANIC CHEMISTRY. (Three hours a week).

This course is arranged chiefly for those who intend to take up the study of medicine after they have finished their college course. In it the student is given an opportunity of reviewing his inorganic chemistry and of acquiring such a knowledge of elementary organic chemistry as is now required for admission by several medical schools. Characteristics of chemical changes. Gravimetric and chemical equivalents. Atomic weights and molecular weights. Solutions. Ionic theory. Chemical equilibrium. Periodic law. Photo-chemistry.

LABORATORY WORK. Experimental determination of chemical equivalents, employing both the volumetric and gravimetric methods. Determination of vapor densities according to the methods of Dumas and Victor Meyer. Determination of formulas of simple salts. Experiments in acidimetry and alkalimetry.

V. DRAMATIC LITERATURE. (Two hours a week for two terms.)

This course will consist of a practical examination, from an historical and literary viewpoint, of the Dramatic Art. To supplement the theory and history of the Drama, readings will be made from typical plays, together with analysis and critique of the various schools of dramatists. The following topics will be examined in detail:

The mimetic instinct—earliest manifestations in nations and individuals. Development of this instinct, terminating in the Drama. The Drama as a Fine Art. Brunetière's "Law of the Drama." Analysis of this principle and some of its consequences. The laws of structure and technique.

The progress of the Drama, through its differentiations to the decline and degradation of the art during later years of the Roman Empire. The Code of Theodosius and its theatrical legislations. The fall of the theatres.

The "Dark Ages" of the Drama. Relics of the Art in Europe. The renaissance of legitimate Drama in England.

- The five causes.
1. The didactic efforts of the clergy.
 2. Mediaeval philosophy.
 3. Revival of ancient learning.
 4. Influence of national feeling.
 5. Influence of Continental literature.

The passion plays, the mysteries, the miracles, the moralities, and the interludes.

The artistic age of English drama. The Elizabethan Age and the Elizabethans. Application of Brunetière's "Law of the Drama." Shakespeare and his works.

A critical examination of Shakespeare's treatment of vital moral questions as compared with that of some modern dramatists, such as Ibsen, Shaw, etc. Readings from selected plays of other modern dramatists. The question of the American Drama.

I. FRENCH: (Three hours a week.)

- (a) Study of the French orators: Bossuet, Bourdaloue, Massillon, Fléchier.
- (b) Study of the French dramatists: Corneille, Racine, Molière, De la Vigne. Bornier, La Fille de Roland. Rostrand, Cyrano de Bergerac.
- (c) Private reading, directed by Professor.

VII. GERMAN: (Three hours a week.)

- (a) Study of the German Drama and of Epic poetry. Lessing, Schiller, Göthe, etc. Nibelungen. Klopstock's Messiah. Parallel with English III., C. and D.
- (b) Private reading, directed by Professor. Conference.

Classes will be organized for each of these subjects if the number of students is sufficient.

Junior Year.PHILOSOPHY.

COURSE 1.—DIALECTICS. (Six hours a week for one-half term).

Text-book, Russo, S. J., Summa Philosophica. References; Jouin, S. J., Compendium Logicae et Metaphysicae,—Poland, S. J., The Laws of Thought,—Clarke, S. J., Logic (Stonyhurst Series), Coppen, S. J., Logic.

Definition and division of Philosophy. Formal Logic. Intellectual Perception. Ideas. Terms. Definition. Division. Judgment. Propositions. Opposition of Propositions. Reasoning. The Syllogism. Argumentative Fallacies.

COURSE 2.—FIRST PRINCIPLES OF KNOWLEDGE.—(Eight and one-half hours a week for one-half term.)

Applied Logic. Text-book, Russo, S. J., Summa Philosophica. References: Jouin, S. J., Compendium Logicae et Metaphysicae, Rickaby, S. J., First Principles of Knowledge (Stonyhurst Series).

Logical Truth. Certainty. Scepticism. Fundamental Truths. Source of certainty. Consciousness. The external senses. Ideas. Universal Ideas. Testimony. Deduction. Induction. Objective evidence, etc.

COURSE 3.—GENERAL METAPHYSICS. (Eight and one-half hours a week for one-half term.)

Ontology. Text-book, Russo, S. J., Summa Philosophica. References: Jouin, S. J., Compendium Logicae et Metaphysicae, Rickaby, S. J., General Metaphysics (Stonyhurst Series.)

The conception of being. Essence and Existence. Intrinsic and extrinsic possibility. Attributes of being. Unity. Truth. Goodness. Substance and accident. Hypostasis and personality. Quantity. Quality. Relation. Principles and causes. Kinds of cause. Principle of causality. Perfection of being. Order and beauty.

COURSE 4.—COSMOLOGY. (Eight and one-half hours a week for one-half term.)

Lectures, repetitions and circles. Text-book, Russo S. J., Summa Philosophica. References: Jouin, S. J., Compendium Logicae et Mataphysicae,—Harper, The Mataphysic of the School.

Notions of Space and Time. Creation. Laws of Nature. Miracles. Constitution of Bodies. Dynamism. Atomism. Hylomorphism.

HISTORY. (Two hours a week.)

Text-book, Guggenberger's General History of the Christian Era, Vol. III.

1. Causes of the Social Revolution.—The Hanoverian Succession. The making of Russia. Maria Theresa and Frederic II, Wars of the Austrian Succession. The Colonies of North America. The Seven Years' War. The Division of Poland. Causes of the Political and Social Revolution of the Eighteenth Century. The American War of Independence. 2. The French Revolution The Era of Napoleon I. Catholic Emancipation in Great Britain. 3. The European Revolution. The Revolution of the Barri-cades. The Revolution of the Cabinets. The Civil War in the United States and its Causes. Our Own Times.

Second Term: Constitutional History (Hinsdale and Story).

CHRISTIAN DOCTRINE. (One hour and a half a week).

Text-book, Wilmer's Handbook of the Christian Religion.

First Term: Christianity a revealed religion. Revelation in general. Pre-Christian revelation. The Christian Revelation. The Church; its institution, end, constitution.

Second Term: Marks of the Church. Teaching Office of the Church. Holy Scripture. Tradition. Rule of Faith. The existence of God. The Most Holy Trinity.

N. B.—The above courses in Christian Doctrine are supplemented by a weekly lecture explanatory of the Catholic Faith.

SCIENCE. Physics. (Five hours a week.)

Text-book, Carhart's University Physics. Lectures and Laboratory work.

ELOCUTION. (One-half hour a week.)

Practice and criticism of public speaking. Public work in connection with Dramatic Society.

Electives.

I. POLITICAL ECONOMY. (Three hours a week, both terms.)

Nature of economic science. Relation to ethical and political science. Four schools; liberal or classical; socialist, Christian, historical. Notions of wealth, value and price.

Production. Factors of production; nature, labor, capital. Law of diminishing returns. Division of labor; advantages and disadvantages. Remedies.

Exchange. Money. Bimetallism. Monometallism. Paper money. International trade. Free trade and protection. Credit. Nature and functions of banks.

Consumption. Technical and moral points of view. Heads of consumption.

The problem of distribution. Wages, profits, rents.

The labor problem. Socialist solution. The rights of property. Theories and methods of taxation.

References: Gide, Devas, Laughlin, Andrews.

II. QUALITATIVE ANALYTICAL CHEMISTRY. (Three hours a week.)

Optional, Analysis of Inorganic Substances.

I. Basic Analysis. Solutions, known and unknown. Salts, metals and alloys.

1. Silver group.

2. Copper and Tin groups.

3. Aluminum and Iron groups.

A. Separation of Nickel and Cobalt.

B. Effect of the presence of Chromium and Alkaline-earth phosphates on the method of separation.

C. Separation in absence of Chromium and of phosphates.

D. Separation in presence of Chromium and of phosphates. (BaCO_3 method.)

4. Alkaline-earth and Alkali groups.

II. Acid Analysis. Solutions known and unknown. Salts.

1. Sulphuric Acid Group.

2. Halogen group.

3. Nitric Acid group.

III. Preliminary Examination.

1. Heat in a bulb tube.

2. Heat on charcoal in the blowpipe flame.

3. Fuse in the borax bead.

4. Treat with concentrated H_2SO_4 .

5. Heat in the bunsen flame and note colorations of flame.

IV. Solution of Solid Substance. Special treatment of insoluble substances and of metals and alloys.

III. CALCULUS. (Three hours a week, for both terms.)

I Term: Differential Calculus. Nature of Infinitesimal Calculus. Rules of Differentiation, Successive Derivatives, Tangents and Normals to Curves. Indeterminate Forms. Rolle's Theorem. Taylor's Theorem. McLaurin's Theorem. Maxima and Minima.

II Term: Integral Calculus. Direct Integration; Integration of Rational Fractions, by Rationalization, by Parts. Reduction Formulas. Trigonometric Forms. Definite Integrals and applications. Leugh's Areas of Curves. Surfaces and Volumes of Solids, of Revolution, Acceleration, Centers of Mass.

IV. LATIN: (Three hours a week.)

Authors:

Cicero, Quæstiones Tusculanæ.

Plautus, Duo Captivi.

Discussions of Latin Style; Essays in Latin.

Authors:

Second Term: Cicero, Quæstiones Tusculanæ, continued.

VI. ENGLISH: (Three hours a week.)

COMPARATIVE LITERATURE. Lectures on the inter-relation of English, German, French, Spanish and Italian literature. Sources will be traced, authors and schools compared and modern writers of prose and poetry will be studied in detail.

To be supplemented by private reading under direction of the professor.

Sophomore Year.

RHETORIC.

Oratory and oratorical composition are the objects of the year's work, not, however, to the exclusion of Poetry which was the main subject of the preceding class.

I. LATIN: (Eight hours a week.)

Authors:

I Term: Cicero—Pro Lege Manila

Horace—Epodes, Satires, Epistles and Carmen Saeculare.

Tacitus—Agricola and Germania

II Term: Cicero—Pro Milone, Pro Ligario

Juvenal—Satires.

Tacitus—Annales.

Composition. Two written compositions in prose required each week and one in verse each month. Elegant translations. Oratorical analyses of authors. Latin orations. Prose work based on Bradley's Aids. Verse composition based on Lupton's Latin Lyrics.

II. GREEK: (Four hours and a half a week.)

I Term: Demosthenes—Philippics.

Sophocles—Oedipus Tyrannus.

Thucydides—BK. II.

Aeschylus—Prometheus Bound.

II Term: Demosthenes—De Coronâ.

Thucydides—BK II (continued.)

III. ENGLISH. (Three hours a week.)

1. Precepts of Oratory (Kleutgen, Ars Dicendi, and Coppins, Oratorical Composition.)

2. Rhetorical Analysis:

I Term: Burke, American Taxation or Bristol Election.

Cicero, Pro Lege Manila.

Demosthenes, First Philippic or

Aeschines, Against Ctesiphon.

II Term: Cicero, Pro Milone.

Demosthenes, De Corona.

Burke, Conciliation with America.

Webster, Adams and Jefferson.

VIII. Elocution. (One-half hour a week.)

Practice and criticism of public speaking. Work in connection with Dramatic Society.

Freshman Year.

POETRY

Literae Humaniores—the Humanities—are pre-eminently the scope of Freshman year and to them, as to an end, the studies of the class are chiefly directed. The Latin, Greek and English classics are therefore prescribed in parallel courses, ample material being thus provided for illustration and comparative study. The authors selected are studied, not merely from a philological or grammatical viewpoint, but rather for their own sake as furnishing striking examples of literary excellence.

I. LATIN. (Seven hours a week.)

Authors:

I. Term: Cicero "Pro Archia" is carefully read at the outset to emphasize the value of humanistic studies and their influence on man.

Horace "Ars Poetica" is next mastered for its valuable canons on Art, and on Literature in particular.

Virgil "Aeneid" Bk. 2, 6 or 9 furnishes a practical illustration of Epic Poetry.

Livy, Bk. XXI, chapters 1-20 . . . is read somewhat more rapidly than Cicero, while chapters 21-35 are read at sight.

II. Term: Cicero "De Signis" Second Philippic, or "Pro Marcello" continues the work of first term and accustoms the student to the fundamentals of rhetorical analysis.

Horace. Odes. . . . Bks. I-IV . . furnishes classical examples of the best Lyric Poetry, besides presenting a vivid commentary on Roman life and customs.

Livy, Bk. 21, ch. 35 to end, furnishes further sight reading, and completes the history of Hannibal's passage of the Alps during the second Punic war.

Composition . . . (both terms) . .
 Principles of Latin style. Written exercises twice a week, in imitation of Cicero (Bradley's Aids for reference.)
 Latin Prosody and Versification with special reference to Latin elegiac and Lyric metres. (Gepp and Lupton for reference).

II. GREEK. (Four and a half hours a week.)

The authors in this department have been selected as being typical of Grecian genius and the reading of the texts is accompanied with lectures and critiques bearing on the periods treated by the writers.

Authors:

I. Term: Plato Trial of Socrates, the "Apology" entire.

Homer Odyssey . . . Bk. IX and XI (or any other two books.)

Herodotus (Merry's edition) Optional sight reading:

II. Term . . . Demosthenes . . . Olynthiacs, with a study of the life and political activities of the orator.

Euripides . . . Hecuba, with lectures on the spirit and structure of ancient Greek Tragedy.

Grammar;—Review of Greek moods and the syntax of the dependent sentence. A few simple rules of Prosody.

The most general laws of versification for the better understanding of the hexameter verse of Homer and the iambic verse of the tragedians.

Composition:—Written exercises once a week, in imitation of Plato and Demosthenes.

III. ENGLISH. (Three hours a week.)

The work of the High School classes may be supposed to have grounded the student in the fundamentals of practical English. In Freshman it is further required that in addition to the study of composition both in prose and verse, the recognized principles of literary criticism be given for their own sake. Therefore, Freshman English falls into two natural divisions, the one theoretical and the other practical.

(a) The theoretical part embraces lectures on:

The definition of Literature; characteristic qualities of the art; position of Literature among the other Fine Arts; the four elements of Literature—Emotion, Imagination, Thought and Form; discussion of each element; the finer points of Style, including connotation, economy, suggestion, and the laws governing narration, description and exposition.

The division of Literature into Prose and Poetry; the nature and province of Prose. The nature and province of Poetry; the emotional element in Poetry; the function of the imagination; the intellectual element, and points of form.

An examination of Epic, Lyric and Dramatic Poetry.

A definition of Poetry will be constructed after a comparative study of the classical definitions of Aristotle, Sidney, Shelley, etc.

(b) The practical part

1. In prose, looks chiefly to the formation of a correct style; clearness, force and elegance; variety of expression, orderly and logical development of thought. Exercises in Exposition; the Chria. Prose rhythm and the movement of sentences.

In Poetry it embraces the general laws of versification, including the standard forms of verse, as the ode, the sonnet, the Spencerian stanza, etc. The French forms are also examined—the Triolet, the Rondeau etc.

Text-book { “Ars Dicendi” Kleutgen
 “Introduction to English Rhetoric” Coppins.

2. Authors: Prose—Newman, Ruskin, De Quincey, Hawthorne, Arnold (Brewster’s Studies in Structure and Style, Minto’s “English Prose.”) Poetry—Selections from Shelley, Wordsworth, Keats, Tennyson (Palgrave’s Golden Treasury), Milton: Paradise Lost, I, II, with selected readings from remaining books. Shakespeare, Julius Cæsar, Midsummer Night’s Dream, As You Like It, for home reading.
3. Composition: One Composition in prose or verse to be done each week outside of class. The nature of this composition work will be in keeping with the scope of the class work as outlined in the precepts given above.
4. History of English Literature, from the death of Elizabeth to the Victorian Period. (Brooke’s English Literature, cc. V-X.)

HISTORY. (Two hours a week.)

Text-book, Guggenberger's General History of the Christian Era, Vol. I. Introduction to the History of the Era.

1. The Migration of the Nations. First Teutonic Invasions and Settlements. The Invaders of Italy. The Islam. The Franks, the Lombards and the Holy See. The Church and the State.
2. The Rise of the Empire. The Carolingians. The Northmen in Europe. The Making of Germany and the Rise of the Empire. The Exodus of the Normans. The contest about Lay-Investiture. The Greek Empire and the Schism.
3. The Crusades, the Rise of the Papacy. From the First Crusade to the Third Crusade. From the Third Crusade to the Invasion of the Mongols, The Last Crusades—from the Invasion of the Mongols to the Death of Boniface VIII.

CHRISTIAN DOCTRINE. (One hour and a half a week, supplemented by a half hour lecture.)

Text-book, Wilmer's Hand-book of the Christian Religion.

First Term: The Creation. The Spiritual world. The Material world. Man and the Fall. God the Redeemer. The Person and Nature of the Redeemer. The work of the Redemption.

Second Term: Grace: Actual, Habitual, and Sanctifying. The Sacraments in general. Baptism. Confirmation. The Holy Eucharist. The sacrifice of the Mass. These courses are supplemented by a weekly half-hour lecture on the Catholic Faith.

MATHEMATICS. (Four hours a week).

First Term: Plane Trigonometry, with application to Surveying. Text-book, Wentworth.

Second Term: Analytical Geometry. Text-book, Wentworth.

ELOCUTION. The Practice and Criticism of Public Speaking. Practical work in connection with Dramatic Society.

MODERN LANGUAGE. Advanced course in French or German.

FRENCH. The class is to be conducted in French.

Authors.

First Term. Chateaubriand, "Le Dernier des Abencerages," or "Atala"; Moliere, "Le Bourgeois Gentilhomme," or "L'Avare."

Second Term. Corneille, "Le Cid," or "Polyeucte." Composition. Exercises based on the author read in class.

GERMAN.

Authors.

First Term: Jensen, "Die Braune Erica."

Second Term: Goethe, "Hermann und Dorothea," or Schiller, "Wilhelm Tell."

Degrees.

The successful completion of the Undergraduate Course entitles a student to the degree of Bachelor of Arts.

Requirements For Admission.

Students may enter at the opening of either session, and, on examination, will be assigned to the class for which their prior attainments have fitted them.

A certificate of honorable dismissal will be required of those who come from other institutions.

Candidates for admission to the advanced classes must pass a satisfactory examination upon all the subjects previously studied by the class which they propose to enter.

From certain preparatory schools, high schools, of established reputation, students are admitted to the Freshman class without examination, upon the principal's certificate that they have completed the required amount of work and are prepared to enter the college.

In each case, however, a catalogue giving the course of studies required in his school must accompany the principal's certificate. The Georgetown College Preparatory School Catalogue may be had on application to the Prefect of Studies.

In all other cases for admission to Freshman, a successful examination is required in the following subjects.

LATIN.—Grammar.—The entire Latin Grammar, including a knowledge of all regular syntactical constructions. Translation into Latin at sight of complex English sentences, entailing the application of rules for relative clauses, indirect discourses, and conditional sentences.

PROSODY.—All the rules as given in Casserly's Prosody or some equivalent work; application to hexameter verse; scansion of Ovid and Virgil. A simple exercise will be exacted in the rearrangement of broken verse.

Latin Composition.—Translation into Latin of easy continuous prose based upon Cæsar and Cicero. This requirement is of very especial importance, and great weight will be given to it in the examination. The use of Cicero's letters as well as his orations as models for the requirements of Latin idiom is strongly recommended.

Nepos.—Lives, to the end of the life of Alcibiades; also the life of Atticus. Cæsar.—Commentaries, two books.

Ovid.—Metamorphoses, 500 lines; Tristia, 500 lines.

Cicero.—Selected letters, five hundred lines; orations, the four against Catiline. Virgil.—Aeneid, three books.

GREEK.—Grammar.—Etymology complete (including all the irregular and defective forms); the rules for accents; the rules of syntax and their application; the Homeric dialect.

Greek Composition.—Translation into Greek of simple English sentences based upon Xenophon's Anabasis.

Xenophon.—Anabasis, Book I, II and III.

Homer.—Iliad, Books I and II, or Odyssey I, II and III.

N. B.—In assigning the matter above, the purpose of the Faculty is not to insist on quantity or to recognize that the mere reading of a stated amount of assigned authors is sufficient preparation for college. In the discussion of the classic authors, both Greek and Latin, the candidate must be prepared to give a complete grammatical analysis of every word, phrase, and sentence, and to point out exceptional idioms, and must be informed on the chief points of collateral erudition connected with the text.

Students, who are prepared for entrance to Freshman Class in all the requirements except Greek, may enter the College conditioned in Greek. This condition may be removed in one or at the most two years, during part of which they will attend a Special Class established to meet this emergency. While carrying the condition in Greek they will be registered as Special Students.

ENGLISH.—Higher Grammar.—The candidate must be prepared on the matter contained in Meiklejohn's "The English Language," or some equivalent work.

Composition.—A brief prose composition will be required evidencing some proficiency in narrative and critical writing. The test will be based upon books and authors assigned for study in the Georgetown College Preparatory School. Questions will be asked as to the subject-matter, method of treatment, structure, and style of these books. Fair penmanship and accurate spelling will be considered as essential preliminary requirements.

The authors assigned are: Shelley, Selected Poems (No. 85, Maynard Series). *Wordsworth, Selected Poems (No. 90, Maynard Series). De Quincey, Flight of a Tartar Tribe. *Macaulay, Essays on Johnson and on Addison. Milton, Paradise Lost (two books), Ode to the Nativity, L'Allegro and Penserosa. *Shakespeare, Merchant of Venice. Tennyson, Morte d'Arthur. Lamb's Essay of Elia. Ruskin, Sesame and Lilies. Thackeray, Henry Esmond. A careful study of the works marked thus (subject-matter, form a structure) will be exacted; a general acquaintance with the other assigned books will be sufficient.

N. B.—The Uniform College Entrance Requirements in English will be accepted, as will any fair equivalent work in this department.

HISTORY.—Bible History as found in Richards, Greek (Bury), Rome (Schuckburgh), English (Lingard), United States (Montgomery), or as found in some equivalent author. Elements of Civics.

MATHEMATICS.—Algebra; Geometry, plane and solid. Wentworth's Complete Algebra, and Wentworth's Geometry, or works of equal grade.

SCIENCE.—A fair knowledge of Physical Geography.

MODERN LANGUAGES.—One modern language besides English is required, preferably French or German. The examination will embrace the elements of Grammar, including the irregular verbs; translation into English at sight of simple prose; grammatical analysis.

General Regulations.

No distinction is made in the reception of students on the ground of religious belief. Students not of the Catholic faith, if they do not wish to attend the Religious Exercises of the college, will be exempt therefrom, but are expected to conform in matter of church service to the obligations of their own belief.

No student will be allowed to remain at the college during the summer vacation.

The introduction of intoxicating liquors as well as of immoral books or papers, will render the offender liable to expulsion, as will any grave offense against morals or discipline.

There is a fixed hour for students in residence to rise, take their meals, attend chapel for daily Mass, and Benediction on Sundays and Holy Days, and to assist at night prayers. Parents who enter their sons are understood to agree that they should conform to these regulations.

Day-scholars and half-boarders, while within the College walls, are subject to the regulations of boarders.

Students of the Medical School are not received to board or lodge at the College, but must secure board and lodgings in the city. Students from the Law School may board and lodge at the College only in case of taking at the same time graduate courses at the College. Graduate students may enter the College either as boarders or day-scholars. Undergraduate students are not received as day-scholars unless they are living with their parents or guardians. Students are not allowed to lodge at the College and board outside the College.

Distribution of Rooms.

As the number of rooms at the College is limited, it has been found necessary to make the following rules about their distribution. No room will be reserved for a student unless the application for the same be accompanied by a deposit of one-tenth of the rental. Applications may be handed in at any time; yet, in order that students in residence during the year may have time to counsel with their parents or guardians about their return the following year, no assignment will be made for the coming year before July 25. The former holder of a room will have claim on that room up to July 25, after which, if not then engaged by him, it will be considered vacant. The earliest applicant will have right to any vacant room, if his application is accompanied by one-tenth of the rental, as above prescribed. The senior applicant, in case of two applying at the same time for the same room, will be given the preference. The right to a room for which a deposit has been paid expires on the evening of September 17, 1912.

Damage to College property is repaired at the expense of the student who inflicts it.

In the Sophomore year there is a charge of $10 per annum for the use of chemicals.

In the Junior year there is a charge of $10 for the use of philosophical and astronomical instruments, and $10 per annum for the use of chemicals.

The Graduation Fee is $10.00.

All accounts must be paid half yearly, in advance. If a student is withdrawn before the end of a session, no deduction will be made, except in cases of illness or of dismissal, nor will any deduction be made for a shorter time than one month.

Degrees will not be conferred upon students whose debts to the College remain unpaid on June 1, 1912.

Articles of clothing will not be furnished by the College unless a deposit for that purpose be made with the Treasurer, who will give a detailed account of its outlay in his regular semi-annual statement.

No bills for clothing or other articles will be acknowledged unless the purchase has been authorized by the Treasurer of the College.

Books and stationery may be obtained at the College bookstore.

Whatever sums parents or guardians allow their sons or wards for pocket money, may be deposited with the Treasurer, who will disburse the same according to instructions received, or as circumstances may require. No advance will be made beyond the deposit.

Dues for the different student organizations, as the Athletic Association, the Debating Society, etc., must be paid by the students from their pocket money, and no student will be allowed to have such dues charged in upon the bill to be sent to parents or guardians.

Every student from outside the United States must have a guardian in the vicinity, who shall be responsible for his bills and receive him in case of dismissal. The same may be required for students from very distant States in the Union.

AWARDS.

The Medal and Premium in every class are awarded to the two students obtaining respectively the highest and the second highest average in the marks for all the months of the year and for the mid-year and final examinations, provided the average be above eighty-five per cent of all attainable marks.

SENIOR.

Gold Medal for Rational Philosophy (Founded by the Misses Mary A. and Theresa Frances Ryan), awarded to Charles Angulo.

Prize, to Frederick Gibbs.

JUNIOR.

Gold Medal (founded by Mrs. Lawrence O'Brien, of New York, in memory of Francis X. O'Brien, of the class of 1900), awarded to John D. Foley.

Prize, Francis H. Burke.

Gold Medal for Physics (given by William V. McGrath, B. S., of Philadelphia), awarded to James K. Lynch.

SOPHOMORE.

Silver Medal, awarded to J. Francis Leary.

Prize, William J. Donnelly.

English Composition Prize, David Waldron.

The Kidwell Gold Medal for Mechanics, Lemoyne Graham.

Prize, William Donnelly.

Silver Medal for General Chemistry, Lemoyne Graham.

Prize, J. Francis Leary.

FRESHMAN.

Silver Medals, awarded to John M. Murphy and Wm. H. Prendergrast.

Prize, Bernard S. Brady and Thomas Healy.

English Composition Prizes, Donald Chisholm and Thomas Healy.

Silver Medal in Plane Trigonometry, William H. Prendergast.

Prize, Leo T. Lawler.

Silver Medals for Analytical Geometry, Leo T. Lawler and William H. Prendergast.

Prizes, Thomas Healy, Edward Heiskell and Mark Trumbull.

Silver Medals for Freshman French, William H. Prendergast.

Prize, Roger M. Bone.

Silver Medals for Freshman German, John M. Murphy.

Prize, Herman S. Killian.

School of Medicine.

The complete course of study in the Medical Department extends over four terms of eight months each.

Special attention is called to the advantages of the method of teaching adopted in this school. It enables each student to come into more intimate relation with his teachers in laboratory and hospital work, and in connection with the system of recitations adopted makes instruction more directly personal and adapted to the special needs of the individual.

The building of this department is conveniently situated on H Street, Northwest, between Ninth and Tenth Streets, near several of the principal railway lines. It contains spacious and well-ventilated lecture rooms and laboratories, a convenient and well-lighted dissecting room, a library and reading room for the use of students. The laboratories are equipped with the latest and most approved instruments and appliances, including an ample number of microscopes of high power.

These will greatly enhance the facilities for instruction, and will enable every student to master more readily the technical skill needed in modern important methods of medical research. The Laboratory courses may be taken independently of the lectures.

The clinical instruction is carried on in the University Hospital in connection with the general wards, Emergency service, Outdoor Department, pathological laboratories and operating rooms. Clinics are also held at the Children's, Garfield, Emergency, Columbia Hospital for Women, Episcopal Eye and Ear Hospital, the Municipal Hospital, Providence Hospital and the Government Hospital for Insane, containing in all over 3,000 beds.

The great libraries and museums connected with the various Government institutions at Washington afford advantages to the student that are unrivalled in America, and are equal, if not superior, to those in most European capitals. These collections are freely open to the public, and can be consulted by students upon obtaining permission, which is readily granted to those who are pursuing special courses of study.

Requisites for Admission.

Creditable certificates of good moral character, signed by two physicians of good standing in the State, Territory or District in which the applicant last resided.

The Association of American Medical Colleges has prescribed the following minimum requirements for admission to the medical course:

- (a) A bachelor's degree from an accredited college or university.
- (b) A diploma from an accredited high school, normal school, or academy requiring for admission evidence of the completion of an eight-year course in primary and intermediate grades, and for graduation not less than four years of study, embracing two years (4 points) of Latin, or four years (8 points) of either high school French or German, or its full equivalent, provided a satisfactory examination is passed in the elements of Latin grammar; two years (4 points) of mathematics, two years (4 points) of English, one year (2 points) of history, one year (2 points) of physics, and six years (12 points) of further credit in language, literature, history or science.

(c) An examination in the following branches, totaling 30 points.

A. Required (16 points); Mathematics—(Minimum, 2 years; maximum, 3 years), 4 points; Algebra, through quadratics, and plain geometry. English—(Minimum, 2 years; maximum 4 years), 4 points. (a) English grammar. (b) Rhetoric and composition. Latin—(Minimum [see (b)]; maximum, 4 years,) 4 points. (a) Latin grammar. (b) Latin prose composition. (c) Reading four books of Caesar or equivalent. Physics—(1 year.) With laboratory work, 2 points. History—(1 year) Including civics, political economy or chemistry, 2 points. Total required, 16 points.

B. Elective. 14 points. English Language and Literature—(2 years). Only if taken after the required English, 4 points. Language—German, French, Spanish or Greek (4 years); not less than 1 year in any one [see b], 2 points. Advanced Mathematics—Higher Algebra, solid Geometry and Trigonometry ($\frac{1}{2}$ year each), 1 point. Natural Science—(1 year). Biology, 1 year, or Botany and Zoology, $\frac{1}{2}$ year each, 2 points. Physical Science—(1 year). Chemistry, 2 points. Earth Science—Physical Geography and Geology, $\frac{1}{2}$ year each, 1 point. Physiology and Hygiene—($\frac{1}{2}$ year), 1 point. Astronomy—($\frac{1}{2}$ year), 1 point. Drawing—($\frac{1}{2}$ year), 1 point.

One point in any subject demands 5 periods per week of not less than 45 minutes duration each for 18 weeks.

Two points equal 5 counts, or 1 unit, or 2 credits.

SEC. 2. This examination must be conducted by or under the authority of the board of medical examiners of the State in which the college is located, or by a duly authorized examiner of an accredited university, State or otherwise, or by a method approved by the judicial council.

SEC. 3. A student may be allowed to enter on his medical work conditioned in not more than six points, and these conditions must be removed by satisfactory examination before he is allowed to enter on the second year of his medical course.

After January 1, 1912, Section 3 will be inoperative.

Special Notice.

Prospective students are reminded that some of the State Medical Examining Boards require one or two years of college work as a preliminary requirement for the study of medicine, and it is necessary to conform with the medical laws of the State in which it is proposed to begin practice. (Minnesota, North Dakota, Colorado, Iowa and Indiana.)

A number of States require in addition to a four-year high school education or its equivalent at least one year's work in Physics, Chemistry, Biology, and either French or German. If this work has not been taken in a College of Liberal Arts, this preliminary year can be taken in connection with the university courses, but can not be credited to the medical course. (South Dakota, Kansas and Connecticut.)

Notice is hereby given that after January 1, 1912, the minimum educational requirement preliminary to the study of medicine in this school, in addition to a four-year high school education or its equivalent, will be two years of collegiate work, including chemistry, physics, biology and a modern language, either French or German.

Admission of Students From Other Schools.

Students who have attended one or more terms at any other medical college in good standing may be admitted to advanced standing upon passing the examination required of students for the stage at which they propose to enter. Those presenting certificates of examination from other reputable medical colleges of equal requirements will be admitted to the respective higher classes without further examination.

Persons not candidates for the degree M. D. may be admitted without examination as special students, and may attend any of the courses upon giving satisfactory evidence that they are qualified intelligently to avail themselves of the instruction.

The preliminary examinations will be held at the College Building on Monday, September 25th; the regular course will begin Wednesday, September 27, 1911, at 2 P. M.

Method of Instruction.

The course of instruction consists of laboratory work, recitations, demonstrations, lectures, bedside instruction, dispensary work, and other practical instruction. The students are divided into four classes, called, respectively, the First, Second, Third, and Fourth.

Class recitations are conducted by members of the Faculty and by instructors. A record of these recitations is kept, and the average is credited to each student in summing up after the final examinations at the end of the session.

The following is a sketch of the several courses of instruction:

Anatomy.

PROF. FRANK BAKER, A. M., PH. D., M. D.

Superintendent of the Zoological Park.

The didactic instruction is illustrated by demonstrations on the living subject, by dissections, models, and several hundred plates and lantern slides prepared especially for the course. The students are thoroughly examined orally from week to week as the course progresses in order to insure that they understand the work and are making satisfactory progress. Written examinations are held frequently. Especial attention is paid to the practical bearings of the science and its application to surgery and pathology.

Osteology.

EMORY W. REISINGER, M. D.

Assistant to the Professor of Anatomy.

This course includes a careful study of every bone in the human body, the pupil being required to point out and designate the important and technical feature of each upon an actual specimen. For the study of the skeleton it is very much like the study of the softer parts in the dissecting room, and is an indispensable preliminary to that work.

Practical Anatomy.

JOHN CONSTAS, M. D.

WM. A. OWEN, M. D.

Demonstrators.

The dissecting room is open daily for students after October 15th, and the Demonstrator or his Assistants are present. During the session special demonstrations of the brain, of the thoracic and the abdominal viscera, and also of other difficult or obscure regions of the body are given.

During each session every student of the First and Second Classes is required to dissect all regions of the human body, and to pass a satisfactory examination at the conclusion of each dissection.

Histology and Embryology.

PROF. RALPH A. HAMILTON, M. D.

This course consists chiefly of laboratory work. Recitations, with explanatory talks illustrated by charts and black-board drawings, precede the laboratory work of the day and aid in interpreting its specimens. The laboratory is large and well lighted. Each student is furnished with a microscope, locker and accessories, and is instructed in the theory and practical use of the microscope. The elementary tissues are studied in the fresh state as well as after being stained and mounted. In the study of the organs, practical instruction is given in the preparation of mounted specimens, the actual work so far as is practical, being done by the student. The relations of histology to embryology, physiology and pathology are duly considered. Throughout the course, drawings with descriptive notes are made of the microscopic appearances.

The course in embryology consists of lectures and practical laboratory work in which the student is taught to prepare serial sections of embryos studied. It begins with spermatogenesis and ovogenesis, and then taking up the development after fertilization proceeds to the formation of the rudiment of the embryo, and concludes with a consideration of organology.

Physiology.

PROF. JOSEPH S. WALL, M. D.

One of the Visiting Physicians to the Providence and Foundlings' Hospitals and Physician, the Children's Hospital Dispensary.

This course consists of lectures upon General and Special demonstrations, and practical work in the Physiological Laboratory. The students are familiarized with the use of the latest appliances, and are required to make accurate notes of all experiments and individual work performed under the supervision of the Director of the laboratory.

While a knowledge of the facts of Physiology is essential, greater stress will be laid upon the underlying fundamental principles, and their application to the problems of Pathology, Physical Diagnosis, and practical Medicine and Surgery.

Materia Medica, Pharmacology and Therapeutics.

PROF. WILFRED M. BARTON, M. D.

The course on Materia Medica, Pharmacology and Therapeutics will cover three years, and consists of a combination of didactic and laboratory and clinical instruction. During the first year the student is made acquainted by actual demonstration with the physical and chemical characteristics of the drugs of the Pharmacopœia, their doses, compatibilities and incompatibilities; also weights and measures, elementary pharmacy, etc., and will be taught so much of the actions and uses of drugs as is necessary to illustrate their importance. During the second year the student is taught by lectures and practical demonstrations the physiological action of drugs and an effort will be made to fix the most important elements of pharmacodynamics by laboratory exercises. During the third year the student is taught to apply his theoretical knowledge thus obtained, by instruction at the University Hospital and Dispensary.

The attention of the student is directed to the systematic study of the application of drugs to the treatment of disease, a practical knowledge of which is the ultimate aim of his course in pharmacology.

Chemistry and Toxicology.

PROF. JOHN D. HIRD, A. M., LL. M.

It is the aim in this department to give a practical course in chemistry and toxicology as related to the subject of medicine.

As a foundation for this course special attention is given to the subject of elementary chemistry, including thorough instruction in the laws governing chemical combination and molecular changes. This is supplemented by laboratory work, illustrating the subjects previously considered and setting forth the fundamental principles of chemical analysis.

In organic chemistry the instruction is given by means of lectures and laboratory work. This course includes an examination of the more important hydrocarbons and their derivatives, supplemented by lectures upon the theoretical and practical methods of manufacture, their character and uses, especially as they are related to medicine. Under the head of organic chemistry, that department of science known as sanitary chemistry also receives attention. This includes the practical examination of the various forms of matter which affect, either directly or indirectly, the general health. It is intended in this course that such a knowledge shall be imparted to the students as may enable them to differentiate between wholesome and unwholesome articles of food and drink. The various food products, particularly milk, cheese, bread and meats, will receive careful consideration. The examination of air in rooms, the velocity, condition and quality of air currents, will be considered under the head of ventilation. The organic analysis of water and its various forms of pollution, will also receive attention.

During the second year physiological chemistry is taken up in detail. This includes practical laboratory work in the study of foods, their composition, assimilation, metabolism and excretion, together with the allied subjects relating thereto.

Under the head of toxicology the general subject of poisons, including their effects, modes of action, subsequent dispositions and antagonisms is considered in detail.

Physics.

PROF. FRANCIS A. TONDORF, S. J.

A special course in physics with special reference to medicine and surgery illustrated by laboratory experiments, is given during the first year.

General Pathology and Bacteriology.

PROF. EDWIN B. BEHREND, A. B., M. D.

Pathologist and Associate Physician, Georgetown University Hospital.

The course in pathology will extend over two years. The instruction will consist of lectures, demonstrations, class recitations and laboratory work, and will embrace general and special pathology, including bacteriology and clinical pathology.

The lectures and class recitations are brought in close relation with the laboratory exercises. During the first half-year general consideration of disease, including etiology and immunity, are taken up, and during the same period the laboratory work in bacteriology is made to explain and illustrate the didactic work as far as possible.

The second half-year is devoted to the study of the anatomical changes in disease, including degeneration, regeneration, inflammation, tumor formation, etc. The course in pathological histology is so arranged as to keep pace with the class work; for this purpose a complete series of typical pathological specimens will be presented for individual study.

The course in clinical pathology contemplates the examination of blood, urine, feces, gastric contents, sputum, pathological exudates, etc., with special reference to clinical medicine and surgery. The great value of laboratory methods as aids in the diagnosis of disease will be emphasized.

Physical Diagnosis.

PROF. JOHN D. THOMAS, A. B., M. D.,

Associate Physician, Georgetown University Hospital, and at the Central Dispensary and Emergency Hospital. Visiting Physician to the Tuberculosis Hospital and Consulting Physician to the Home for Incurables.

In addition to the didactic lectures on the principles of physical diagnosis, at the College, there are demonstrations to the students at large clinics at the Central Dispensary and Emergency Hospital, the University Hospital, and the Tuberculosis Hospital. The class is divided into sections, each member of which makes examinations under proper supervision.

Theory and Practice of Medicine and Diseases of Children.

PROF. SAMUEL S. ADAMS, A. M., M. D.,

Attending Physician to Georgetown University and Children's Hospitals; Consulting Physician to Government Hospital for Insane, and Central Dispensary.

An effort will be made to give in the course of two sessions as complete a description as possible of the diseases usually considered as belonging to the province of this chair, and in such manner as to give the student a clear conception of the methods of discrimination and management of the various diseased conditions. This teaching, together with the supplementary advantages offered by bedside and dispensary instruction and the various clinics, will, it is believed, afford him an opportunity of acquiring a thorough knowledge of this subject.

Principles and Practice of Surgery.

PROF. GEORGE TULLY VAUGHAN, M. D.,

Chief Surgeon Georgetown University Hospital; one of the Attending Surgeons at the Emergency Hospital and Tuberculosis Hospital; Consulting Surgeon Government Hospital for Insane.

The course in surgery extends over two and one-half years. Instruction is given by didactic lectures, recitations, and demonstrations at clinics, which are held at various hospitals and dispensaries, which afford material in abundance.

Students are instructed in the practical use and application of bandages, fracture dressings, and other surgical apparatus. The use of the principal surgical instruments is also demonstrated on the living subject or on the cadaver.

Members of the Fourth Class are instructed in orthopedic and genito-urinary surgery by lectures and clinical demonstrations, and are given a course in operative surgery on the cadaver, in which nearly every operation, minor and capital, classic and modern, is done by the student under the direction of the professor and his assistants:

Obstetrics.

PROF. HENRY D. FRY, M. D., D. Sc.

Chief Obstetrician, Georgetown University Hospital.

The course is graded, and consists of classified lectures comprising the whole subject, of systematic study, recitations, essays upon assigned subjects, and demonstrations upon charts and plates, and of operations performed upon the manikin. During the past session each member of the senior class attended five or more cases of midwifery, of which he was required to keep records and present written reports. Every facility is given for acquiring experience in the practical workings of this department by means of bedside instruction. Special attention is devoted to abdominal palpitation, pelvimetry, digital examination, and the methods of diagnosing presentations and positions of the fetus.

An opportunity is given to each student to perform the various obstetric operations, such as the application of forceps, version, supplemented by an operative course on the Budin-Pinard manikin.

The importance of exercising strict supervision over the period of pregnancy will be dwelt upon, and attention given to the pathological changes which may occur during gestation, labor, and the puerperal state. The great value of antiseptic principles as applied to obstetric practice will be demonstrated.

Gynecology and Abdominal Surgery.

PROF. JOSEPH TABER JOHNSON, A. M., Ph. D., M. D.

Surgeon in Charge of Gynecology and Abdominal Surgery in the Georgetown University Hospital; one of the Consulting Physicians to the Central Dispensary and Emergency Hospital; Consulting Gynecologist to the Woman's Dispensary and the Government Hospital for Insane.

Modern gynecology is taught in didactic lectures, freely illustrated by plates and blackboard drawings, recitations, and also a small class at public operations, in four different hospitals, where manipulations and operative work will be carefully explained and demonstrated. Abdominal surgery receives special attention.

Advanced students are required to witness the preparations for aseptic operations, and to assist in their performance

Ophthalmology.

PROF. WILLIAM H. WILMER, M. D.,

Ophthalmologist to Georgetown University, Episcopal Eye, Ear and Throat Hospital, and to the Central Dispensary and Emergency Hospital.

The course begins with lectures on the anatomy of the eye, illustrated by models, charts, and specimens under the microscope, followed by an explanation of the fundamental principles of physiological optics and the proper methods of examining the eye. The lectures are supplemented by quizzes and reviews. The lectures on the diseases of the eye are entirely practical, illustrative cases being taken from Dr. Wilmer's extensive service at the Episcopal Hospital, Central Dispensary and Emergency Hospital, and at the University Hospital. The class is divided into small sections in order that the clinical teaching shall be as nearly personal as possible.

An operative course is given upon pigs' eyes. Each student has the opportunity to perform the principal operations and familiarize himself with the technique. More than two thousand new cases of eye diseases are treated annually at the Episcopal Hospital alone. Every important operation on the eye is performed in the presence of each section.

Drs. Dufour, Griffith, Green, Muncaster and Burke will give clinical demonstrations at the various hospitals with which they are connected.

Laryngology, Rhinology and Otology.

PROF. WALTER A. WELLS, M. D.,

Surgeon in Charge of Throat and Ear Diseases at the University and Garfield Hospital; Associate Attending Physician Episcopal Eye, Ear and Throat Hospital.

The course in laryngology and otology, chiefly clinical, is conducted with a view of familiarizing the students with the various forms of nose, throat and ear affections met with in actual practice, and instructing him in modern methods of diagnosing and treating them. After some preliminary notice of the history of these specialties, followed by a thorough demonstration by means of charts and specimens of the anatomy and physiology of these organs the subject is taught by actual observation and study of the disease by contact with the patients.

The class is divided into sections, so that each student may be personally taught by the use of the instruments, and drilled in the methods of both subjective and objective examination of the patients. In the course of the year ample opportunity is afforded of witnessing the major and minor operations which have to be performed in connection with these specialties.

Hygiene and Dietetics.

PROF. GEORGE M. KOBER, M. D., LL. D.

Consulting Physician to Children's Hospital and Washington Asylum Hospital.

The course on hygiene and dietetics includes lectures and recitations on sunlight, air, climate, and meteorology; water, ice, artificial carbonated waters, and soils in relation to health and disease; food, beverages, and condiments, morbid and infected food products; dietetics in health and disease; the skin, bath and clothing; exercise, rest, sleep, beds, and bedding; private and public habitations, including drainage, ventilation, warming, and lighting, with practical demonstrations of sanitary appliances at the Museum of Hygiene.

State Medicine.

PROF. W. C. WOODWARD, M. D., LL. M.,

Health Officer District of Columbia.

The course on State Medicine consists of lectures and of such demonstrations as may be practicable upon the relation of the medical practitioner to Government and of the application of medical science to the purposes of the Government for the protection of public health, and for the determination of such medical problems as come before courts of law. Attendance will be obligatory upon the students in their fourth year.

Dermatology.

J. C. BLACKISTON, M. D.,

Dermatologist to Georgetown University Hospital.

Realizing that a knowledge of this important branch can be gained only by actual demonstration of the lesions, this subject is chiefly taught by clinical lectures at the Georgetown University Hospital Dispensary, which furnishes abundant material for the demonstration of all of the more common diseases of the skin. In addition, clinics are also held at the Central Dispensary and Emergency Hospital.

Mental and Nervous Diseases.

PROF. WILLIAM A. WHITE, M. D.,

Superintendent of the Government Hospital for the Insane.

This course consists of didactic and clinical lectures. Lectures are held on neurology before the Christmas vacation at the Medical College and after Christmas Holidays on psychiatry at the Government Hospital for the Insane, which accommodates about 3,000 patients. Members of the Third and Fourth Classes are admitted to them. Students have opportunity to visit the wards of the Hospital, and each lecture is illustrated by cases, giving in great variety all the forms of insanity and diseases of the nervous system which are usually seen in the practice of the general practitioners in medicine.

Diseases of the Nervous System and Electro-Therapeutics.

PROF. D. PERCY HICKLING, M. D.

Neurologist to the University Hospital, Providence Hospital, and Physician in Charge of the Washington Asylum Hospital.

This course is largely clinical and embraces those diseases of the general nervous system which are commonly met with in practice, special attention being given to their diagnosis and treatment.

The course of Electro-Therapeutics will include a brief outline of Electro-Physics and Electro-Physiology, with practical illustrations of the use of the galvanic, faradic and static currents and X-Ray methods, with a discussion of the medical and surgical conditions in which this form of treatment may be used. The lectures are amply illustrated with batteries, electrodes, rheostats and other electrical appliances.

CLINICAL INSTRUCTION AND ADVANTAGES.

Georgetown University Hospital.

Corner of Thirty-fifth and N Streets, N. W.

The Hospital and Dispensary are located in close proximity to the College grounds and accessible by three of the principal electric car lines in the city. This institution is in every sense a modern College hospital, wholly under the control of the School of Medicine, and affords ample and excellent facilities for illustrating by clinical teaching and ward classes the didactic instruction given in the various practical branches of the school. Owing to the favorable location of the Hospital, the Outdoor Service and Emergency Department enjoys an unusual field of activity, a matter of great importance to the students, as they receive special training in the effective management of emergency cases. Clinics and Ward Classes are conducted by the following professors of this school and by members of the Hospital and Dispensary staff:

Surgical—Dr. Vaughan.

Medical—Drs. Adams, Morgan, Thomas, Devereaux, Roy Adams, Blackiston and Gannon.

Gynecological—Drs. Johnson and Kelley.

Diseases of the Eye and Ear—Drs. Wilmer, Dufour and Muncaster.

Diseases of Throat, Chest and Nose—Drs. Wells, Thomas and Gwynn.

Neurology—Dr. Hickling.

Dermatology—Dr. Blackiston.

Children's Hospital.

W Street between Twelfth and Thirteenth Streets, N. W.

Students may here observe the diseases, injuries, and deformities incident to infancy and childhood, together with the treatment appropriate therefor. Every facility will be given to observe and comprehend thoroughly the cases admitted to its wards. The out-patient department or dispensary is open every week day from 2.30 to 4.30 P. M. It is divided into medical and surgical services, and a service for diseases of the eye and ear. All these are free of access for medical students.

Drs. Adams and Griffith, who are on the Staff, will give clinical instruction at this hospital.

Central Dispensary and Emergency Hospital.

Fifteenth Street and Ohio Avenue, N. W.

During the last year over 15,000 patients were treated here, and over 2,200 surgical operations performed, many of capital importance. Unusual opportunities are afforded for acquiring practical experience in the ordinary duties of a physician. As a large proportion of the serious cases of accident that occur in the city are first brought to this hospital because of its central location, students become rapidly trained in the effective treatment of injuries demanding prompt assistance, and of that class of cases likely to be of the most importance to the young practitioner. Students are admitted to the services. The hospital offers excellent facilities for clinical instruction, and the ambulance service and casualty wards afford special advantages for studying traumatic and operative surgery.

The Lionel Laboratory, established in connection with the hospital, affords a fine opportunity for the study of practical bacteriology, pathology and Röntgen-ray work in association with surgery and medicine. Drs. Johnson, Magruder and Adams are on the Consulting Board.

Regular clinics are given by the following Professors of this school and other members of the staff:

Surgical—Dr. Vaughan.

Medical—Dr. J. D. Morgan.

Diseases of the Eye and Ear—Drs. Wilmer, Dufour and Muncaster.

Physical Diagnosis and Diseases of the Chest, Throat and Nose—Drs. Murray, Thomas and Wells.

Episcopal Eye, Ear and Throat Hospital.

1147 Fifteenth Street, N. W.

This Hospital affords unusual facilities for clinical teaching in the specialties for which it is especially equipped.

Ophthalmological Classes by Drs. Wilmer and Greene.

Laryngological and Otological by Dr. Wells.

Garfield Hospital.

Florida Avenue and Tenth Street, N. W.

This Hospital also affords excellent facilities for clinical teaching, being splendidly equipped with all modern appliances. Regular clinics are given.

Medical—Dr. J. D. Morgan.

Nose, Throat and Ear—Dr. W. A. Wells.

Providence Hospital.

Second and D Streets, S. E.

This Hospital has 310 beds, of which over 150 are free for medical and surgical cases. Clinics open to physicians and students of medicine are given at 12 noon, as follows: Tuesday, gynecology; Thursday, surgery and allied branches and laryngology; Saturday, internal medicine.

In all the above Hospitals, containing over 3,000 beds, the positions of Resident and Assistant Resident Physicians are open to competitive examination to graduates of this school.

In addition to the foregoing, clinics will be given by:

Dr. William A. White, Mental and Nervous Diseases, at Government Hospital for the Insane.

Dr. I. S. Stone, Gynecological, Columbia Hospital.

Dr. Wm. Sprigg, Obstetrical, Columbia Hospital.

Dr. D. Percy Hickling, Neurological, Medical and Surgical.
Washington Asylum Hospital.

Dr. John D. Thomas, Physical Diagnosis, Tuberculosis Hospital.

Examinations.

The standing of a student in any branch will be determined by combining the record of his recitations, his examinations (both written and oral), and his laboratory and clinical work.

At the end of each session examinations will be held as follows:

The First Class upon anatomy, osteology, histology, embryology, chemistry, physics, physiology and materia medica.

The Second Class upon anatomy, physiology, chemistry and toxicology, urinalysis, therapeutics, bacteriology, pathology, minor surgery.

The Third Class upon therapeutics, physical diagnosis, the practice of medicine, surgery, obstetrics, gynecology, general special pathology, pathology, and morbid anatomy, medical zoology, surgical pathology, mental and nervous diseases, and hygiene.

The Fourth Class upon the practice of medicine, surgery, obstetrics, gynecology, laryngology and ophthalmology, and otology, State medicine, mental and nervous diseases, dermatology, electro-therapeutics, special pathology and morbid anatomy, surgical pathology and military surgery.

Re-Examinations.

A second examination for those who have been found deficient in any of the work of the first three years will be held at the opening of the following session, and students will not be permitted to advance to higher classes if they have more than two conditions in the previous year's work after such re-examination. These conditions must be passed off before the end of the school year on which the student enters; that is to say, the conditions of the first year must be passed off before the end of the second year, and the conditions of the second year must be passed off before the end of the third year. No student will be permitted to enter the fourth year until all conditions of the third year shall have been removed.

Requirements for Graduation.

The candidate must be of good moral character and at least twenty-one years of age. He must have studied medicine not less than four years, during which he must have attended four full courses of instruction in four calendar years, each annual course to have been of not less than thirty teaching weeks' duration in some recognized medical school, the last of which shall have been delivered in this institution, and no student shall be graduated unless he shall have attained a passing grade in each and all subjects of the required curriculum.

FEES.

Matriculation (payable but once).....	$ 5.00
Tuition, each year	150.00
Graduation fee.	10.00

This includes all laboratory fees and charges for material used in practical anatomy and operative surgery. Students will, however, be required to make an annual deposit of $10.00 to cover loss, breakage or damage to the property of the school. This deposit, less the charges made against it, is refunded to the student upon his withdrawal.

FEES FOR SPECIAL STUDENTS.

Didactic lectures from each of the chairs.....	$20.00
Practical anatomy, chemistry, including material.	25.00
Didactic and laboratory course in histology, pathology or bacteriology, each.....	25.00
Operative surgery on the cadaver, per course.....	25.00

Payment of not less than one-fourth of the fees is required at the commencement of the session, the balance by January 1st ensuing.

A student repeating a course for any reason will be charged full fees for that course.

The expenses of a student during the school year, including tuition, books, board and lodging, laundry, and other incidentals, need not exceed $350.00, and $425.00 will be a liberal allowance.

Checks should be made payable to the School of Medicine, Georgetown University.

Requisites for Admission.

Candidates for admission must hereafter have a minimum preliminary education of not less than four years from an accredited High School or its equivalent. The preliminary examination will not be required of an applicant who can show that he has covered the work of such examination by furnishing an official certificate to that effect issued by a reputable literary or scientific college, academy, high school or State examining board.

Graduates in medicine are eligible for admission to the second class, and are excused from examination in the studies pertaining to the medical course of recognized institutions.

Those presenting certificates of examination for advanced standing from other reputable dental colleges of equal requirements will be admitted to the corresponding higher class without further examination.

Students applying for admission later than ten days after the opening day of the session cannot be credited with a full course unless such delay is due to sickness, which must be vouched for by the certificate of a reputable practicing physician. In such case the date of admission shall not be later than twenty days from the opening day.

Methods of Instruction.

The course of instruction will consist of clinical and illustrated lectures, recitations, demonstrations, dissecting and laboratory work, and clinical instructions. The number of students taken in each class allows each member to come into close contact with the professors and insures the most thorough individual instruction. The Dental Laboratory is fully equipped with electrical lathes, furnaces, rolling mill, vulcanizers, celluloid apparatus, lockers, etc. Here the student receives his first instruction. Every process of value known to mechanical dentistry is taught in this department.

Demonstration by the instructors begins with taking impressions of the mouth by the use of the several materials employed for that purpose. The instruction, in its progress, includes consideration of the construction of artificial dentures and obturators in all their wide variety.

THE CLINICAL DEPARTMENT OR INFIRMARY consists of large operating-rooms, supplied with all the latest equipments. The chairs are so arranged as to command the best light. There is a separate room for the administration of anesthetics for the extraction of teeth; also for taking impressions, occlusions, and doing work requiring the use of plaster or wax.

There is also a department of Oral Surgery attached to the Georgetown University Hospital, where students have the privilege of witnessing all the operations pertaining to cleft palate, hare-lip, fractured maxilla, empyema of antrum, etc. Both infirmaries are under the immediate and continuous direction of a corps of competent demonstrators, who are ready to instruct and assist the students in their work. In these departments the student is taught the art of operative and prosthetic dentistry. The press of patients is very great, and the opportunities for practice is excellent. The student not only witnesses every kind of dental manipulation as practiced by the experienced operator, but is himself taught to accomplish all that pertains to the daily duties of a dental surgeon by actual practice.

This intimate union of theoretical and practical instruction will be insisted on during the entire session.

NO STUDENT WILL BE ALLOWED TO OPERATE IN THE INFIRMARY unless provided with the necessary instruments, a list of which may be obtained on application to the demonstrator in charge, with the exception of forceps, lathes, and vulcanizers. All expenses attending operations upon college patients are borne by the institution.

Students must continue in attendance until the close of the session in order to obtain credit for the full term.

Any student associated in any capacity in an advertising dental office will not be allowed to continue his course.

The operating-rooms of the college are open for instruction the entire year, and students are obliged to attend regularly each session during the year.

Curriculum.

The instruction embraces a graded course of three years, each course followed by examinations thereon.

Punctual attendance upon the lectures and clinics is required of all students. The Faculty reserves the right to exclude from examinations, either in course or final, any student who has been habitually absent from lectures or other exercises.

The following is a schedule of the time per week devoted to each study:

COURSE OF STUDY.

Oral Prosthesis.

PROF. SHIRLEY W. BOWLES, D. D. S., In Charge.

C. A. HAWLEY, D. D. S., Orthodontia,

J. A. WATLING, D. D. S., Metallurgy,

C. A. BAKER, D. D. S., Crown and Bridge Work.

The instruction in this department is designed to impart a knowledge of all that pertains to the construction and application of artificial dentures and other oral appliances.

The more important subjects considered are : The preparation and treatment of the mouth for artificial dentures, the taking of impressions, a system of perfect articulations, the method of constructing the different bases used for dentures, and the construction and application of obturators.

Esthetic or artistic dentistry is systematically taught and enforced. In this it is shown how dentistry may be employed for improving natural deformities and for restoring the contours of the face.

A special feature of the teaching in this department will be the exhaustive study of Crown and Bridge work. Students will be thoroughly grounded in the principles of a safe and conservative practice, so that they may clearly appreciate the indications for Crown and Bridge work. This will be accomplished by clinical instructions, as well as special demonstrations.

Careful attention will be paid to the chemistry of metals and all the materials used.

Metallurgy.

A thorough knowledge of metal used in dentistry is taught. Students are also instructed in the art of making and tempering instruments. The amalgam used in the school is made by the students under the supervision of the Professor of Metallurgy.

Orthodontia.

The treatment of irregularities of the dental arch requires great skill and judgment. Lectures upon this subject will be thoroughly practical, and the student will be taught the most approved and scientific methods of correcting these deformities. This course of teaching will be illustrated by practical cases.

Crown and Bridge Work.

In addition to the presentation of this subject under Oral Prosthesis, a technical and a clinical course will be given with special instruction in porcelain crown and bridge work.

Operative Dentistry.

PROF. H. J. ALLEN, M. D., DD. S., In Charge.

BRUCE L. TAYLOR, D. D. S., Dental Pathology.

JAMES^B T. McCLENAHAN, D. D. S., Dental Medicine and Therapeutics.

C. M. GEARHART, D. D. S., Oral Hygiene and Prophylaxis.

PROF. J. A. WATLING, D. D. S., Clinical Dentistry.

F. A. CASTEEL, D. D. S., Clinical Dentistry.

Instruction in this course presents the approved methods, appliances and materials used in filling teeth, together with the principles which form the basis of practice.

The treatment and restoration of diseased teeth and associated structures is presented from a combined mechanical and therapeutical standpoint.

These lectures are supplemented by practical instruction in the clinical operating room and laboratories by competent demonstrators and instructors.

Dental Pathology.

The histology and embryology of the teeth and surrounding parts are reviewed, and a general discussion of the diseases of the teeth and the mouth given with clinical demonstrations.

Dental Medicine and Therapeutics.

Special attention will be given to dental pharmacology and the practical application of such drugs and agents as are generally used in a dental infirmary or in actual practice.

The oral manifestations of systemic conditions will receive attention.

Oral Hygiene and Prophylaxis.

This important subject will be thoroughly presented by a series of lectures, supplemented by clinical demonstrations in the infirmary.

Operative and Prosthetic Technics.

PROF. W. N. COGAN, D. D. S., In Charge.

H. D. DAWSON, D. D. S.,

H. B. RILEY, D. D. S.,

L. M. SOLBACH, D. D. S.,

Operative Technics.

F. A. CASTEEL, D. D. S.,

C. H. MONROE, D. D. S.,

Prosthetic Technics.

This course, while of importance to all new students, possesses especial value to such as have not had the advantage of office pupilage and laboratory work before entering college. It combines the features of manual training and exact observation, enabling the student to become familiar with the forms and tissues of the teeth, and to acquire a certain dexterity in the use of instruments before operating upon the living subject.

Oral Surgery.

PROF. WALTER D. WEBB, Major and Surgeon, U. S. A., Re'd.

Oral surgery is a specialty which is a distinct outgrowth from dentistry. As the work of the dentist came to include operations upon the surrounding tissues, as well as upon the teeth themselves, the adoption of surgical methods and more thorough training in the principles and practice of surgery became necessary. The addition of instruction in this branch to the dental curriculum includes thorough instruction in the most advanced methods of operative technic, surgical anesthesia, asepsis, and antisepsis, and after-treatment of the case.

The instruction is both didactic and clinical, and students are encouraged to study and treat personally cases under the supervision of the Professor of Oral Surgery and his assistants.

Anatomy.

PROF. FRANK BAKER, M. D., PH. D., In Charge.

JOHN CONSTAS, M. D., Demonstrator of Anatomy.

JOHN A. FOOTE, M. D., Instructor in Histology.

B. L. TAYLOR, D. D. S., Instructor in Dental Histology.

PRENTISS WILLSON, M. D., Instructor in Osteology.

General anatomy will be thoroughly taught by this chair in the most careful manner. Models, plates, and the cadaver are abundantly supplied for the proper illustration of this subject. Special attention will be given to the descriptive anatomy of the head, face, neck and oral cavity.

The demonstrator of practical anatomy will have charge of the class in the dissecting room, where dissecting material will be supplied in abundance.

Dental Histology.

The lectures on this subject include the comparative anatomy and the development of the teeth and their component tissues, with the functions of dental organs, all viewed from the standpoint of the practical dental practitioner.

Physiology.

PROF. JOSEPH S. WALL, M. D., In Charge.

HENRY R. SCHREIBER, M. D., Assistant.

One of the features of the progress and developing of modern Dentistry is its closer association with the wider field of General Medicine, through recognition of the fact that the foundations of each special branch are common to all. The dental practitioner of today, therefore, must acquire a fuller knowledge of the whole organism, in order that he may the more intelligently deal with that part of it which is his immediate province. To this end the student will find, in this course, especial emphasis laid upon the fundamental principles of Physiology, while the practical application will be pointed out in lectures, recitations; and practical demonstrations.

Materia Medica and Therapeutics.

PROF. WILFRED M. BARTON, M. D., In Charge.

CHARLES I. GRIFFITH, PHARM. D., M. D., Associate.

JAMES T. MCCLENAHAN, D. D. S., Dental Medicine.

A complete course of materia medica and general therapeutics will be given by this chair, while special attention will be called to the nature and therapeutic uses of those drugs required in dentistry. Students will be given opportunities to become personally familiar with the physical properties of drugs, the compounding of prescriptions, and the methods of applying topical remedies.

In this course the student will be made familiar with the different agents used to accomplish anesthesia, the contra-indication to their use, and practical demonstration in the infirmary of the different methods employed for the administration of the various anesthetics.

Chemistry and Toxicology.

PROF. JOHN D. HIRD, A. M., M. D., In Charge.

It will be the aim of the professor of this chair to give an accurate knowledge of the principles of the science, dwelling especially upon those points which are of peculiar interest to the dental student. Careful attention will be paid to the vital chemistry of anesthetics, and the special chemistry of the mouth, the stomach, and intestinal tract.

Pathology and Bacteriology.

PROF. EDWIN B. BEHREND, A. B., M. D., In Charge.

RALPH A. HAMILTON, M. D., Associate.

The study of these important subjects is obligatory. This has been made necessary on account of their close relationship to dental pathology and therapeutics. The instructions are principally practical, and embrace full laboratory teaching of the most important subjects of these studies.

Physics.

PROF. FRANCIS A. S. TONDORF, S. J.

A course in the elements of physics, with special reference to their application to medicine and dentistry, will be given during the first year.

Graduation.

At the close of the third year a student who has passed all examinations satisfactorily receives the degree of Doctor of Dental Surgery (D. D. S.) on the following conditions:

Candidate must be of age and of good moral character.

Candidate must have passed a satisfactory examination in all the branches of the curriculum; must have attended the practical instruction in all departments, and the last course of instruction must have been at this college.

Candidates must sign an agreement with the Dean to live up to the ethics of the profession.

The examinations are conducted orally and in writing, and are held at the middle and close of each term, thus dividing the strain upon the student.

Prior to such examinations specimens of operations upon the natural organs performed in the Dental Infirmary must be exhibited to the Professor of Operative Dentistry, and such other specimen work as he may require; also an approved specimen of dental mechanism constructed in the Dental Laboratory upon a model of practical use must be submitted to the Professor of Oral Prosthesis.

No student will be admitted to examination for advancement or graduation until all indebtedness for instruction shall have been paid.

FEES.

Matriculation (payable but once)	$ 5.00
Tuition, each year	125.00
Graduation Fee	10.00

Students will be required to make an annual deposit of $10.00 to cover loss, breakage or damage to the property of the school. This deposit, less the charges made against it, is refunded to the student upon his withdrawal.

A student repeating a course will be charged full fees for that course.

Payment of not less than one-fourth of the fees is required at the commencement of the session, the balance by January 1st ensuing. This payment must be made upon registration, and students will not be admitted for re-examination without previous registration.

The expenses of a student during the eight months, including tuition, books, board and lodging, laundry and other incidentals need not exceed $350.00, and $425.00 will be a liberal allowance.

On General Practice and Exercises in Pleading and Evidence.

Georgetown University School of Law.

Of the great advantages offered by a Law School over the unassisted reading of a student in a law office there can be no question. Here, however, the experiment has been successfully made of uniting the advantages of the two. The lectures are held in the evening; and, so far as practicable, students who put themselves into timely communication with the Secretary are connected with the offices of the ablest lawyers of the city, where they are allowed to familiarize themselves with the conduct of business and the practical duties of the profession.

The holding of the lectures and other exercises in the evening also enables clerks in the various departments of the Government, and other persons who are engaged during the day, to avail themselves of the privileges of the School.

The site of the institution, at the Capital of the Nation, presents advantages for the study of American jurisprudence which are unequaled elsewhere, and must always remain so.

The Law Library at the United States Capitol contains over 100,000 volumes, embracing all the noted treatises, reports and periodicals, ancient and modern, American, English and of the nations of Continental Europe. By the operation of the copyright law and the outlay of an annual appropriation it is constantly enriched with new acquisitions, and it is believed to be kept in a state of completeness unrivaled among the law libraries of the world. The magnificent collection is freely open to students seven hours daily.

Congress, the Court of Claims, the Supreme Court of the United States, and the Court of Appeals of the District of Columbia are in session during several months of each school year, and, with the Executive Departments, especially the Patent, Pension, and General Land Offices, furnish advantages or professional study nowhere else enjoyed.

The Supreme Court of the District of Columbia has the common law, equity, criminal and probate jurisdiction of a State Court in the States, besides that of the Circuit and District Court of the United States. Its sessions afford the students opportunities for hearing the forensic arguments and forming the acquaintance of the leaders of the American Bar from all parts of the Union, besides thoroughly familiarizing himself with the practice of these various courts.

Cost of Boarding, Etc.

There is no boarding department connected with the Law School. The majority of the law students board in Washington City, where the Law School is located, and where the cost of comfortable lodging, board, fuel and gas varies from $20 to $30 per month, according to the location and appointments selected. Satisfactory accommodation can easily be had at $25 per month, and there are every year students who provide for themselves comfortably at a cost of $20 per month and even less. Tuition is $100 per annum, with no incidental charges except a library fee of $2 per annum and a diploma fee of $10 upon graduation. Cost of text-books is about $30 per annum. The Law School Session is eight months. The necessary expense for board, lodging, tuition, books, etc., per annum, is therefore about $350, exclusive, of course, of clothing and general incidental expenses.

Students.

Students desiring to become members of the School enter their names upon the Secretary's register at or before the opening of the term in October. Candidates for a degree must have received a high school education, or its equivalent, evidence of which must be presented or a preliminary examination will be required.

Candidates for advanced standing, i. e., those desiring to complete the course in less time than the regular curriculum of three years, must, at the time of entry, present certificates of previous study at some approved Law School, or under the direction of a reputable practitioner. Such certificate must show, moreover, that the candidate has passed a satisfactory examination upon the subjects embraced in the First, or the First and Second Years, as the case may be, otherwise an examination will be necessary before he can enter an advanced class.

This examination will always be required of those whose study has been carried on under the direction of a practitioner, but in no case will a candidate for advanced standing, who has studied under a practitioner, be admitted to a higher class than the Second Year Class.

Course of Study.

The regular curriculum will cover a period of three years, divided into a First, Second, and Third Year. Upon the successful completion of the Three Years' Course the student will be entitled to receive the degree of Bachelor of Laws.

Regular and punctual attendance on the part of the student is required, as also preparation for thorough recitations in class daily, and delinquency in either particular will be deemed a sufficient cause for refusing to grant a degree.

Candidates for a degree must have been in regular attendance for at least one year, and must pass a satisfactory examination on the entire year's course of study.

The following is the course of study pursued in the Law School:

First Year.

FIRST TERM.

Criminal Law, Professor Wright, Clark on Criminal Law.
Personal Property, Professor Colbert, Darlington on Personal Property.

Elementary Law, Professor Douglas, Smith on Elementary Law.

Patent Law and Practice, Professor McGill.

Special attention is called to the fact that the regular attendance of the students, at every recitation, is expected and required, and that an average of 70 per cent must be attained in each subject for students to advance with their classes, or to receive their degree, as the case may be.

Each text-book in the course of study is made the subject of a written examination, upon, or shortly after its completion. Students passing satisfactorily upon the subjects of those examinations will not be required to stand a second examination upon them during the year. A satisfactory examination means an attainment by the student of at least 70 per cent in the written examination.

Those students of the Third Year Class who failed to attain this average in two subjects of the year's assignment will not be allowed to receive their degree, and will not be entitled to a re-examination.

Patent Law and Practice.

For the benefit of those who wish to specialize patent law a complete course of practice is open to students of the Third and Fourth Year Classes, and also to members of the bar and graduates of approved law schools.

This course extends throughout the entire year, with two sessions each week. It includes a series of lectures and quizzes on the organization of the Federal Courts and especially their jurisdiction in patent causes; and the preparation and trial of causes, with the view of familiarizing the student with patent procedure, special attention being given to the subject of injunctions.

Students are required to prepare papers and take part in the argument of causes; and to particularly study and report upon controlling cases dealing with questions of practice.

Inasmuch as this course gives the student a thorough training in equity procedure, attendance upon the Practice Court work by students of the Third Year Class will be excused.

For students of the Third and Fourth Year classes there is no extra charge; for all others the fee is $40.

The Practice Court.

Especial painstaking effort has been devoted, with gratifying results, to perfecting such an organization of the Practice Court as would render that adjunct of the School not merely a forum for the argument of mooted questions of law, but a useful and efficient training school for the practical duties of the profession.

As now organized the Court is divided into a Circuit Court and a Court of Appeals.

The Circuit Court, under the charge of Mr. D. W. O'Donoghue and Mr. J. S. Easby-Smith, holds two sessions weekly, known as the Special and the Regular Term. At the Special Term motions, demurrers, pleas in equity, and all proceedings of an interlocutory or preliminary nature which, in actual practice, ordinarily precede the final hearing upon the merits of the case, are heard and disposed of, while at the Regular Term such proceedings are had as usually characterize the final hearing of causes in Courts of the first instance. The practice conforms to that of the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia, with pleadings as at common law.

The Court of Appeals, to which causes may be removed from the Circuit Court by writ of error or appeal conformably to the practice of the United States Supreme Court, is held by Messrs. Leigh Robinson and J. Nota McGill, and sits monthly, or oftener, as the work before it may require.

While the students in the Third Year Course are required to take the leading part in the exercises of the Moot Court, it will continue to be the endeavor of the Faculty to make the Court, as in the past, a training school for all the students, as their progress warrants, in pleading, practice and forensic debate.

Library and Reading Room.

A carefully selected Library, comprising the latest editions of the standard text-books, and the leading reports, has been provided for the accommodation and convenience of students in a well-lighted and suitably appointed suite of rooms in the Law Building set apart exclusively for the purpose. These rooms are open to students and alumni of the School at all hours of the day and evening. For the maintenance and improvement of the Library a Fee of $2 per annum is charged to each student. This fee becomes due and payable at the time of registration.

Prizes.

The following prizes are offered for the competition of the students in the several classes:

1st. A cash prize of $50 to the member of the First Year Class maintaining the best average in recitations and examinations during the year.

2d. A cash prize of $25 to the member of the First Year Class maintaining the second best average in recitations and examinations during the year.

3d. A cash prize of $50 to the member of the Second Year Class maintaining the best average in recitations and examinations during the year.

4th. A cash prize of $25 to the member of the Second Year Class maintaining the second best average in recitations and examinations during the year.

5th. A cash prize of $75 to the member of the Third Year Class maintaining the best average in recitations and examinations during the year.

6th. A cash prize of $40 to the member of the Third Year Class maintaining the second best average in recitations and examinations during the year.

7th. A cash prize of $40 to the author of the best essay upon any legal subject, among the members of the Third Year Class.

8th. A cash prize of $40 to the author of the best essay upon any legal subject, among the members of the Fourth Year Class.

9th. A prize donated by T. and J. W. Johnson & Co., of Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, of a set of "Smith's Leading Cases," to the author of the best essay upon any legal subject, among the members of the Third and Fourth Year Classes.

10th. A prize, donated by the Edward Thompson Company, of Northport, Long Island, New York, of a set of the Encyclopedia of Pleading and Practice, or a set of the First Edition Encyclopedia of Law, or a set of the Second Edition Encyclopedia of Law (as the student may elect), to the member of the Third Year Class who shall write the best thesis on some legal subject, to be assigned by the Faculty.

11th. A prize, donated by the American Law Book Company, of New York, consisting of the first thirteen volumes of the "Cyclopedia of Law and Procedure," to the member of the Fourth Year Class who shall write the best graduation thesis, on a legal subject, to be assigned by the Faculty.

Debating.

Realizing the benefit derived from public speaking and extemporaneous debate, the Faculty have decided to award, during the ensuing scholastic year, a series of prizes to be contested for by members of the debating societies conducted by the student body. There will be four preliminary debates during the year and the best debater in each of such contests will be awarded a cash prize of $25, in addition to which the four so chosen will participate in a final debate, the one selected by the judges as the best debater to be awarded a cash prize of $50.

Fourth Year or Post-Graduate Course.

Students who have completed the foregoing three years' course, and holders of the degree of Bachelor of Laws, will, upon the successful completion of this course, be entitled to receive the degree of Master of Laws.

The principal subjects included in this course are as follows:

The History of the Development of Law, tracing its Origin and Development from Ancient to Modern Times; the History of English Law; the History of Constitutional Law and the Foundations of Civil Liberty; Natural Law; Canon Law; Civil Law; International Law and Foreign Relations of the United States; Admiralty and Maritime Law; the Conflict of Laws, especially as affecting the subjects of Domicile, Citizenship, Residence, Marriage and Divorce, Parent and Child, Guardian and Ward, Interest and Usury, Deeds and other Contracts, Wills, the Administration of Estates of Decedents, Receivers, etc.; Special Tort Law, including Trusts and other Combinations; Railroad Accident Law, etc.; Special Contract Law, including Fire and Life Insurance; Contracts of Carriers; Statute of Frauds; the Statute of Limitations, etc.; Special Real Estate Law, including Water and Water-courses; Fixtures; Easements, etc.; Patent Law, including the General Principles of the Patent Statutes and Procedure before the Patent Office and Federal Courts; Jurisdiction of the United States Courts; the Conflict of Jurisdiction; Practice, Transportation as affected by the Inter-State Commerce Law; Estoppel; Medical Jurisprudence; Legal Ethics.

Besides these subjects the Faculty has conceded to establish practical exercises in General Practice, Pleading and Evidence. In this course the student will be required to draft, not only the different pleadings, both Law and Equity, and all motions incident to practice in both Courts, but contracts, deeds, leases and other papers which come within the practice of the general practitioner. Questions arising on the pleadings prepared by the students will be argued by all of them, and questions of evidence will be put to all the class, and, after proper preparation, every student will be expected to argue, either in favor of or against the admissibility of the evidence, as he may be called upon by the Lecturer in charge; likewise questions embracing the rule of evidence under consideration will be put without notice to the students, in order not only to illustrate the subject under consideration, but to teach the student to apply the rules of evidence in exactly the same manner as they are applied by the lawyer in the trial of a cause.

It is intended by these exercises that the student gain a practical knowledge which will aid him materially in entering upon the practice of the law.

Lectures on special subjects will be delivered occasionally throughout the year by lawyers and educators of national reputation.

The arrangement of the subjects in this course and the hours of delivery of the lectures will be announced at the commencement of the first term.

Text-Books.

Minor on the Conflict of Laws; Baldwin on Railway Law; Curtis on Jurisdiction of United States Courts; Sohn's Principles of Roman Law and Sharswood's Legal Ethics.

Leading cases upon the several subjects will be assigned by the lecturers to be read in connection with the lectures.

As a prerequisite to graduation students in this course will be required not only to pass a satisfactory examination on the entire year's course of study, but also to submit a satisfactory thesis upon a legal subject to be selected and announced by the Faculty.

Lecture Students.

Those who wish to avail themselves of the lectures delivered at this School without being subject to recitations or being candidates for a degree may do so upon payment of one-half of the regular charge for tuition.

System of Instruction.

The system of instruction adopted by the Georgetown Law School is as follows: A lesson, averaging from thirty to forty pages of the text book, is assigned in advance, which the student is expected to master as thoroughly as he can before the lecture hour. The lecturer then goes over the ground covered by the text, explaining what is obscure or difficult, pointing out the application in practice of the principles treated of, and illustrating, by examples, their application in actual cases. Then follows the recitation in which the lesson is gone over in the shape of questions accompanied by oral exposition on the assigned work, under the direction of an instructor, requiring the students to reproduce in their own language all that it contains, with practical applications of the doctrines learned to supposed cases. The student thus has three opportunities of becoming familiar, theoretically and practically, with each topic treated in the course: once by careful study of the text, a second time by the explanation of it in the lecture, and once again by himself reproducing and practically applying the principles thus taught, in the oral recitation. This system has been found, after careful and painstaking test, most satisfactory to both teacher and student, and productive of highest standard of proficiency in study. It is believed to be absolutely the best.

Terms.

The charge for attendance in the First, Second and Third Year is One Hundred Dollars per annum. As far as payment of tuition is concerned the collegiate year is regarded as divided into two equal terms, beginning on the first Wednesday in October and February, respectively, and one-half the annual charge becomes due and payable on the following day, Thursday. For the accommodation of students the Secretary will, when requested, receive monthly payments, strictly in advance.

Tuition in the Fourth or Post-Graduate Course is also One Hundred Dollars per annum, payable semi-annually, or in monthly installments in advance, and a library fee of $2 per annum, payable at the time of registration.

Persons enrolling their names as students will be considered as having entered the school for not less than one term unless an express agreement to the contrary is made. Payment will not be received for less than one full month, nor can any deduction be made for absence.

For attendance on Lectures, as hereinbefore stated, the charge is Fifty Dollars per annum, payable in monthly installments in advance.

The fee for Graduation, which is additional to the yearly charge for attendance, and which includes all expenses of the annual commencement, is Ten Dollars.
